

Minnesota National Guard
2004 Annual Report

Heroes from within

Comments from the Adjutant General

Major General Larry Shellito

Governor Tim Pawlenty

To the Citizens of Minnesota -

The operations tempo of 2004 has been unmatched since the deployments of World War II. The Minnesota National Guard's 12,800 airmen and soldiers have been called upon to serve our state and nation during the Global War On Terrorism. Since 9/11/01 over 5,950 Minnesota National Guard airmen and soldiers have served in 30 different countries. This past year alone, over 1,600 troops were deployed while concurrently over 3,100 were welcomed back home from overseas assignments.

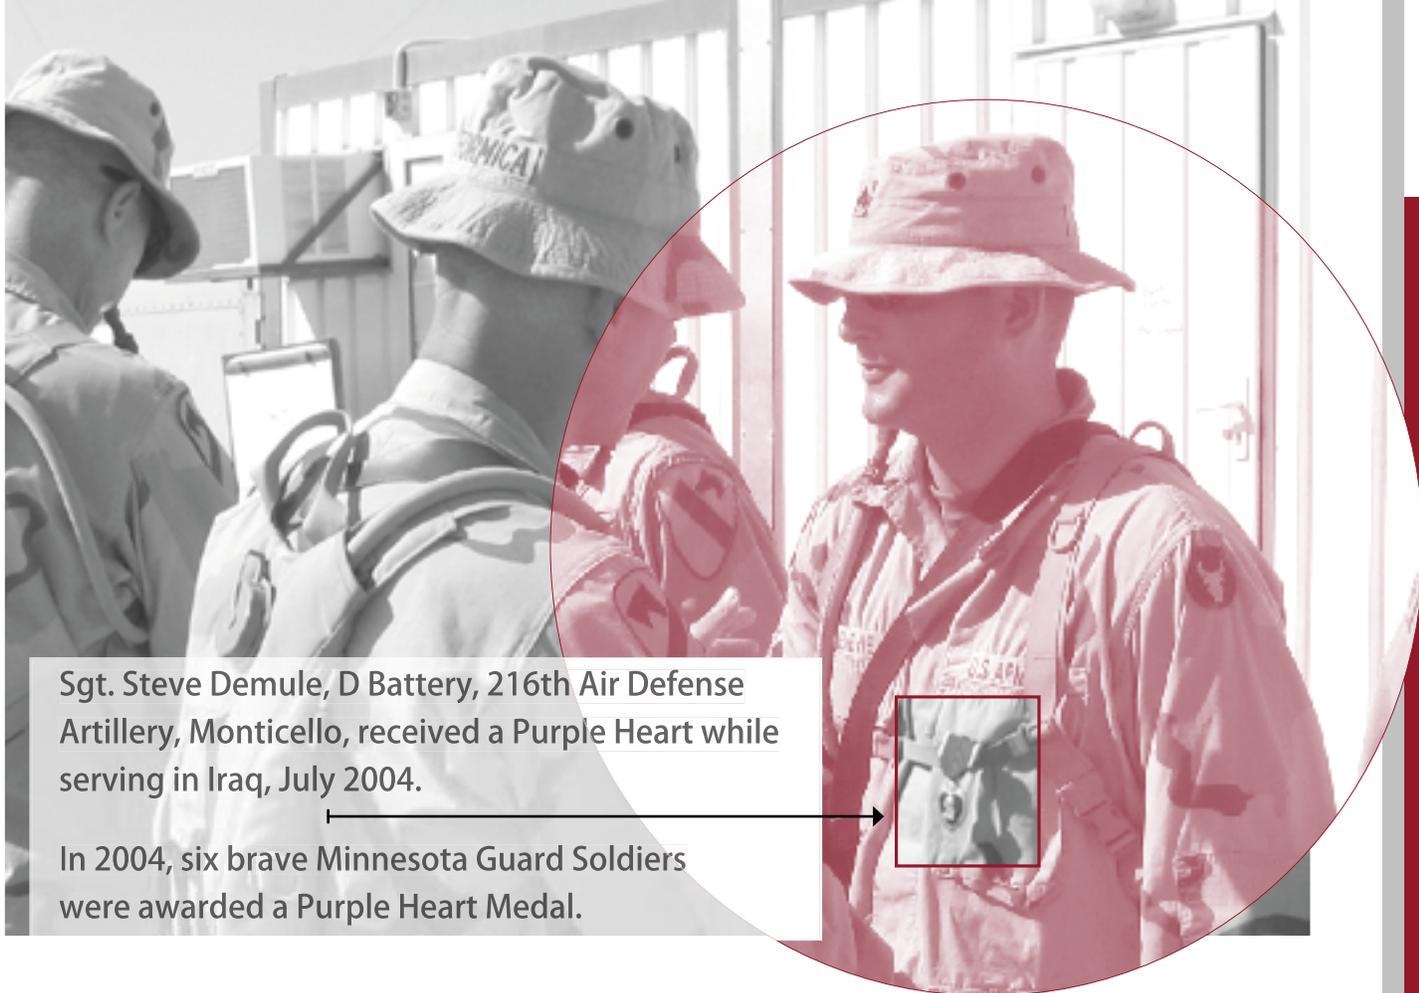

As Minnesota's Adjutant General, I am proud to report that the men and women of the Minnesota National Guard have performed magnificently. They are truly committed to the values of our great state and nation. I want to especially thank Governor and First Lady Pawlenty for their commitment. The support and empathy they have given to the families and employers of our service members has been exemplary. Their presence at deployment ceremonies is instrumental in assuring family members that the full support of the State of Minnesota is behind their loved ones.

As you review this report you will gain an appreciation for the dedication and commitment of the members of the Minnesota National Guard. Their accomplishments are exceptional, enabling the Minnesota National Guard to receive the highest award given by the National Guard for excellence. The Army Communities of Excellence award exemplifies the dedication and commitment to quality and continuous improvement. More importantly it has been foundational in insuring our deploying airmen and soldiers have been properly trained and are prepared to face the demanding challenges they will experience. This report will show that the Minnesota National Guard is truly a collection of heroes.

This annual report is a snapshot of the Minnesota National Guard for a given period of time. It is our report card to the leadership of our state and nation. More importantly, it serves as a springboard for our continuous improvement towards building an even better organization. The future for the Minnesota National Guard will truly be dynamic. Transformation of both the Army and Air elements will make the next decade one of continued challenges. I am confident, however, that the foundation laid by today's airmen and soldiers is solid and the Minnesota National Guard's future will continue to be one of excellence.

