Accident kills 1, injures another

One Marine was killed and another injured in a 3 a.m. motorcycle accident Thursday on Kaneohe Bay Drive, near the H-3 on-ramp.

Corporal Edward P. Autry, 24, was killed and passenger Lance Corporal Brian Dingman, 20, was injured when they were thrown from a motorcycle. Preliminary reports indicate the vehicle veered off the road and struck a utility pole, said Officer Michael Tucker of the Honolulu Police Department. The motorcycle was the only vehicle involved.

Both Marines, attached to Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron-463 here, were wearing safety helmets at the time of the accident. Dingham is listed in satisfactory condition at Tripler Army Medical

Air station celebrates 31st

by Sgt Inez J. Stoner

Mokapu Peninsula is one of the most beautiful and most versutile places on Oahu. It is also the home for more than 9,000 Marines who celebrated the 31st anniversary of the commissioning of Marine Corps Air Station, Kancohe Bay

The Air Station covers the entire Mokapu Peninsula, a land steeped in ancient Hawaiian legend. The very word "Mokapu" means "sacred land."

IT IS HERE THAT, ACCORDing to Hawaiian legend, three Hawaiian gods shaped man's image from the sands of Heleloa Beach and gave him life.

In the early days the peninsula was considered a barren, desolate wasteland. This changed during the 16th century when King Kamehameha the Great built his royal palace near the Nuupia fish ponds in the vicinity of the present-day main gate.

The sands of Heleloa Beach face to the east where Ulupau Crater rises nearly 700 feet from the ocean. The first military use of Mokapu may have been at Ulupau Crater during the mid-1700s. In legends it is said that Pele, the Hawaiian goddess of fire and volcanoes, chose Ulupau for her Oahu home while wandering around the islands. It was originally called Kuwaaohe, meaning "stand and wait," and may have applied to sentries who stood watch for invaders from the other islands.

ONE ACCOUNT HAS IT that Kahekili, the king of Maui and Molokai, sent spies to gather Oahu. With the information gathered, the spies would use the sheer cliffs of Ulupau's northern slopes as their signal post. They lit large fires and torches to relay messages to lookouts on Molokai. Their activities went unobserved behind the crater's rim.

Kahekili undermined the power of Kahana, king of Oahu, and won the kingdom in a bloddy battle. When Kahekili died in 1794, his son came into power. This set the stage for the legendary battle at the Nuuanu Pali when Kamehameha the Great forced the enemy army over the cliffs at the Pali

Another prominent land feature on the peninsula is Puu Hawaiiloa, site of Kansaa Tower today. Geologically, it is regarded as being older than Ulupau, Diamond Head, Koko Head and the Punchbowl. It is believed to have been formed from a volcanic crater or vent.

IN THE 19TH CENTURY A great change began taking place in Hawaii. Royalty began leaving Mokapu for the rapidly changing leeward side of Oahu where Waikiki was becoming the status residential area for monarchs and foreigners. As the royalty moved out, commoners moved in and paved the way for the "Great Mahele" or land reformation.

In 1848, the common people were given the right of title to land, a right previously held by Hawaiian royalty. Farmers and tradesmen came to Mokapu and on the flatlands of this sacred peninsula, where royal pheasant hunts once took place, cattle now

During World War I, Ulupau Crater was again employed as a military base when the Kuwanohe Military Reservation was established there in 1918. President Wilson signed an executive order that made it what is now considered one of the oldest military bases on Oahu.

WITH WORLD WAR II approaching, the Kuwaaohe Military Reservation was reestablished Early in 1942. cannoneers began arriving to set up coastal defenses on Mokapu Peninsula When commissioned in 1941, it was known as Camp Ulu Pau but was redesignated Fort Hase, in honor of Major General William T. Hase, in February 1942. The post served as headquarters for the harbor defense of Kancohe Bay.

The Army was not alone in its interest of Mokapu Peninsula. In 1939 Navy planners began eyeing the area as a possible advance naval base. Security on the isolated peninsula could be easily maintained with only one road leading onto the land, and airfield planners and engineers were particularly pleased with the flat plain of Heeia.

The largest weapons at Ft. Hase during World War II were 14-inch guns from the battleship Pennsylvania. These were emplaced in a position known as Penn Battery. In addition, French Battery stood between the Hilltop area and North Beach. A number of 3-inch guns manned by Army Cannoneers were between the sand dunes of Heleloa and the western base of Ulu Pau. Fifty caliber machine guns were along the North Beach area from Pyramid Rock to Ulupau.

PRIOR TO AND DURING World War II, the Ft. Hase detachment grew from its humble beginning as a defense battalion to a major unit of the Windward Coastal Artillery Command. With its growing pains taxing the facilities, the Army acquired an additional 474 seres (the present Capehart housing area) of land from Harold Castle.

By the end of the war. Cont'd. on A-4

I REMEMBER WHEN . . . Sergeant Major John C. Lowery, former brigade sergeant major, talks about his more than 27 years of duty in the Marine Corps. Lowery will be retiring Feb. 28. (Photo by Cpl T.J. Clark)

by Sgt Corrina Martell

"If I could do it all over again, I wouldn't change anything," said specifically to see what was Sergeant Major John C. Lowery, former 1st Marine Brigade Sergeant Major. He will retire Feb. 28 after more than 27 years of Marine Corps

Lowery, who enlisted in 1955, said that as early as he can remember, he always wanted to be a Marine. "The Marine Corps always appealed to me because of the leadership and confidence they had in themselves," he said. "I joined on my own. I sought them out, they didn't seek me out."

From the start of his military career, Lowery said that he never reached a point of throwing up his hands and saying it wasn't for him.

'In boot camp I had no problems until the last inspection," he said. "We were pulling Irish pendants off each other and I didn't want to put them onthe deck, so I put them in my mouth. My drill instructor thought I was chewing gum and I told him it was string. He said it was the same thing, and then he talked to me rather forcefully.

