MSSG-31 deactivates after seven years service

by Cpl. Pat Lewandowski

A small chapter in Marine Corps history came to a close Tuesday as MSSG-31 retired its colors here.

The deactivation ceremony marked the end of seven years of support to the 31st MAU, and is also the first step in the 1st Marine Brigade's commitment to the Unit Deployment Program.

Col. Harry Solter, commanding officer, BSSG, was the reviewing officer at the ceremony recalling the accomplishments of the support group.

MSSG-31 was formed in 1977 to provide service support to the 31st MAU, which is tasked with operating in the Western Pacific and Indian oceans. It has deployed seven times with the MAU, alternating with MSSG-37.

It supported numerous amphibious operations in Korea, Australia, Thailand, Okinawa and the Republic of the Philippines.

The group provided their air and combat elements of the 31st MAU with support in the areas of maintenance, communication, motor transport, bulk fuel, electrical power, water purification, supply, medical and dispersing services.

The last deployment of MSSG-31 was highlighted by the pumping of more than 33,000 gallons of jet fuel from a helicopter expeditious refueling system during operations in Kenya; and the laying of a wire communication link over seven miles using a UH-1N helicopter from HMM(C)-165.

"MSSG-31 performed its job well and fulfilled a special mission in the Western Pacific in support of the 31st MAU," said BGen. O.K. Steele, commanding general, 1st Marine Brigade.

"This deactivation is significant in that it marks the first step in the Brigade's commitment to the Unit Deployment Program. During the seven years of MSSG's existence, three and one-half of them have been at sea — supporting the 31st MAU in the Western Pacific," said the general.

BGen. Steele went on to thank the Marines and sailors of MSSG-31 for a "job well done," as well as thanking the wives who endured many hardships during MSSG-31's deployment.

MSSG-31 was dissolved into BSSG Tuesday when personnel augmented into various support companies.

The group's equipment assets were distributed throughout the 1st Marine Brigade and the current location of MSSG-31 will be given to MABS-24.

LtCol. Fredric McGrath, commanding officer, MSSG-31, will be assigned to Brigade G-4 and the MSSG colors will be sent to Headquarters Marine Corps.

MSSG-31, which was deactivated during ceremonies Tuesday at Dewey Square, retired its colors after seven years and seven deployments to the Western Pacific with the 31st Marine Amphibious Unit.

Offices relocate as new department acquires computers

A new department, Morale Administrative Support, will be established in the next few months, incorporating computers to standardize all reports submitted to Headquarters Marine Corps.

As a part of this move, the Personal Services Department and Club Systems Management recently relocated to Special Services in Building 219, according to Bill Rogers, Special Services director.

"Officials from HQMC will arrive in early March to determine what type of computers and programs are needed here," said Rogers. "In early spring, a computer expert from HQMC will arrive to implement the program. He will stay with us from 6 to 12 months to eliminate all the bugs."

The computer will be used first for bookkeeping procedures, later incorporating inventories, accounts payable and receivable, purchasing orders and the processing of pay checks.

"This implementation of computers will let managers react in a more timely fashion in referring to patron satisfaction and financial matters. Combining Club Systems, Personal Services and Special Services, in conjunction with the computers, is a basic management tool moving us into the 21st century," said Rogers.

Deployment time compensated

Washington, D.C. (MC-News) — One of the biggest advantages of the Unit Deployment Program is the decrease in personnel turnover. This has improved operational readiness and means fewer PCS moves for Marines and their families.

While cutting back on the number of unaccompanied 12-month tours, the unit deployment program has increased the frequency of deployments and field exercises for many Marines.

To compensate for these absences away from families, Marines are credited with Accumulated Deployment Time, postponing their next 12-month dependents-restricted tour at the rate of two days for every one day spent in a deployed status.

ADT is designed only for Marines assigned to ConUS and Hawaii-based FMF units. It represents the total time a Marine spends in a deployed status for periods of 10 or more continuous days. Credit is also given for participation in field exercises which last 10 days or more.