Minnesota National Guard Overview

Joint Units

The 55th Civil Support Team trained for speed and accuracy.

Joint Force Headquarters. In October, 2003, the Minnesota National Guard combined its separate Air and Army Guard Headquarters into one joint command entity. The Joint Force Headquarters staff is responsible for the overall leadership of the Guard, as well as the oversight of administrative, personnel, intelligence, operational planning, logistics, civil-military affairs, information technology, legislative affairs, public information and financial functions.

Homeland Security. One of the primary accomplishments of 2004 has been enhancements to Minnesota's homeland security capabilities. The formation of a 175-soldier Quick Reaction Force, the assembly of a specially trained critical infrastructure assessment team, and the establishment of a 24-hour Watch Station are specific examples of how the Minnesota National Guard is committed to fighting threats at home. The 55th Civil Support Team remains Minnesota's high-tech weapons of mass destruction response unit.

Camp Ripley has ranges from M-16 rifles to M1-A1 Abram Tanks.

Camp Ripley. The state-owned 53,000 acre Camp Ripley is a multi-faceted training center that balances the needs of the military, state agencies, and communities statewide. Camp Ripley serves as a world-class military training center for all branches and components of service. Minnesota State Agencies also rely on Camp Ripley's exceptional facilities for training. Community interests across the spectrum of Minnesota life utilize Camp Ripley for its resources, expertise, and commitment to environmental stewardship.

Army Units

Company C, 142nd Engineers built infrastructures in Iraq.

34th Infantry Division. Minnesota's "Red Bulls" are routinely recognized as the best Division-sized unit in the National Guard structure. Over 9,000 Soldiers strong in Minnesota, the 34th Infantry Division is living up to its proud history by serving gallantly in the Global War on Terror. Nearly 2,000 "Red Bulls" distinguished themselves in 2003 and 2004 by carrying out challenging peacekeeping missions in Bosnia and Kosovo.

84th Troop Command. Composed of vital and unique specialty elements, the 84th Troop Command has contributed Soldiers to all major military operations in 2004. Units from the 84th Troop Command were among the first to be called for Operation Iraqi Freedom, and nearly 150 Soldiers from the 84th Troop Command returned from the first Iraq troop rotation in 2004.