During his first tour in the Marine Corps, Lowery completed Infantry Training at Camp Pendleton, Calif.: and Cold Weather Training at Bridgeport, Calif. He was then assigned to the 3d Medical Battalion on Okinawa and Camp Fiji, Japan: and the U.S. Department of State. He was discharged in 1959, but only stayed out 57 days.

"I had always heard people say, 'If I'd stayed in I could be retired by now," " he said. "So I got out happening on the outside. I think I'm more at ease with myself because I know that I did get out. I knew the Marine Corps was what I wanted to

Upon reenlisting, Lowery served as a truck driver, unit diary clerk, and personnel chief at Camp Pendleton, Calif., which was followed by a tour on the I-I Staff, 45th Rifle Company, Ogden, Utah.

Following I-I duty, Lowery served in what he feels was his most satisfying tour - drill instructor duty.

"On the drill field, you take people from all walks of life and mold them into one precision, moving body called a basic Marine," he said. "It's a personal satisfaction knowing that you as an individual have left your mark on the Marine Corps.

Lowery volunteered for assignment to Vietnam following DI duty. He served there twice "The first time I was there, 1967 to 1968, I was the Administrative Chief for the 3d Marine Division," said Lowery. "And the second time I went, from 1971 to 1972, I was an advisor with the Vietnamese Marine Corps. The biggest thing I remember about Vietnam was not being able to brush your feeth on a regular basis. You couldn't take a shower or bath other than out of your helmet or a mudhole.

Crew chief: Biggest satisfaction comes from the words, "You did a good job"

"The Marine Corps can give me all the awards they want," said Corporal Christopher R. Miller, Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-265. "But the biggest satisfaction is when someone comes up to me and sincerely says, 'Hey, you did a good job."

And doing a good job is what Miller's philosophy is all about. Selected as HMM-265's 1982 Crew Chief of the Year, he attributes his success to hard work.

"I always try to do my job to the best of my ability," he said. "If you don't like what you're doing, you shouldn't do it. A large part of how you work is experience and training. You can't just go out and be good. It comes with time. If a trainer isn't doing his best, the person he's teaching won't benefit.

Miller, who has been a crew chief for almost two years, says that he came into the Marine Corps with a guarangee in the aviation field.

His job consists of daily inspections to be sure his aircraft is safe for flight. If it is not, he goes to the appropriate shops to ensure that the aircraft is fixed

"I'm also collateral duty inspector," said Miller. "I inspect work done by basic helo mechanics."

Miller explained that everyone in his field must begin as a basic helo mechanic. They then work up to plane captain, and finally to crew chief.

Miller flys in his aircraft approximately 25 to 35 hours a month. "We have 12 CH-46's and a crew chief for a least each aircraft," said Miller. "Each crew chief is also qualified as an aerial gunner."

Although his job may be difficult at times, Miller has his own way of dealing with it. "A crew chief's job involves long hours, a lot of responsibility, and sometimes working when others aren't," he said. "I find that if I try to make my job fun, it can, in a sense, become easier. I do this by pointing out anything exciting — especially to the new guys."

Miller said that he feels it's important to get the most out of what you're doing.

"When you're in high school, you don't think you need to learn certain things," said the 21-year-old leatherneck. "But you find out after you graduate or maybe 10 years later that you do. It can be the same way in the Marine Corps. I don't like to see people throwing away what they can learn in the corps."

Captain Robert Heller, flight line assistant officer in charge, said that Miller is demanding of both himself and the people who work with him. "He's willing to work long hours and his aircraft is always in top shape,"

Said Heller.

Gunnery Sergeant Jim Frizzell, flight line staff noncommissioned officer in charge, also expressed favor for Miller. "He's outstanding," said Frizzell. "The quality I especially admire in him is his leadership."

When he's not hard at work, Miller's interests include motorcycle racing. "I did a little motorcycle racing before I joined the corps," he said. "I didn't win any trophies — I just did it for the pleasure. But now I don't have much time for it."

Miller's plans for the future are short and simple. "When I get out of the Marine Corps. I just want to keep learning," he said. "About anything."

thousands of troops were stationed at Ft. Hase, or had received the training given there.

In late 1945, the 98th Army Division departed Ft. Hase bound for occupation duty in Japan. They had just completed their training in preparation for the invasion of Japan, which never occurred.

On April 1, 1947, Ft. Hase, which had once based elements of three divisions, became a skeleton outpost of the Army's Ft. Ruger.

A MESSAGE WAS SENT TO the Department of the Navy and on Aug. 5, 1939 the contract was signed that started the work at the Naval Air Station Kaneohe Bay and also gave birth to Naval installations on Palmyra, Johnson and Midway islands, in Alaska and at other Oahu locations. In all, the U.S. government paid a total of $1,097,736.04 for nearly 500 acres of Mokapu Peninsula.

During September 1939 engineers started work on a dike to create more acreage and began digging into the waters of the bay to fill in the diked area. This dredging and filling continued until 1943 when a total of 280 acres was added to the original land acquisition.

IN AUGUST 1940 THE Navy decided to expand even more by acquiring all of Mokapu Peninsula except for Fort Hase, which was still controlled by the Army. This new acquisition was the Nuupia area where the peninsula joins Oahu and was purchased by the United States for $90,000.

With most of their land problems solved, workers began arriving at Kaneohe to build the advance Naval base that was destined at the time to be only a small seaplane hase. Quonset huts, designed to house the civilian workers, were the first structures to dot the peninsula's skyline. Within a matter of months supply warehouses, communications facilities and seaplane hangars began making their appearance.

PLATOON SERGEANT George Spence reported aboard the base early in November 1940 with 30 other Marines. They were the first military unit to occupy the Naval Air Station. As the senior military man present, Sgt Spence could be considered the first commander of the Air Station. His command was shortlived however, because a few weeks later Marine Major J.C. Donehoo, Jr. arrived to become the first Commanding Officer of the Marine Barracks at Kaneohe Naval Air Station.

The Marines were primarily concerned with protecting construction materials and policing the area. This mission was accomplished, in part, using horses which were stabled in Building 713 just west of the runway.

