Keep Watching For Pay Raise

Effective dates of a military pay increase are bouncing around like a "hot potato:." The latest indication of the effective date, according to Navy Times, does not rule out July 1.

Support for a compromise date of Oct. 1 is being examined as pressures mount against the proposed date of Jan. 1, made by the President in his budget submission.

Four major pressures having a bearing on an earlier effective date are:

The President is very much interested in postal reforms which include pay increases for postal employees this year.

Federal classified workers have a strong union which will not sit still for a postal employee pay hike this year and not one for other federal employees.

Federal employees considered blue collar DOD workers are getting a pay increase this year. A new law is not necessary to assure this as their pay hike is alread; linked to economic conditions.

The President's commission on an all volunteer force may recommend a July 1 military pay increase for junior enlisted personnel. This raise would be concurrent with the across the board raise of 7.8 percent of base pay.

If federal employees (GS schedule) receive a pay increase this year, will the military. There is a law that stipulates this.

There's no doubt Hawaii is an expensive duty station. 'Getting it on' one or two Saturday nights a month is about all anyone can afford. For the rest of the month, instead of wistfully lying around, why not try the Special Services offerings. They have personal gear for check-out ranging from cards to spear guns, plus they run fine recreational activities including stables, hobby shops, the boat house and the bowling alley. Try them.

PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM

I'd like to commend the Public Works Commission for their new incentive program. Each month PWC awards an outstanding Marine with a ten dollar bill. At the end of a three month period they name the Marine of the Quarter and make him thirty bills ricker.

RESPECT FOR COLORS

Respect for the Colors could use some improvement. In the housing area and the quarters area people tend to ignore Retreat and continue about their business. Spare a few moments and salute the flag, if only to provide an example for the young.

Again, for people in the housing area; if you have made any improvements on your house without the permission of PWC please check Housing Regulations immediately.

CURRENT TOPIC

Discharges are a current topic. Did you know that to receive an honorable discharge you must have an average 4.0 conduct mark and to reenlist you must average a 4.0 proficiency rating?

Veteran Marine From K-Bay

Throughout the history of United States Marine Corps, there has been much said about its charismatic and almost romantic charm. Leon Uris in his best-selling novel BATTLE CRY was able to capture much of the "blood and guts ro-manticism" popularized by the World War II Marine. During the 40's and 50's Hollywood was also quick to exploit this aspect. Movies such as THE SANDS OF IWO JIMA and cinema greats such as John Wayne and John Garfield were to become immediate box office sensations; for they better than anyone else, would typify the "hard-hitting", "gun-ho" spirit which was associated with the Marine Corps.

To most Marines in the present day Marine Corps World War II represents only a chapter in history. It was a war in which their fathers fought against the then powerful forces of Fascism. As the years go by, there are less and less who can remember those tense days when the freedom of America virtually hung in the balance.

In 1940 a young man by the name of Eugene McManus enlisted in the United States Corps. Like most young men of his day Eugene was very idealistic and patriotic. He felt unexplainable need to serve and to fight for his country if need be.

Eugene's career in the Marine Corps was to be remarkable one. It would span over four decades in which he would fight in two major wars and receive a great deal of praise for his valour and courage. Names such as Tarawa, Saipan, Tinian and Inchon were to become both memorable and painful to Eugene Mc-Manus.

Today, 1st Sgt. Mc-Manus is stationed here at K-Bay and attached to 1/3. In 1960 Eugene retired from the Marine Corps. However, according to his own words "he got lonely for the Corps". Therefore in 1966 he returned to active duty.

He now makes his home at K-Bay with his wife Ruth and his two sons Michael and Patrick. Strangely enough, when Eugene met his wife in San Francisco in 1945 she was then a 1st Sgt. in the Marine Corps. Not to be outdone by -their parents, Michael and Patrick also enlisted in the Marine Corps. While serving in Vietnam Patrick was twice wounded and received two purple heart citation's. The Mc-Manus' are in every sense of the word a Marine Corps family.

In many ways 1st Sgt Mc Manus and the Marine Corps are inseparable. The Marine Corps must depend on the loyalty and the dedication of its men; and there are few who are more dedicated than Eugene Mc Manus. When asked, if he had the choice would he do it all over again? First Sergeant Mc Manus stated, "Once a Marine always a Marine. When I retired from the Corps I was lonesome it. I was born and raised in this outfit and expect to die in it."

From The Reconstruction To The Spanish American War

America's Negro Servicemen

After the Civil War, the era of Reconstruction proved to be a great disappointment to both the Negro, and those in the North who wished to protect his civil rights. Rather than slavery, a system of enforced peonage was instituted in the South, For this reason, the lure of the west held a special fascination to many negroes. Negro settlers as well as whites were to travel across the great plains in search of free land and a chance to begin life anew.