ADT actually updates and adjusts what Marines commonly refer to as their overseas control date. Adjustments are made on a two for one basis for all increments of 10 or more continuous days.

A new overseas control date is established when a Marine completes an FMF unit deployment/exercise of nine months; accumulates a total of 365 days of ADT during continuous FMF tours; or completes two deployments of at least five months each during a continuous FMF tour.

A key point to remember is that the awarding of a new overseas control date, based on ADT, will not preclude a Marine from remaining in an activity which participates in the Unit Deployment Program, or from being assigned back-to-back tours in the FMF.

It does, however, prevent the involuntary PCS assignment to a dependents-restricted tour until at least 24 months after the awarding of a new overseas control date.

To find out how much ADT you have accumulated, go to your administrative office to discuss your individual deployment record kept in your SRB/OQR. Your Visual Audit Sheet will also display your total ADT in paragraph 5, "Service Information."

Other references for information on ADT and its administrative procedures can be found in MCO 1300.8M, Marine Corps Personnel Assignment Policy, and MCO P1080.35, Personnel Reporting Instructions Manual.

1st Marine Brigade celebrates 84th year

Anniversaries, birthdays and holidays are usually for rejoicing and remembering.

Originally formed Jan. 1, 1901, in the Philippines, the 1st Marine Brigade has the distinguishing traits of being the largest tenant command here and is the only permanent brigade in the Marine Corps combining air and ground units into a force in readiness.

Currently commanded by Brigadier General O.K. Steele, the Brigade is an important piece in the Pacific defense puzzle.

With a mission to provide trained, combat ready, air-ground forces, capable of executing amphibious assault operations and other operations as directed, calls for continuous training under simulated combat conditions.

The 1st Marine Brigade title has been used since 1901 and was first given to an organization in the Philippines consisting of two rifle regiments and two artillery companies, whose job was to bring stability to the Philippine Islands after the Spanish-American War.

Luzon Island was the stage for the Brigade to help build an advanced naval base at Subic Bay and on the island of Samar, beat down an open rebellion against the government.

Between 1939 and 1950, it was reactivated, redesignated and deactivated several times to accomplish various missions during World War II, the post war years and the Korean War.

Recommissioned here as the Provisional Air-Ground Task Force, by President Truman, Jan. 19, 1953, it was renamed the 1st Marine Brigade in 1956.

The 3d Marines, the Brigade's major ground element, is the largest infantry regiment in the Marine Corps due to a supporting artillery battalion, reconnaissance company and an amphibious assault company in-house.

Marine Aircraft Group-24, comprised of three aircraft support squadrons, three fixing squadrons and five helicopter squadrons is the Brigade's air support. Brigade Service Support Group provides logistical support for the Brigade.

Training under various climates in the Hawaiian Islands, and on the mainland United States, the Brigade uses every training site available to maintain its high degree of readiness in its 84th year of existence.

The Hawaii Marine is an unofficial newspaper published every Thursday by RFD Publications, Inc., 46-016 Alaloa St., Kaneohe, Hawaii 96744, in the interest of the U.S. Marine Corps personnel in Hawaii. All advertising is arranged by the publisher, RFD Publications, Inc., telephone 235-5881. Circulation is 8,000.

All news content is prepared by the Joint Public Affairs Office, Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii 96863, telephone 257-2179. Articles for publication must be submitted no later than noon Thursday for the following week's publication. The Hawaii Marine solicits articles and photographs from all Marine Corps organizations; however, it reserves the right to edit or rewrite material submitted.

Everything advertised in this publication must be made available for purchase, use or patronage without regard to race, creed, color, national origin, age or sex of the purchaser, user or patron. A confirmed violation or rejection of this policy of equal opportunities by an advertiser will result in the refusal to print advertising from that source.

Sun Press carriers delivering the Hawaii Marine may request a voluntary monthly contribution of $1 from residents of government housing at the Air Station; however, the contribution is strictly voluntary and residents will receive the Hawaii Marine whether they voluntarily contribute or not.