The Naval Air Station's first Commanding Officer, Commander Harold Martin, arrived at Kuneohe Bay on Dec. 7, 1940. Exactly one year later his command was the first on the island to be attacked by the Japanese.

A SMALL WOODEN shack at a desk made from an apple crate, CDR Martin began planning and executing the orders that would transform Kaneohe Bay into a sprawling, multimillion-dollar military installation. Work continued at a rapid pace during the next few months and included the construction of Baker Towers, known today as Kansas Tower. By late 1941, the major portion of construction was nearing completion.

The mission of the Air Station was expanded to include the administration of the Kancohe Bay Naval Defense Sea Area and the Kaneohe Naval Air Space Reservation. With the added responsibilities came more aircraft. For the men stationed here, life was one scaplane patrol after another, including a patrol that was launched early one December morning. Just before 8 a.m., as the sailors waited for the patrol to return, the drone of approaching aircraft could be heard. It was Dec. 7, 1941.

ON THAT FATEFUL "DAY of Infamy" the Air Station at Kancohe Bay was the first place on Oahu to be attacked by the Japanese. In addition, the first Japanese aircraft to be shot down crashed into the hill at Kansas Tower. A Kaneohe-based sailor, John Finn, earned the Medal of Honor for his actions that morning. The ancient burial grounds of Heleloa again became a grave site, this time for 18 sailors, one civilian and Japanese pilot Fusata lida killed during the

The attack placed Kaneohe on a forward area wartime basis. In early 1942 the Air Station became the base for Fleet Activities, serving as an important part of the supply line and as host to visiting units.

NEW PILOTS STATIONED here learned the latest flying techniques in more than 50 mobile. 'Link" trainers and two complete mock-up aircraft frames. There were also schools for celestial navigation, sonar, gun turret operation and aircraft recognition. Many Navy and Marine aviators were trained and familiarized in flight operations here before being assigned to forward combat areas.

At the end of the war in 1945, thousands of military personnel passed through Kaneohe on their way back to the mainland.

Aircraft control from Kansas Tower ceased in April 1946 and was handled through the newly completed control tower above Hangar 105. In June 1946 the remains of the 19 Americans killed during the Dec. 7, 1941 attack were returned to the mainland. The remains of the Japanese pilot killed during the attack, were returned to Japan in 1948. In June 1949, the Naval Air Station Kaneohe was decommis-

BY JUNE 1950, THE AIR Station had been stripped of all valuables and personnel strength was limited to a small security detail and a Federal Communications Center. Then in 1951 the Marine Corps decided that the idle airfield would make an ideal training site for a combined air-ground team.

Working parties began clearing the jungle growth and Jan. 15, 1952, Colonel Frank G. Dailey, the first commanding officer, took part in commissioning ceremonies for the new Marine Corps Air Ancient Hawaiians had divided the land between chiefs, World War II leaders had portioned the peninsula out to the Army and the Navy. Now, for the first time in history, Mokapu Peninsula was under one command.

Early in 1952 Marine Aircraft Group-13 began moving in. The Station's brig, located next to Messhall One, was opened and had three registered guests. The first issue of the Windward Marine newspaper hit the streets March 28, 1952, reporting that Station Sergeant Major I.F. Waldvogel and Disbursing Sergeant J. Remis both received a case of their favorite beer for winning the "name the newspaper" contest.

Also during 1953 the Air Station's Commissary opened for business, the Windward Marine became a regular weekly newspaper and in November, the first women Marines arrived.

The 4th Marine Regiment arrived in 1955 and in 1956 nearly 2,000 spectators witnessed the rebirth of the 1st Marine Brigade.

Marine Helicopter Squadron-161, Marine Composite Squadronand Marine Attack Squadron-212 joined MAG-13 during April 1955. With the addition of the fastlanding FJ3 Fury jets and the extra roll-out needed for them, construction began in March 1956 to lengthen the existing runways. During August of that year the women Marines left for duties at Camp H.M. Smith.

IN 1957 A NEW MIRROR landing system to aid the fastlanding jets and a 10 lane bowling alley were completed, and plans were made for construction of 1,000 Capebart homes. The Golf. Course doubled its size in 1958 with the completion of the back nine holes and Hollywood came to Kaneohe in September 1958 when filming began on the motion picture "South Pacific." Several Marines of the Brigade's First Amphibious Tractor Company were given roles in the musical.

That same month the Navy's Pacific Missile Range Facility, Hawaiian Area, became a tenant of the Air Station. Another tenant unit, the First Composite Radio Company, arrived at Kaneohe in 1959 from Camp Smith and was redesignated as the First Radio Battalion in 1964.

BY THE END OF 1964, major units from the 1st Marine Brigade included the 4th Marine Regiment, the 3d Battalion 12th Marine Regiment; MAG-13 and a service battalion composed of a number of separate supporting companies.

The increased U.S. involvement in Vietnam in 1965 meant the deployment of the Brigade's groundunits. Once in Vietnam the units were detached from the Brigade. In July of that year the 1st Battalion, 5th Marine Regiment arrived here to replace the 4th Marines and in December, Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-212 became the first Brigade unit to return to Kaneohe from Vietnam.

Vietnam in 1966 and left the Brigade with no ground units until June of that year when the 1st Battalion, 27th Marine Regiment was reactived. In December 1969 their colors were retired and the Kaneohe-based units were redesignated as the 1st Battalion, 3d Marines.

IN APRIL 1968, AFTER being stationed at Cherry Point for 20 years, MAG-24 moved to MCAS Kancobe to fill the billet on the air side of the Brigade.

Two air units, VMFA-235 and Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-262 joined the Brigade in September 1968 and May 1971, respectively.

On June 4, 1971, the 1st Battalion, 12th Marines became part of the Brigade followed by the remainder of the 3d Marines June

In 1974, VMFA-122 left Hawaii to retire its colors, leaving the Brigade with only two fixed wing squadrons, VMFA-235 and -212 The Brigades' Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron-463, who had become part of the Brigade in May 1971, was called on to remove Americans from Cambodia in March 1975. No sooner had the dust settled from that mission then they were directed to fly into Saigon to evacuate Vietnamese and Americans there.