Air Units

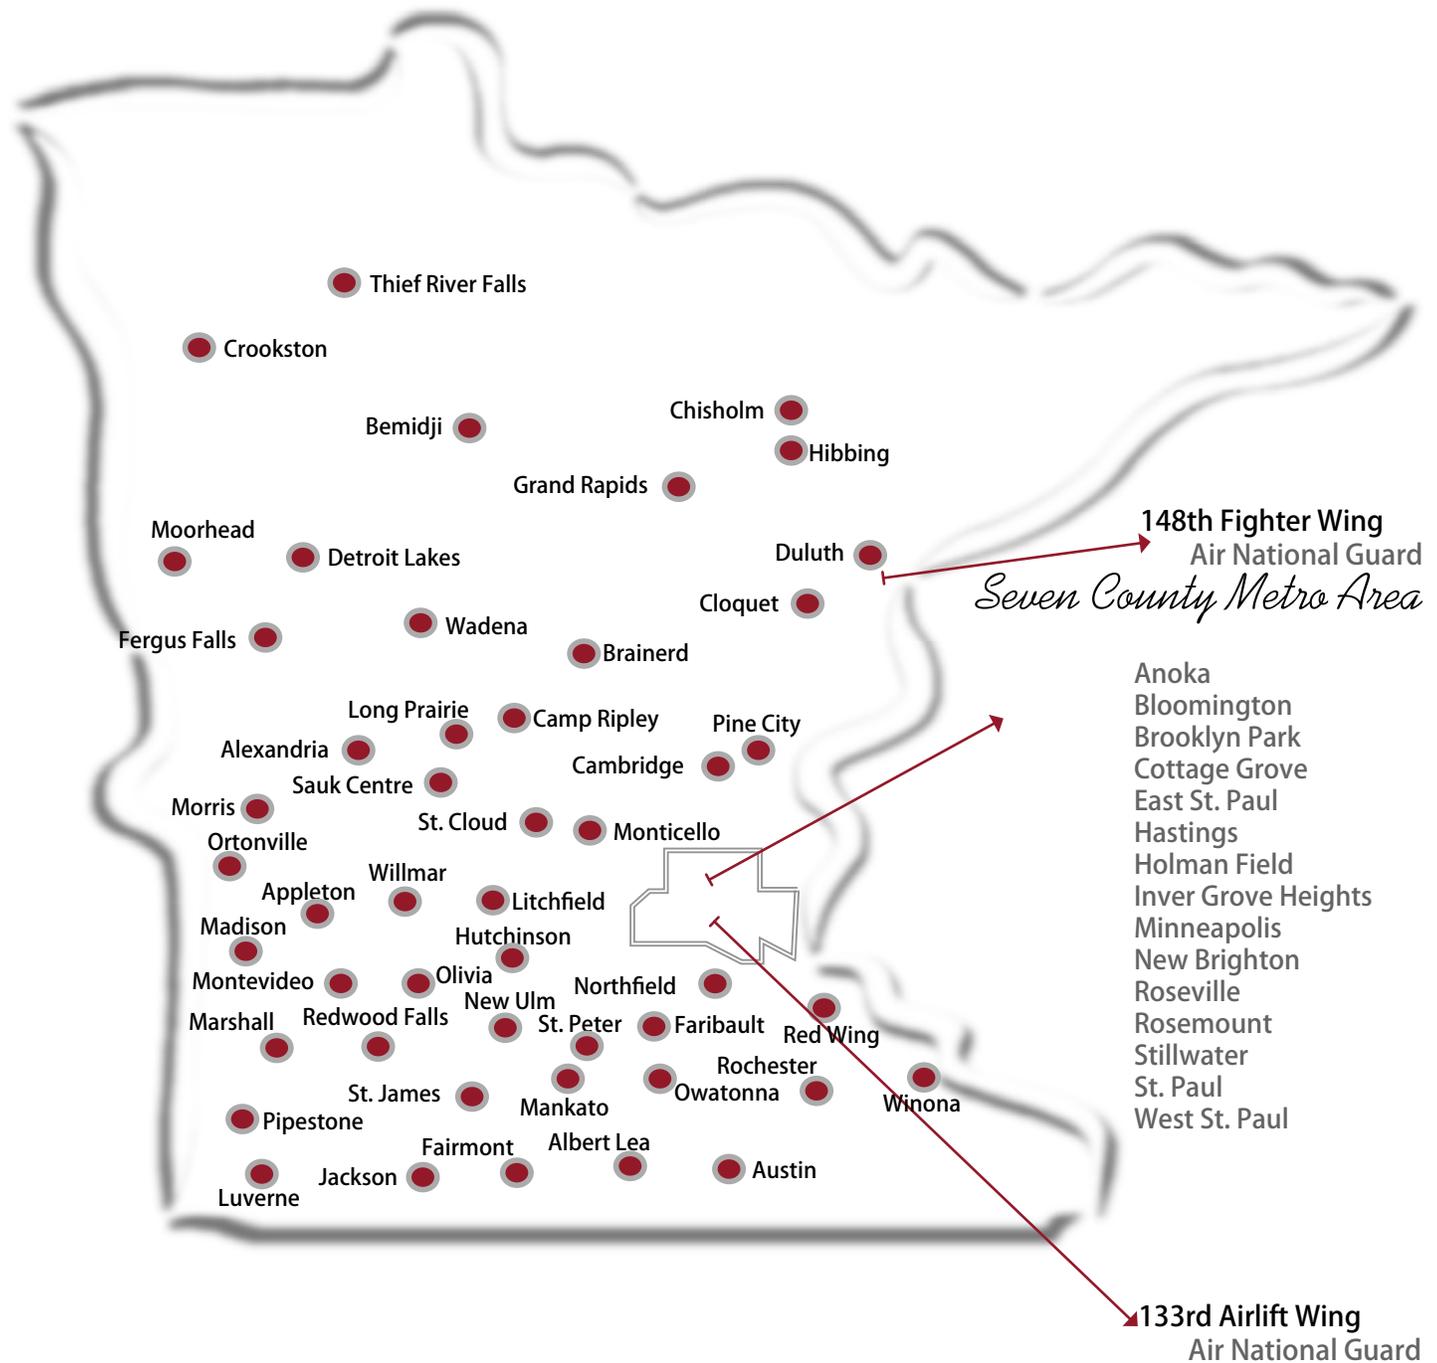

133rd AW's C-130 flew side-by-side the 148th FW's F-16.

133rd Airlift Wing. The C-130 H3 cargo planes of the 133rd Airlift Wing have become a regular contributor to the success of military campaigns throughout 2004. Pilots and crews of the 133rd Airlift Wing have bravely hauled cargo, material, medical capability, equipment and personnel into and out of hostile zones.

148th Fighter Wing. After nearly a year of re-fitting and training, the Duluth-based 148th Fighter Wing is fully operational in the upgraded F-16 C model fighter jets. Pilots and crew of the 148th Fighter Wing are regularly on stand-by in order to scramble at a moment's notice to intercept aerial threats.

Minnesota National Guard Facilities

// Sixty-three training facilities are located around the state to shorten the response time in case of state emergencies, as well as to efficiently train over 12,800 soldiers and airmen in metropolitan and rural communities. //

State Mission

The Minnesota National Guard

served for over 1,195 days of state active duty as requested by Governor Tim Pawlenty for Civil Support Team missions, homeland security, natural disasters, and missing persons searches. The “state mission” is what sets the National Guard apart from other military organizations.

Soldiers from A Company, 2nd Battalion, 135th Infantry patrol outside Prairie Island Nuclear Power Plant.

Community Mission

Senator Mark Dayton visited family members of deployed soldiers to discuss their current situations and to thank them for their service and support.

The Guard is America’s community-based defense force, located in more than 2,700 cities and towns, including 63 communities in Minnesota.

The Minnesota National Guard takes its community mission very seriously. Guard members are encouraged to volunteer four hours per year during a training weekend. In 2004, the Guard contributed over 34,567 hours to their local communities.

STARBASE: The Minnesota National Guard values youth education and has been a strong supporter of STARBASE. STARBASE Minnesota is a nonprofit organization with a mission to increase the knowledge, skills, and interests of inner city youth in science, mathematics, and technology for greater academic and lifelong success.

The Minnesota Air National Guard, Minnesota Army National Guard Aviation Facility, Minnesota Air National Guard Museum, in partnership with Northwest Airlines provide “real world” applications in aerospace curriculum to students who attend inner city schools in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

FACT: In the 2003-2004 school year, STARBASE reached 2,662 students in grades 4, 6, and 8, from over 35 schools in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Counterdrug Program: The Minnesota National Guard supports law enforcement agencies in order to counter the flow of illegal drugs. The Guard provides assistance with aerial and ground reconnaissance and surveillance; data analyst support; Ion Scan technology; specialized law enforcement training, facilities, and materials. They also work with schools, law enforcement, and community-based organizations to support local prevention efforts.