Illegally parked vehicles towed

The Provost Marshal's Office is cracking down on illegally parked vehicles. In the past month, they have had approximately 40 vehicles towed off base.

An illegally parked vehicle is described as one with expired license plates, inspection stickers or base registration. Also falling in this category are vehicles that have been vandalized, creating an eyesore, according to SSgt. James Treichel, accident investigator.

"The first step when an illegally parked vehicle is discovered is to tag it, letting the owner know there is a violation. All means are used to notify the owner of the violation including notifying his command by letter," said Treichel.

If no action is taken by the owner to alleviate the problem within 24 hours of being notified, he is subject to apprehension for violation of Station Order 5500.6B.

The abandoned vehicle can be towed within 24 hours of being tagged, but towing usually takes three days.

The average cost of recovering a vehicle is $100, according to Treichel. However, it can reach $300 to $400 if the owner is deployed or TAD.

"When an owner is TAD or deployed, he should leave a limited power of attorney with someone who can take corrective measures to avoid towing if a problem occurs with the vehicle," said Treichel.

Personnel who are deployed may store their vehicle at government expense. "By storing the vehicle, a deployed person protects his property from possible vandalism and towing," said Treichel.

Four-wheel vehicles aren't the only ones subject to towing. "We will also be checking the Air Station for owners of illegally parked motorcycles or mopeds," said Treichel. "When found, they will be taken to PMO where they'll be held for three days to be claimed. If not claimed, a truck will be contracted to take them to the Property Disposal Lot where disposition will be the same as for other vehicles."

aid needed

A killer of unparalleled intensity is sweeping across Africa. Each day, it steals the lives of thousands of men, women and children who are victims of starvation, the one epidemic that can be stopped.

The American Red Cross is seeking contributions to feed the starving people in Africa through the African Famine Relief fund. The need is real and rapidly becoming worse.

The death toll mounts daily, with the specter of starvation endangering a population of 185 million in 27 African nations.

The American Red Cross has launched a multi-million dollar campaign to provide food and medical assistance programs to the most vulnerable groups: children, pregnant women, nursing mothers and the elderly.

Money donated to the Red Cross will be used to buy food, such as cereals, edible oils, milk powder, dried fish, sugar, baby food and protein tablets; medical supplies; vehicles and airlift services to transport supplies; provide trained medical and relief personnel; and to install long-range production programs, such as tree planting and backyard gardening as preparation for increased agricultural production.

The Air Station Red Cross Office and the Hawaii State Chapter of the American Red Cross are accepting donations for the African Famine Relief fund.

For more information contact the Air Station Red Cross Office at 257-2575/2606 or the Hawaii State Chapter at (808) 734-2101.

Court upholds Navy's policy

Washington (NES) — A federal appeals court has upheld a Navy policy decision to discipline a Navy woman who refused to wear her uniform or perform duties while seeking a discharge as a conscientious objector.

In seeking her discharge, Leslie Ann Cole had undergone psychiatric evaluations and interviews with commanding officers and military chaplains. All had recommended the discharge request be approved, and her command transferred her from hull technician duties to the shipboard galley until approval of her discharge from the Navy.

While awaiting Navy approval of her conscientious objector discharge, Cole saw the movie "Gandhi," after which she refused to wear her uniform or perform her duties. The Navy stopped her request for a conscientious objector discharge and, instead, court-martialed her.

She was found guilty of disobedience of lawful orders and sentenced to 60 days at hard labor, forfeiture of $350 pay per month for three months and given a Bad Conduct Discharge.

Cole took her case to a federal court in Baltimore which ordered the Navy to issue Cole the conscientious objector discharge.

The Navy took the case to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which upheld the Navy's original decision to court-martial the woman for refusing to wear her uniform and perform her duties.

Beneficiaries to receive Social Security statements

Social Security beneficiaries will receive a statement during January showing the total amount of benefits paid in 1984 because some benefits are now taxable.