HMH-463 WAS NAMED THE 1975 "Outstanding Helicopter Squadron of the Year" by the Marine Corps Aviation Association for their role in those two operations, "Frequent Wind" and "Eagle Pull."

Personnel strength increased by over 1,500 Marines during 1975 and 1976 and resulted in the reconstruction of the 3d Battalion, 3d Marines and the formation of Bottery "C", 1st Battalion, 12th Marines. Reorganization continued with plans for the restructuring of the Brigade Provisional Service Battalion into the Brigade Service Support Group.

In 1977 the Unit Development program was initiated and the Brigade was tasked with providing a battalion landing team, a composite helicopter squadron and a logistic support unit to the 31st Marine Amphibious Unit on a six-month rotating tour basis. This program allows Marines to work "in the field" with allied countries as well as enjoy liberty in such countries as Japan, Korea and the Republic of the Philippines.

IN SEPTEMBER 1977 AS HMM-265 arrived, VMFA-235 deployed to Iwakuni, Japan as the first F-4 squadron selected to implement the new Unit Development program. Battalion Landing Team 2d Battalion, 3d Marines returned to Hawaii in July 1978 from the first deployment to the Western Pacific under the new program. June 30, 1978 HMM-165 became the newest air unit to join the Brigade team.

While the Brigade was participating in the Unit Deployment program, the Air Station was being commended by the Hawaii State Senate for its environmental efforts. The Air Station was also the recipient of the 1978 Commandant of the Marine Corps Environmental Quality Award and the Secretary of the Navy Environmental Protection Award.

IN ADDITION TO ENVIRONmental protection, the Air Station is also concerned with good relations with the surrounding The 5th Marines were ordered to civilian communities. Exhibitions are presented during frequent tours of the Air Station by outside civic groups and Marines here often volunteer their time to work with charitable organizations in the community.

> The Station and the Brigade were recipients in 1979 of an ancient poi pounder, presented by a direct descendant of the military instructor to King Kamehameha the Great. And in July 1980 a Hawaiian cultural religious group, headed by the "Kahuna" Sam Lone, held a conference at Kansas Tower. Lono and his religious group returned to the Air Station in October of that year to hold a Hawaiian religious festival at Pyramid Rock.

NINETEEN-EIGHTY WAS also the year of the Iranian Crisis and in February of that year the 31st MAU deployed to the Persian Gulf to help protect American interests in that area.

During 1981 the Air Station supported athletics and community relations with a number of special events. In March the Na Opio High School outrigger canoe racing championships were held aboard the Air Station with approximately 2,500 people attending. In June, the Air Station once again opened its gates to host the running of the first Windward Marathon.

The Air Station was also the host for several ceremonies surrounding the 40th anniversary of the Dec. 7, 1941 attack by the Japanese. During December approximately 30 surviving members of Navy Patrol Squadron-11 (VP-11) who were stationed at Kaneohe at the time of the attack placed a plaque on Hangar 102 as a memorial to squadron members who died during the attack.

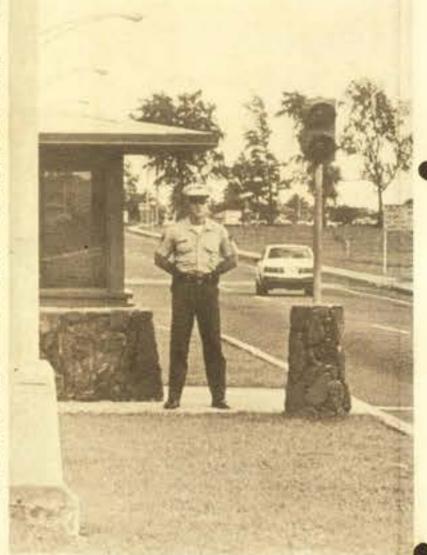

A monument to all Americans who died at Naval Air Station Kaneohe during the attack, was unveiled during ceremonies Dec. 2. The monument stands near the flag pole in front of the Air Station's headquarters building. Also, the "eternal sweetheart" of Japanese pilot Fusata lida who lost his life during the attack at Kancohe, visited the site of the ernsh Dec. 6.

The Air Station new stands on the threshold of a new year. As Marines here gather to celebrate the 31st anniversary of the Air Station they car pause to reflect on the lessons of the Air Station they have learned through the years. The Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, under the command of Colonel C.D. Robinson, is 31 years young, and still growing strong and then you had to be careful of the leeches. But we had a job to do over there and we did it. The Marine Corps still paid us every two weeks, even though we had no place to spend it."

Lowery had the opportunity to meet Lieutenant General Lewis B. Puller many times during his Marine Corps

"Once I was in the hospital with Chesty Puller in Feb. 1970 at Little Creek, Va.," said Lowery. "Chesty was being checked out for something, and I was there because of shrapnel in my back, which I got in Vietnam. We were together more than 20 days.

In 1972, Lowery served with the 7th Marines at Camp Pendleton, Calif. as first sergeant of the elite Presidential Security Element for then President Richard M. Nixon.

After completing the Sergeant Major Academy in El Paso, Texas, Lowery was assigned to Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Nashville, Tenn. It was while serving on recruiting duty that he was promoted to sergeant bids farewell-

'Recruiting is probably one of the most important jobs in the Marine Corps," said Lowery. "It's the point where we start. It's a hard, thankless job that has to be done by our best caliber Marines. DI duty is the same way.

Lowery was assigned to Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-265 in 1980, and took over as brigade sergeant major in Jan. 1982.

Although he's seen a lot of changes in the Corps, Lowery said that one thing that never changes is the individual Marine.

"Today's Marines are better educated and more informed of the world situation than when I came in." he said. "But they have the same aspirations and desires that I had over 20 years ago.