FACT: During 2004, the Guard assisted in seizing more than $14 million in drugs, weapons, and vehicles associated with drug trafficking. In addition, the Guard’s demand reduction programs reached nearly 22,000 Minnesota youth with anti-drug messages.

Family Assistance Centers: The Guard provides Family Assistance Centers throughout the state to support families of deployed military personnel.

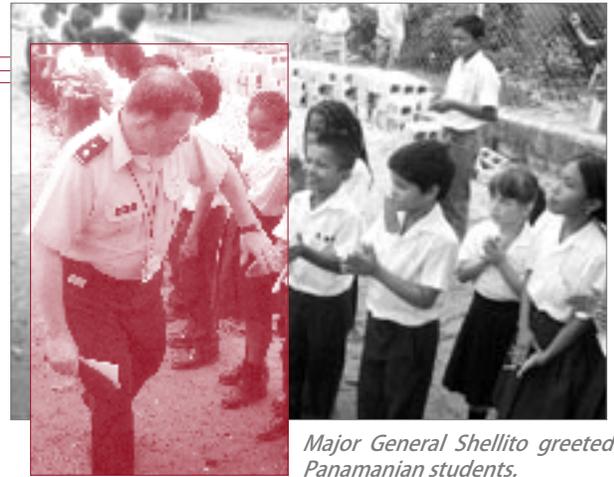

FACT: In the past year, these centers handled more than 34,500 calls and emails from families of activated members of the Guard, Reserve, and Active Duty military living in Minnesota, to assist with issues such as TRICARE, benefits, pay, legal matters, financial counseling and training, emergency assistance coordination, and family support groups.

FACT: Family Assistance Centers also coordinated extensive donations from the community including 1,400 donated meals, over $100,000 in tickets from professional sports teams and entertainers, and over 3,000 telephone calling cards.

Minnesota Guard History 1850-2004

The Minnesota National Guard takes great pride in being a vibrant participant in shaping Minnesota's history. Since the days before statehood, the National Guard has embraced whatever role history would unveil: protector of settlers, guardian of freedom; provider of relief; peacekeeper to nations; or homeland defender.

The Territorial Militia ushered in the advent of the Minnesota National Guard in 1850. Charged with protecting the interests of settlers, the Minnesota Pioneer Guards were formed in 1856. Minnesota's frontier was ably protected by these militiamen; in fact, local Guard units served as the only line of defense during the Dakota (Sioux) War of 1862.

The Minnesota National Guard distinguished itself during the Civil War. The "First Minnesota" is recognized as the first regiment to volunteer troops in service for the Union cause, consequently becoming a legend within the Army of the Potomac as a result of its gallant charge at Gettysburg on July 2, 1863.

As the United States transformed into a first-rate military power, so too did the Minnesota National Guard. Minnesota National Guard troops saw service in the Spanish American War, Mexican Border Patrol, and World War I. The addition of the 109th Aerial Observation squadron brought to Minnesota the first recognized flying unit in the National Guard in 1921.

World War II spotlighted the Minnesota National Guard's excellence and commitment to victory. The annals of the Minnesota Guard's combat lineage in World War II are legendary: the 34th Red Bull Infantry Division in North Africa; the 175th Field Artillery in Italy; the 194th Tank Battalion at Bataan; and the 109th Observation Squadron in Europe.

War in Asia and Europe during the latter half of the 20th Century provided other venues for the Minnesota National Guard to answer the Nation's call: Korea; Berlin; Vietnam; the Persian Gulf, and the Balkans. This capable and versatile force performed admirably, all the while responding to state activations such as fires, floods, tornadoes, missing persons searches, and homeland defense.

It has been said that the best indicator of future potential lies in past performance. If that is the case, then the Minnesota National Guard is postured for continued success. The attacks of 9/11 brought an unprecedented need for military forces, and the Minnesota National Guard has again responded to the call to arms to fight the Global War on Terror.

Minnesota National Guard

Ready: Answering the call.

Relevant: Serving our communities, state and nation.

Reliable: Working side-by-side with the Army and Air Force.

Guardsmen and women continue to proudly serve in the Global War on Terror. Over 4,600 Minnesota Soldiers and Airmen have made the ultimate transformation when they supported Operation Noble Eagle, Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom in 2004. They transformed from everyday citizens to the nation's heroes.

"Every citizen [should] be a soldier. This was the case with the Greeks and the Romans, and must be that of every free state."

"And should we wonder... let us hasten to retrace our steps and to regain the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety."

- Thomas Jefferson