Beneficiaries who are single and have a total income of $25,000, or $32,000 if married, will have one half of their Social Security benefits taxed. They are the only people who need to use the statement.

There is no need to get further explanation of the information on the form if the beneficiary's income is below the taxable amounts.

Another form will be included with this statement that can be used as a worksheet to determine whether taxes are required.

If more information is needed regarding the statement, beneficiaries should call 1-900-200-1099, a toll free number operating 24 hours a day during January.

Anyone needing information regarding the actual computation of their income tax should contact the Internal Revenue Service.

Navy Memorial names sought

Washington (NES) — Having a hard time finding just the right gift for the sailors in your life? You could list their names in the planned U.S. Navy Memorial in Washington, D.C.

Present and former Navy people may have their names permanently recorded in the memorial's computer vault. The names will be scrolled on a video screen for visitors to see, and individual names could be requested and viewed on a "scoreboard" display in the Navy Memorial Log Room. In addition to names, the display also will show dates of service and highest rank or rate held.

Names aren't automatically entered into the computer. You have to donate at least $25 to the Navy Memorial construction fund. The estimated $10 million cost of building the memorial must come from private contributions, and donations are tax deductible.

Information on subscriptions to the log and other support for the memorial is available from the U.S. Navy Memorial Foundation, Box 332, McLean, Va. 22101 or by calling (703) 524-0830.

Soldiers train the Recon way

by SSGT. Dave Smith
 Five soldiers learned reconnaissance "Marine-style" last week after completing inflatable boat and water operations training with Co. A, 3rd Recon Bn. here.

The members of Recon Platoon, C Troop, 3rd Squadron, 4th Air Cavalry, at Schofield Barracks, completed the strenuous four-day training cycle with mixed emotions.

"We had no idea we'd be doing this much swimming," explained Sgt. Randall Henderson, the acting squad leader, "and since we're Air Cavalry, we hardly do any operations over the water in our normal job."

In addition to the inflatable boat training, the soldiers received training on conducting beach surveys, reconnaissance and surf swimming techniques, "SPIE" rigging and helicopter water insertions. A 13-mile force march from Bellows Air Force Station concluded the training.

"Even though the training may not be of great importance to us in relation to our job, it's good to know that you can do it if the need ever arises," concluded Henderson.

Widows stranded without spouse's insurance

by Sgt. Christopher Wood

Marines nearing retirement may be starting a new life, but they should ensure their spouses are financially secure when that life ends.

Occasionally, a Marine will retire without enrolling in an insurance program, leaving his spouse with no money or, worse yet, no rights to his retirement pay.

The Survivor Benefit Plan is designed to prevent, or at least alleviate, such problems by providing a surviving spouse with a percentage of the retiree's pension.

"A retiree can leave up to 55 percent of his base retirement pay to his widow," said retired Army Colonel Sam L. Barth, now a Honolulu insurance agent and an advisor on SBP. "But he must enroll in the program before retirement — it's supposed to be 30 days — or his spouse will receive nothing."

Preretirement counseling

A prospective retiree will be informed of SBP's provisions during his preretirement counseling. According to Barth, many become confused about SBP's monthly premium. "It costs to use the program," he explained, "and a lot of people don't understand the formula that's used to determine monthly payments."

Once the formula is learned, according to Barth, it's not very complicated. If a retiree was receiving $1,000 a month, he could choose for his spouse to receive 55 percent of that amount in the event of his death. As a premium, he would pay 2½ percent of the first $300, which would be $7.50, and 10 percent of the balance for a total of $77.50.

Although a retiree could elect to have his spouse receive 55 percent of his total retirement pay, he could also have the percentage computed from as little as $300. In that event, a spouse would receive $165 a month by paying a premium of $7.50.

Others eligible

Spouses aren't the only ones eligible for SBP benefits. If a retiree so chooses, he could name as his beneficiary a different relative, friend, business associate or anyone he desired.