"If I could have my rathers, I'd rather be coming in the Marine Corps today, because I believe the next 20 to 30 years will be the best time for the Marine Corps. There's better equipment, and we're entering into the Buck Rogers Syndrome," such as ray guns, satellites, and telephone lines with glass wires. I feel we're entering into a good era of training and professionalism.

When asked if he has any advice to pass on to other Marines, Lowery simply said, "How do you tell a Marine to be a Marine? It has to be a heartfelt thing. Dressing up like a Marine doesn't make a Marine."

Lowery's feelings concerning his last job in the Marine Corps are those of pride and satisfaction.

Is there life after the Corps?

As a Marine, you know you'll have your job waiting for you Monday. Lots of civilian companies are faced with strikes and layoffs. They don't have that guarantee ... that security.

Do you receive housing allowance or rent plus? Are you living in off base housing in Hawaii? Is the rent plus housing allowance you receive sufficient? Are utilities higher than you anticipated? This article addresses the upcoming cost of living survey and the impact that the survey will have on this allowance.

The Joint Travel Regulations requires that a cost of housing and a cost of living survey be conducted annually to aid the Per-Diem Travel and Transportation Allowance Committee. The survey is to determine to what degree housing costs exceed BAQ by analysis of the latest month's rent, total cost of utilities each month for the prior year, and total expenses incurred by individuals in moving into and out of

The detailed instructions provided with the form must be followed to the letter. Since the results of this survey will have such an immediate influence on the allowance ceilings established by the Committee in June of this year, accuracy is of the utmost importance and everyone's assistance is solicited throughout the survey month of January.

The One Place Where Freedom and Super Prices Meet

Recon Marines prepare for deployment

by Sergeant Inez J. Stoner

Take a few and the proud, throw in the swift, ailent and deadly and it can add up to only one thing; the prestigious, the mysterious, the notorious Reconnaissance

And, the Marines of Company A, 3d Reconnaissance Battalion didn't disappoint anyone as they lived up to their many titles during their Viking Olympics Jan. 6, at Bellows Air Force Station.

The olympics were a new twist to the Viking tradition that preceeds each Western Pacific deployment, according to outgoing First Sergeant James Lewis.

Before the 2nd Platoon left last August, the Recon Marines went on a four-day patrol followed by the Viking Night celebration. This time, Viking Olympics were held to honor the 1st Platoon as they prepare for their deployment.

"It's a great tradition for Marines to compete against each other," said Lance Corporal Hugo Ballestas, a 20-year-old assistant radio/telephone operator from Competition was held in three major areas of Recon training. In the first trial, the Marines built retrievable rope bridges across a 30-foot ravine. Once across the stream, the proceeded to an area where an BC-292 antenna was erected and a 'solid copy' message was transmitted via AN/PRC-77 radio, back to the umpires. The timed event, with penalties for dropping unnecessary gear or Marines into the water, was won by the 2nd Team, 1st Platoon with a time of 21:25.

A mere 3,000-meter, team-relay, ocean swim was not enough for the tough Recon Marines' second event. They added a run through a wooded area and literally hit the beach for a low-crawl to the shoreline before heading out on the swim. The 1st Platoon won the graeling event in an untimed finish against very tough competition from Headquarters/ 3d Platoon.

"The trust and confidence is greatly increased by this type of competition," said Corporal N.R. Gomez, 19, assistant radio/telephone operator. "I would trust any one of these men with my life," said the Marine from East Hartford, Conn. "These guys are

The final trial was a 3,000 meter small inflatable boat race. At the ,500-meter mark, the inflatable boats were broached, then returned to an upright position before the Marines could continue with the race. Headquarters/3d Platoon won their only event with a superb time of 5c37.

"It's not just good fun." said Lewis, "it's good training." Lewis has been with Recon for the past year and is leaving to attend the Army Sergeants Major Academy in El Paso, Texas.

Tve never really had an appreciation for the Recon Marines until I came to this company." said the first sergeant. "It's more than just a run, dive and jump club," he continued. "A lot of them will go for 24 hours solid and then beg for more. You just can't put them in

"This has given them the opportunity to not only compete against each other, but to use the training they have received. explained Gunnery Sergeant Bill Hancock, a first sergeant selectee and the company's new first

It was not all hard play and competition. Following the olympics. The Recon Marines enjoyed a Viking feast, eaten in the traditional Viking way, without utinsels. The 10-finger method was used to down the hamburgers, hot dogs, beans and even a roast.

"I understand that when the Vikings went out on voyages, they would have a send-off similar to this," explained the Company's Commanding Officer, Captain Robert Crabb. "It was to wish them good luck and good hunting. We want the 1st Platoon to know. that just because they're leaving on deployment, we're not going to forget them.

"This has accomplished everything we wanted it to accomplish," said Crabb, "including building moral."

"It's good for the company to get together like this," said Corporal Scott Elliott. The 23-year-old assistant team leader is from Cresskill, N.J.

The highlight of the picnic was an appearance by Mr. Magic (Hal-Clark) and Squeaky Clown (Jill Clark). The pair performed various magic tricks and stunts to delight the children.

HQMC News Pistol firing returns

WASHINGTON, D.C. - More Marines will fire their .45caliber pistols this year because additional ammunition will be available. Since 1979, most pistol marksmanship training has been curtailed due to constraints on ammunition procurement.

That situation has improved, say Training officials here, to the point where most pre-1979 training programs and requirements can be re-established. Initial qualification firing will remain unchanged.

Effective Jan. 1, 1983, those Marines who are required to be armed with the .45 caliber pistol in the performance of their duties should fire for initial qualification and requalification:

- annually if they are sergeants or below

- once every two years if they are Staff NCOs; and - once every two years if they are lieutenant colonels or below in ground specialties.

All Marines assigned to Military Occupational Specialty 8151 (Guard) and Military Police specialties will fire for requalification and shoot the Close Combat Pistol Course.

For more information, see ALMAR 289/82.