The settling of the West was not an easy task; numerous Indian raids plagued black and white settlers alike. For many years the uneasy peace in the western territories was kept by the States Army, included Negro United which units - the 9th and 10th Cavalries and the 24th and 25th Infantries. They were stationed at various times from the Rio Grande to the Canadian border. They fought bandits as well as Apaches, Sioux, and Comanche. They took the field against Billy the Kid. Geronimo. Crazy Horse, and a negro chief of the Apaches named John Horse, During the Indian wars, fourteen of the black soldiers won the nation's highest military decoration, the Congressional Medal of Honor.

DOMESTIC PEACE

Towards the latter part of the nineteenth century, America's western frontier was virtually secured. Most of the western territories had become states and the once hostile Indians of the Plains and the Southwest were settled on reservations. America was now turning away from her internal affairs and focusing her attention upon the affairs of the world, In 1898 America was to become a world power in a few short months.

On the evening February 15, 1898, the battleship Maine was sunk while she laid in anchor in, Havana harbor. The sinking of the Maine with a loss of 160 white and negro sailors, brought a furious response from America. By April the United States declared war upon Spain; and the invasion of Cuba. Puerto Rico and the Philippines was imminent.

In the first war fought against a European power since the War of negroes were to reaffirm their position as able fighters and courageous soldiers. Fighting alongside the Rough Riders and Teddy Roosevelt at San Juan Hill were units of the 9th and 10th An evewitness Calvary. described how the negro "started troops the and with the charge, Rough Riders routed the Spaniards, causing them to retreat in disorder, leaving their dead and wounded behind." - 'Besides Cuba, negro units were engaged in every major battle from Puerto Rico to the Philippines.

RAISED STATURE

The Spanish - American War greatly raised the stature of the American Negro. Once again he proved that fighting ability was not restricted to color lines. After one battle a white Southerner stated, "I've changed my opinion of the colored folks, for of all the men I saw fighting, there were none to beat the Tenth Cavalry and the colored infantry at Santiago, and I don't mind saying so."

Hawaiian Sportsman

Last weekend, 16 K-Bay Rod & Gun Club members went on a pig-hunting trip to the Big Island and "came home with the bacon --- over 1,000 pounds of bacon to be exact.

HUNTED ON BIG ISLAND

Hunting northeast of the Pohakuloa training area, the hunters base-camped at Mauna Kea State Park's public lodging site. Sportsman Wayne Bethune, club hunting chairman, reports cabin rental cost each man $2.25 per night. The fee also included sheets, bedding, firewood and use of the site's spacious mess-hall.

The group arrived Friday night, set up "camp" and started hunting early Saturday morning. Sports-man Bethune "broke the ice" of Friday's 34-degree night by bagging the first pig after only 45 minutes in the woods. Later, Sportsman Heyer shot two pigs, bettering Bethune's early-morning success while Sportsmen Sprague, Smallwood and Yahr each downed one pig apiece. The club totaled six pigs for their first day's efforts.

Before heading back to camp, they regrouped, counted heads and discovered only 15 members were present. In short time they had accounted for everybody except Sportsman Sam Elliston. No one seemed to remember where they had seen or heard from him last. Aided by local resident Ed Tangle, the members formed a search party for Sam as darkness approached.

Combing the dense forestland, Tangle found two pigs hanging from a tree. Sam was no where near, though. Realizing nighttime searches are hazardous for people who are unfamiliar with the country, the searchparty decided to wait till morning to locate their 16th member.

GOT TURNED AROUND'

Meanwhile, knowing he was lost, Sam began gathering wood for a fire. He "recokened he'd got turned around somehow" and as it got darker, he decided to stay in one place and wait out the night in the woods. Finding no sign of the other members of the party, he settled down by the glowing fire and spent the night "under the stars."

With dawn, the search resumed. They found Sam. a little cold but unshaken. Sam commented to this writer, "I was okay. I hated to put those guys through all that trouble."

Sam's two pigs brought the club's total to eight for the trip. In the words of Sportsman Bethune, "It was a real outstanding trip. Next time we'll remind Sam to take his compass, though."

TRAGIC LOSS
K-Bay personnel, take note of the tragic waste occurring, as of this writing, on the northern slopes of Oahu. Due to a combination of Man's carelessness and Nature's recent dry spell, over 300 acres of valuable and beautiful forest land has been ravaged by fire. When you're hunting, camping or hiking be careful with fire, matches and cigarettes. There's never enough said to prevent this type of thing from happening.