Free travel available

may travel free when accompanied by an adult paying TWA's 50 percent furlough fare. The program offers discounts of up to 65 percent on standard air fares for military personnel and their dependents traveling at their own expense

The "kids fly free" program begins Jan. 10, and travel must be completed by March 26. Most TWA flights to domestic cities are included with the following exceptions: travel to and from Florida must be completed by Feb.

 travel to an from Colorado must be completed between Monday and Thursday; and

Legal helps with taxes

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Marines will soon be receiving their Wage and Tax statements (Form W-2) to be used in filing federal and state tax returns for the 1982 tax year.

Most commands participate in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program, designed to provide free tax assistance to persons who cannot afford professional tax help. VITA volunteers are trained to offer assistance in preparing forms 1040, 1040A, and the new simplified form, Various instruction booklets, forms and IRS publications may be obtained at the legal assistance office. Although legal assistance lawyers do not prepare individual forms. they are available to answer specific tax questions.

Navy Relief holds graduation

by Sgt Corrina Martell

Navy Relief volunteers are not only givers of their time, but qualified for the job, thanks to the annual Navy Relief Training Course.

The course, which was held Jan. 10 through 14, graduated 14 volunteers. The week-long course was given by Louise Diver, field representative with the Navy Relief society.

Graduation ceremonies took place Jan. 14 at the Officers' Club. Colonel C.D. Robinson, commanding officer of the air station, participated in the event with congratulations and the draping of a lei for each graduate.

According to Chris Washabaugh, Chairman of Publicity at Navy Relief, some of the graduates are newcomers and some are already Navy Relief volunteers.

Washabaugh, who is also an interviewer and on the Speakers Bureau at Navy Relief, was one of the graduates.

During the ceremonies, hour awards were given out to volunteers who had completed anywhere from 100 to 2,000 hours of volunteer work at Navy Relief

In addition, Col Robinson presented Diver with a Certificate of Appreciation from the air station for her work here with the Navy Relief program.

"I'm impressed with the volunteers I've met here," said Robinson. "I think you personally and for the Society for all you do."

According to a recent station message, the primary objective of the workshop was to acquaint various attendees, both military and civilian, with the resources with which Navy Relief works and how the Navy Relief Society "takes care of our awn.

"We want to get the word out to supervisory personnel so that they can refer people to us and to clear up any misunderstandings concerning Navy Relief," said Diver.

Chaplain Max Dunks, 3d Marines Chaplain, who was present at the workshop, said that he felt he had learned from the presentation.

"I didn't know that the exceptions (for assistance) at Navy Relief were as strong as they were," he said.

Diver explained some of these exceptions by stressing that Navy Relief assists clients with a genuine

"Navy Relief gives loans, but we are not a loan agency," she said. "We cannot help with wants, video games, rest and relaxation, tape decks, legal matters, unauthorized absences, business natures or fines.

First Marine Brigade begins 82nd year

compiled by Sgt Inez J. Stoner

The 1st Marine Brigade, unique in that it is the only permament brigade in the Marine Corps, celebrated its 82nd anniversary Jan. I

The 1st Marine Brigade was formed Jan. 1, 1901 in the Philippines and was made up of Marines stationed there plus about 1,000 Marines from China who had been participating in the Boxer Rebellion.

At that time the Brigade was often referred to as the "Philippine Brigade." Its mission was to guard Naval bases in the Philippines and to administer the military government. In 1914 the Brigade was disbanded.

JUST A YEAR LATER THE let Marine Brigade was reorganized and sent to Haiti to restore law and order and protect American interests in the revolution-torn country. The Brigade was disbanded again in 1934 after nearly 20 years of service in Haiti. During its stay in Haiti the Brigade was at one time commanded by Major Smedley D. Butler, Gunnery Sergeant Dan Daly also earned his Medal of Honor while serving there.

from 1939 to 1941 at Marine Barracks, Quantico, Va. where Brigade Marines studied the techniques of amphibious land-was headquartered on Guadalcanal.

During the Korean War the 1st. Provisional Marine Brigade was comprised of the 5th Marine Regiment, 1st Marine Division from Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif., and was known as the "Fire Brigade." Although active less than 40 days, the Brigade traveled nearly 400 miles, mostly on foot, and took up many important battle positions.

Shortly after the Japanese attacked Oahu in December 1941, the Brigade was pulled out off Iceland, disbanded and the Marines were sent to parent organizations, mostly in the Pacific Theater.

THE 1ST PROVISIONAL Marine Brigade was again revived in March 1944, this time at

In 1953 President Harry S. Truman commissioned the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade as the 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force and based it at the newly established Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Hay. For a very brief time, the Tank Force was comprised of the 3d Marine Regiment and Marine Aircraft Group-13.

expanded with the arrival of the 4th Marine Regiment and additional squadrons from the For East to reinforce the MAG. In addition, the Task Force and its attached units were homeported here, ending their six-month rotation schedule.

Amphibious tractors and helicopters soon began arriving from Korea and by 1956 the Task Force had been renamed the 1st Marine Brigade and was ready to participate in live fire air-ground exercises on many of the neighbor islands.

During the 1960s major units of the Brigade deployed to Okinawa and served in a number of campaigns in Vietnam including the Tet Offensive in 1968. Also in 1968, some elements of MAG-24 began arriving here from the MCAS Cherry Point, N.C. In 1069 the Brigade's 1st Battalion, 27th Marine Regiment was redesignated as the 1st Battalion, 3d Marine Regiment.

DURING 1970 THE BRIgade's strength increased with the arrival of a company of amphibious tractors, a company of engineers and the activation of a Provisional Service Battalion. By 1971 the Brigade had three fighter attack squadrons equipped with the F-4 Phantom aircraft and medium and heavy helicopter squadrons. The 1st Battalion, 12th Marine Regiment arrived in early June and the remainder of the 3d Marine Regiment joined the exercised its combat readiness by providing battalion landing teams for the Unit Deployment Program. Units of the 1st Marine Brigade make regular deployments to Japan and the Western Pacific in six-month increments, providing international security and engaging in a number of various training exercises. During the early months of 1980 the Brigade's 31st Marine Amphibious Unit sailed from Oahu to the Arabian Sea to support U.S.

Trials and tribulations

Marine challenges the slopes with cycle

by Cpl Charlie Marshall

Bill Meeks is not your normal

In fact, most motorcycle gangs would laugh at him as he rode up on his TY 175 Yamaha, but after they witnessed the staff sergeant in action, their mouths would drop down to their gas tanks.

Once a month, Meeks and the Hawaii Motorcycle Triale Association camp out in the Kahuku Mountains and ride their bikes on trials (no trails) so steep and treacherous they can't even be grades, some expert sections may be as steep as 75 degrees The 28-year-old cycle enthusiast tries to practice every weekend but circumstances sometimes make this impossible. "I seriously train in the mountains about two weekends a month. It's very restricted us to the places you can practice because the only authorized place is the land the club leases in the Kahokus," he said. "There is no legal place to practice in Kancohe. Meeks first started riding dirt bikes while stationed in Iwakuni, Japan. "My gunny invited me out to go dirt bike riding with him back in 1974," he recalls, "and we just started riding together every weekend. I started trials riding with the Japanese. After I was transferred here. I picked it up

loaded with obstacles including mud holes, rocks, trees and

After he left Japan he was mactive because "nothing was available while I was stationed in Louisville, Ky. and Richmond, Va." But after his arrival to the air station. Meeks learned of the trials club and has been an active member for the past year and a

"There's a big difference between trials riding and moto-cross riding," he said. "In motocross riding the object is speed as opposed to trial riding which takes balance and throddle control. Also, the bikes are built differently. Trial bikes have shorter wheel bases so they can turn easier und they have more maneuverability

The trials bike is geared lower. and because of the slowness, the motorcycle is not revved up and the noise factor is reduced considerably," he added.

The object in trials riding is to ride through a section without dapping or touching the ground with your feet. Every time a rider touches the ground, he is awarded a point and the lowest number of points wins the section.

A rider can score a maximum of three points for a section unless the motorcycle stops forward motion, then five points are

The sections are marked by colored flags. If the rider misses a flag, rides off the course or runs over a flag, he is awarded five

Before the riders ride through a section, they walk it to choose their "line" of approach. "Everybody gives each other different views on which line to take when we walk the section," Meeks explained. "We collectively choose a line, but things totally change when riding the section.

It's almost an art to watch a trial rider negotiate a section. The union of man and machine while trial riding is similar to ballet After years of experience an expert can climb a 3-foot rock as easily as the beginner can domp.

"Constantly asking each other for advice is a big factor," said Meeks. "If he (another rider) makes a mistake negotiating an obstacle, I offer corrective criticism and vice versa."

When he's not playing in the dirt, Meeks is a "grunt supplyman." He refers to his MOS as that so Marines don't confuse his job with aviation supply. Although he works for Marine Aircraft Group-24, Meeks issues combat equipment.

He believes trial riding would eliminate a lot of frustrations Marines develop in the barracks. "Ten years ago there was a trials course which is now hilltop housing. Marines would get off work and do a little riding before

"There are a lot of Marines on this base interested, but they have no way of transporting their bikes to the mountains," he continued.

Meeks is due to leave the island in August, but his interest in trials riding will not stop here. He says he will continue to ride on the mainland: "On the mainland there is more interest and the competition is better."

Leathernecks rout Monarchs

Alan Solter scored in double figures to lead the Kaneohe Leathernecks to a 28-11 rout over the Kalakaua Monarcha Saturday as Youth Dependent Basketball kicked off its 1983 senson.

Towering over all the players, Solter hit six field goals in the opening game at Hangar 103 and accounted for most of the rebounds of either team.

Kaneohe's Fred McKee and John Curtis each had two buckets.

Chad Bautista led Kalakaua's scoring with 7 points.

Alan Solar 12, John Curlis 4, Fred McKee 4, Mixe Contry 2, Paul Airchews 2, G. Winsett 2, E. Fagon 2

Charl Bautista 7, Jerry Dontolero 2, Eric Real 2.

Termites edge Bulldogs

In the closest and most exciting game of the afternoon, Kalakaua's Termite Monarchs edged out the Kansohe Bulldogs 12-11 to win their senson opener.

At the end of the first quarter, Kaneohe had control of the game and the winning end of a 6-2 score. Kalakana fought back hard, constantly chipping away at the lead until they were down by one point at

The Monarchs held the Bulldogs to one basket in the third quarter as they scored six points.

During the fourth quarter, the Monarche remained scoreless but only allowed one Kaneohe basket.

After Kaneohe missed five game winning shots, a roar echoed through the gym as the buzzer ended the caged duel. But it was hard to tell who was the most excited about the victory, the coaches, the players or the parents.

Hawks bomb Fort Shafter

James Celestine led the scoring with 16 points and Tony Bennett's rebounding strength and 12 points kept Kancohe well ahead of the Fort Shafter Bombers as the Midgets opened their season with a 33-24

Kaneohe's Midget Hawks started off a little sloppy but settled into a good game pace in the second quarter to pull away from Fort Shafter.

The Hawks outscored the Bombers 9-4 in the second quarter as they started to pull away.

They returned in the third quarter to outscore the Bombers 10-6.

Kaneohe simply outplayed the Bombers the entire second half and had no problem winning the game 33-

Soccer - the European sport gaining popularity in the U.S.

A new sport is being kicked around America and Hawaii is no exception. The sport itself is not new but the explosion of interest and enthusiasm among young and old alike make it appear that way.

The sport? Association football, or, as it is more commonly called , . . soccer.

While seeming a newcomer to the American sports scene, soccer is the largest speciator sport in the world. European countries virtually worship the game which, even on its bad attendance days, rivals the number of fans attending a World Series baseball game.

Soccer has been traced back to the Chinese in 400 B.C. The English developed the game as we know it today in the early 1800's.

The game quickly found its way to America. In fact, it was the only form of football played here until the 1870's when American-style football became popular. At this point soccer started to face in popularity and had become almost extinct by the early 1900's.