HECK OF A HEX - Friday the 13th was anything but unlucky for (left to right) Larry Sprague of H&MS-24, George Schilling and John Hassel-back from Hickam AFB. The trio landed four mahi-mahi, ranging from 20-35 lbs. and a 20 lb. aku. These K-Bay Rod and Gun Gub members were fishing off Barber's Point out of the Charter boat Kuu Iluapala.

Bob Matias then hit a sharp grounder to third-baseman Livengood who threw to second-baseman Dave McClain forcing Phillips. McClain then threw to catcher Gary Bourgeois who nailed Chambliss, trying to score from third, at the plate. Bourgeois then threw back to McClain catching Matias trying to go to second.

MAG-24 Commemorates 28 Years Service Sunday

Marine Air Group 24 was formed in Hawaii 28 years ago at a little known place called Ewa Field, now part of the golf course at Barbers Point Naval Air Station.

On March 1, 1942, Major Ira L. Kines took command of the new Group; their first mission was to help prepare an operating airstrip at Villa, on the Island of submarine patrols and surface vessel escort.

The following September MAG-24 joined the First Marine Air Wing at Bauer Field on Efate. In November they moved to the Russell Islands with units of the Group deploying for different campaigns.

On October 1, 1944.

Scout / Bomber Group consisting of Marine Scout/Bomber Squadrons 133, 236 and 314. The Group practiced close air support in anticipation of being used with Army ground forces.

TRAINING & MAINTENANCE

During 1949, MAG-24 joined the Second Marine Aircraft Wing at Cherry Point, N.C. Although they were not engaged as a unit during the Korean conflict, the Group had the vital mission of training aircrews and maintenance personnel. However, many of its elements were in combat along with the First Marine Aircraft Wing.

In September, 1964, the Group participated in the largest peace time operation in Marine Corps history when they landed in Spain as part of Landing Force Aviation during Excercise Steel Pike I.

K-Bay Kids Take Tour

Youngsters of two kindergarten classes from Mokapu elementary school explored the big birds and other mechan ical animals of MACS-2 Motor Transport, HAMS-24 and boating facilities of Sea and Air Rescue. Shortly after the Jan. 29 tour, led by Staff Sergeant Jerry M. Walker, community lations chief, two handsome, art books arrived at the Public Affairs Office. The kids responded graphically with 52 crayon impressions inscribed (by a helpful teacher) with their reactions to the tour sights.

Reflecting upon the visit to the S&A Rescue boat (what Randy called a "saver" boat), Melanie recalled, "We saw a boat with a bathroom in it." Inside the jet, Cynthia "I saw the rareported.

The Islander

PAY DAY and another international weekend! Take the high road (the Pali) or the low road (northwest Highway 83 along the Windward shoreline) and you're going to run into an ethnic celebration.

On the Leeward side of the island - in Waipahu, ewa (away from Diamond Head) of Pearl Harbor queen candidates for the Japanese Cherry Blossom Festival will make their public appearance at 7 p.m. tonight in the Arakawa Department Store parking lot. Fifteen of the island's Japanese-Americans beauties will parade as advanced advertising for their March 19-22 International Trade Mart and Cultural Show. Bring a camera, flashes and color film - there will be Japanese entertainment:

RURAL FAIR

Also beginning today at 6 p.m. in the Field Park of Waipahu, will be a four-day Filipino rural community fair, sponsored by the United Filipino Council of Hawaii. The fair features - aside from Filipinos a Friday evening "Community Talent Round Up," the Saturday evening crowning of "Miss 1970 Community Fair' (who gets the unlikely prize of a trip from Hawaii to New York), a Sunday evening "International Night staged by East-West Center students, and a Monday evening performance of the "Society of Seven, now appearing at the Outrigger Hotel.

The Filipino came to Hawaii as a laborer after further immigration of the Japanese laborers was stopped in 1907. The Japanese genre has been here since 1885, the Chinese since 1865.

Japanese-Americans comprise 29% of Oahu's unmixed populus. Filipinos contribute 7% to the Hawaiian racial rainbow (oddly out-numbering the Chinese - remember the Narcissus Festival? - 6.4%).

And now a word (or a gesture, more appropriately) from the original islanders, the Hawaiian and his "bruddah" Samoan - hanging in there with a marginal island population of 1% and .6%, respec-

And it may well be the best activity of the week-

Three hours of authentic and traditional fishing festival and feast await you at the hukilau-luau, Saturday morning at 10:30, on Oahu's Windward north shore at Laie Bay.

Hawaiian family activities begin the day with coconut hat weaving, lei making and manufacturing of the islander's ancient quilts and medicines.

KITCHEN ACTIVITIES

Kitchen activities include poi pounding and preparation of the imu (underground oven) for the luau.

Samoans living in Laie will demonstrate firemaking, coconut husking, basket weaving, and other native knacks. You will witness also the traditional kava ceremony in which kava, a nippy ceremonial Polynesian drink is made from crushed kava root and served to the Samoan "talking chiefs."

Imu opens at 11 a.m. and emerges the steaming kalua pig, wrapped in banana leaves and roasty in its aroma.

Then comes the huki part of it. Boatmen take the nets out to sea leaving lines on both ends held by fishermen on the beach. When island fish become trapped in the ti-leaf strung nets and the time is right, visitors join in to help "huki" (pull) in the nets.

Then comes the luau part of it - and plenty to eat, Hawaiian style! Your opu (stomach) can't resist flipping in delight (or in some cases, just turning over) at the procession of delicacies served on platters of woven palm fronds: tart-sweet pineapple, kalua pig, chicken and long rice, lomi lomi sal-mon and taro served with fresh coconut. And the most unique experience in Hawaiian diet - poi.

It's a little over 30 miles from K-Bay to Laie Bay. Since there is no bus service to Laie, your, best transportation will be with someone else who owns a car. Help with gas expenses.

As for Leeward activities at Waipahu, take the Liberty Bus into Fort DeRussy and board either the 2-S or the 2-R bus on Kalakaua Avenue going ewa. Ask the bus driver to let you off at the Leeward Bus Terminal on King Street and Iwilei Road. A bus leaves hourly for a 40¢ trip into Waipahu.

Red Cross Swim Class Set For K-Bay's Youngsters

Upon° learning the favorable results of an island-wide survey of interest in learning to swim among elementary school students all over Oahu conducted by the Hawaii State Chapter of the American Red Cross, the K-Bay Field Director's Office has begun laying plans for what is hoped will be a very busy and successful season for the younger set at the Marine Air Station this year.

QUESTIONNAIRF

In a questionnaire aimed at pupils in the fifth grade level, an over-whelming 120% students from the Mokapu Elementary School on base, responded favorably indicating a decided interest in enrolling in learn-to-swim classes integrated into their morning school schedule this spring. This would mean a minimum of fourgroups of 30 students each of whom would participate in a series of 10 sessions lasting 40 minutes per morning to complete the course. Plans call for scheduling these classes between 8:30 a.m. and noon sometime between March 5 and May 20 in the base pool. Specific schedules of classes will be set as soon as determination of the availability of the pool for the desired hours has been established.

SNCO Wives News

The Staff Wives report that an old fashioned box supper will be the social of the month. It will be held Feb. 17, at the staff club.

Don't forget the bazaar on March 7, at Mokapu School.

Here's a reminder that hospital kits can be obtained from the base thrift shop. Contact Unice Johnson at 254-3247.

Mrs. Julie Hohmann, wife of Marine LtCol. William F. Hohmann, has been appointed as the volunteer Red Cross instructor in charge of this program.

To' help her conduct these sessions she will have Miss Linda Edwards of Kailua and Mrs. Lawrence (Ivy) DeRego of Lanikai as assistant instructors. Both of these charming wemen also have a fine affinity for love of teaching swimming to young chil-dren and come well qualified to the program. Mrs. DeRego often accepts paying students for private tutoring in her home pool and, along with Mrs. Hohmann is on the instructor staff of the Windward YMCA Aquatic Department.

NURSING COURSE

In connection with an earlier release regarding Red Cross volunteer recruitment and training. the Field Director's Of-fice has announced the finalization of additional schedules as to time and place of courses and events.

The Home Nursing Course which constitutes the second half of required training for ARC volunteers in the School Health Program consists of one morning session to be held on Wednesday, March 4, lasting from 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. The class, to be conducted by Mrs. Mary Ann Sanchez (home phone 488-3959) will be held at the 19th Puka Quonset Hut of the Base Headquarters, Bldg. 215, starting at 8:30 and lasting until noon. Such an orientation is normally required for all newly recruited ARC volunteers before they can be placed in their respecassignments tive throughout the base facilities.

Squaredance Club Forming

Would you like to participate in a good old fashion HOEDOWN? Did you say you're not a farmer? Well, you don't have to be "countryfied" enjoy a good squaredance.

A squaredancing club, to be called the Windward Whirlers, is now forming at K-Bay. This will be a "family affair", with a real "tarheel" doing the calling. Lessons will be given after the club is organized.

Dances will be held at the Teen Club and refreshments will be serv-

Any active or retired military personnel can join. Their dependents are also eligible membership.