Then came the 1960's. Soccer started its meback. European players and a Brazilian player called 'Pele' came to the United States to promote the game. Their efforts and expertise on the field renewed

Today the North American Soccer League has 25 teams. Network television coverage of professional games is expanding each season and includes several international tournaments.

Youth soccer is also more popular than ever. Many children would rather play soccer than American football. One youth oriented association, the American Youth Soccer Organization, boasts almost 8,000 young participants on Oahu alone.

While the action-filled game is sometimes a contact sport, soccer also teaches skill, agility, physical conditioning and stresses sportsmanlike conduct by all members, including spectators. Home teams are responsible for the behavior of the fans. If a viewer's conduct becomes disruptive or offensive they can be made to leave the playing

In spite of the increased attention soccer has drawn, some Americans find the game foreign and confusing. To help alleviate this roadblock to enjoyment only a few simple specifics need be known.

The duration of the game is two 45minute halfs separated by a short rest period. There are no time-outs and substitutions are only made when there is a halt in play.

The field, often referred to as the pitch, can be 100 to 120 yards long; from 50 to 80 yards wide. This large playing area combined with the fast action of the game demands that a player be wellconditioned. Many experts agree that in an average game a player might run as far as six to eight miles. Area youth teams play on fields 100 yards by 50 yards.

The field's configuration confuses some new spectators. But it is really quite Goals are marked by poles at each end of the pitch. The poles are centered, eight yards apart and have a crossbar eight feet high. The goals are usually backed with a net to prevent arguments about whether or not the ball actually crossed the goal.

A goal is scored when the hall passes between the two side poles and under the

The endline is the line at each end of the field marking the end boundaries.

The touchline is the line along each side of the field marking the side boundaries.

The goal area is the part of the field directly in front of each goal that is 20 yards wide and 6 yards long. It is from within this marked off area that a goal kick is taken.

The penalty area is a section of the field at each end of the field 44 yards wide and 18 yard long. The goalkeeper, the only player of the 11-person team allowed to use his hands, may catch or carry the ball within the penalty area for no more than four steps before releasing it.

After the ball has touched the ground or an opponent, the keeper may repeat this action up to three times after which he can throw or kick the ball. He is only allowed to do this in the penalty area.

The rapid change of events during a game can cause a spectator to get lost trying to keep up if he doesn't understand the reasons certain calls are made. A brief conception of role infractions and their penalties can make the game more

A player is offside if he has less than two opponents (including the goalkeeper) between him and his opponents' goal line at the moment the ball is last played. Exceptions to this rule are if the player is in his own half of the field, if the ball was last touched by an opponent or if he received the ball directly from a corner kick, throw-in, drop ball or opposition's

A direct free kick is a kick awarded to a team in which a player may kick the ball and score a goal without the ball touching another player. All opponents must stay at least 10 yards away from the kicker until the ball is kicked.

A direct free kick is awarded to an offended team for any of the following fools: tripping, kicking, charging a player from behind, holding, poshing, handling the ball and striking. Spitting at a player or throwing the ball at him is considered

An indirect free kick is the same as a direct free kick except that it must touch another player before entering the goal. This kick is awarded an offended team for fouls that do not call for a direct free kick.

A corner kick is a direct free kick made by an attacking team when the defenders were the last to touch the ball before it went out of play by crossing the end line. The kick is made from the corner of the field on the side that the ball went out of

A goal kick is an indirect free kick taken by a member of the defending team after the attackers were the last to touch the ball before it went out of play by crossing the end line. The ball must be kicked from any point within the goal area as long as it is in the same half of the field as the ball when it went out of play

A penalty kick is awarded a team fouled in the defender's penalty area. The kick is made from a line, called the goal spot, 12 yards in front of the goal. Players other than the kicker and the goalkeeper must remain outside of the penalty area and 10 yards away until the ball has been kicked. The only player who can block a penalty kick is the goalkeeper. His feet must be on the end line and he cannot move them until the ball has been kicked.

A throw-in is taken by the opponent of the team that last touched the ball before it went out of play by crossing the The throw-in must be made evenly with both hands coming from behind and over the head, with both feet on the ground. The feet must either be on or outside of the touchline at the moment of release. A dropball occurs when the referee drops the hall between two players to restart play after he has stopped it for reasons other than the ball going out of play or a foul.

The following is a list of terms common to American sports but with a different meaning in soccer.

PASSING - giving the ball to a teammate by using some part of the body (except the hands) to tap it to him-

DRIBBLING - moving the ball gently tapping it with the foot. TRAPPING - using the chest, thigh, foot or hend to stop the ball to gain control HEADING - hitting the ball with the

TACKLING - taking the ball away from a dribbling opponent with the foot. CHIP - to kick the ball over an opponent's head. VOLLEY - to kick the ball just before it hits the ground.

HALF-VOLLEY - to kick the ball as soon as it hits the ground. While the complete rules of the game are complex and can expand into numerous volumes, one of the niceties of soccer is that a basic understanding is all you need to enjoy the game.

In today's fast paced world, the game of soccer seems appropriate. As one young player put it, "Sometimes it's rough, but even if you lose, it's fun just playing

BEYOND THE GATES - During 1982 the visitation, exceeding the one million visitor mark for the first time. Park Superintendent Gary Cummins reported that 1,039,050 persons participated in the National Park Service interpretive program and were transported by U.S. Navy shuttle boats to the Arizona Memorial last year. An additional 109,511 persons entered the visitor center and museum, but did not go to the memorial. The daily average visitor count during 1982 was 3,164 program Tuesdays through Sundays from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. Although the Navy shuttle boats are not now operating on Mondays, the National Park Service is making plans to develop a special interpretive program for that day of the week. Tuesdays and Sundays are the most crowded days of the week, especially during the summer months.

The USS Arizona Memorial operates a full

The National Park Service encourages visitors to avoid Tuesdays and Sundays and to plan their arrival as early in the day as possible.