Benefits can't be switched from one person to another. In the event of divorce, cases would have to be settled on an individual basis, and some could wind up in court.

Despite numerous benefits of SBP, there are drawbacks. "I enrolled in SBP 10 years ago for the $300 minimum," Barth said. "But, due to cost-of-living raises, my contribution has gone from $7.50 a month to $33.10, and my wife's benefits have gone from $165 to $332. Although her protection has doubled, my payments have quadrupled," he said.

Another drawback is the Social Security offset. "If you retired and elected SBP," Barth said, "after your death your widow would receive her share of your pension. But when she became entitled to Social Security at age 63, her SBP could be reduced by as much as 40 percent. That's probably the greatest disadvantage."

If the retiree's wife dies before he does, he gets nothing back, Barth explained. Once enrolled, you can't disenroll.

Individuals, Barth said, have to judge for themselves whether or not to elect SBP. "Each person should analyze it based on his own situation," the retired colonel remarked. Some decide against it because of confusion, according to Barth, and a lot of retirees base their decision on the misconception that the Dependency Indemnity Compensation will last after retirement.

"If a married E-5 was enrolled in DIC and was to die on active duty, his widow would receive roughly $500 a month for life. But DIC ends when they retire; many people don't realize that," he commented.

Civilian insurance

As for SBP, Barth does not compare it with civilian insurance plans. "You can't compare apples and oranges," he said. "Their provisions are entirely different. Depending on what a person has in savings and investment, he might even choose both SBP and civilian insurance. But I feel that everyone should at least elect the SBP minimum and go from there."

Barth has nothing but scorn for those retirees, or soon to be retirees, who procrastinate and wind up with no insurance at all. "For someone to take a chance on dying and leaving his spouse with nothing is not only foolhardy — it's criminal," he concluded.

Anyone with questions about SBP should contact the Joint Career Planner at 257-3244.

Art design sought for Vietnam medal

A new medal honoring the millions of men and women who served in the Vietnam conflict has been authorized by Congress, but money was not authorized to pay for a design.

The United States Mint is asking for artists who have feelings about the subject, and think it is important enough, to do a design for the front and back of the medal.

Artists wishing to contribute a design for the medal must have the design mailed to arrive by Feb. 28. Designs should be sent to: Vietnam Veterans National Medal, U.S. Mint, Treasury Department, Washington, D.C. 20220.

The name of the winning artist will be inscribed on the medal due to no cash award being presented.

The submitted designs must be no more than 1½ inches in diameter. On the face should be included the inscription "Vietnam Veterans National Medal" and on the back side should be the phrase "By Act of Congress — 1984."

After Feb. 28, judges will select the best 12 designs which will be forwarded to the Secretary of Treasury and the Fine Arts Commission for final selection.

Give a BOOST to your career; don't let education slip your mind

Washington, D.C. (MC-News) — Some Marines are missing out on a tremendous educational opportunity by not applying for the Broadened Opportunity for Officer Selection and Training program.

As a result, they miss out on another opportunity — becoming eligible for a commission. The problem, according to HQMC Professional Development and Education officials, may be a lack of understanding about BOOST and exactly who is eligible to apply.

BOOST is a 12-month college preparatory school at the Naval Training Center, San Diego. It is designed to prepare students for college acceptance by way of the Marine Corps Enlisted Commissioning Education Program or the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps Scholarship Program. Classes are taught by civilian instructors and include college preparatory instruction in English, reading, science and mathematics.

BOOST is for people who didn't have an "even break" in their education — those who couldn't live up to their potential because of hardships caused by family situations, finances, prejudicial environment or a school curriculum, which was inadequate to prepare them for college.

Contrary to what some people believe, Marine participation in BOOST is not limited to minorities. It began in 1969 under the Department of the Navy as a minority officer accession program. But since 1974, it has expanded to include selected Marines from all ethnic groups who have been educationally deprived or culturally differentiated.

Attesting to the program's success are the 52 BOOST graduates on active duty today who are Marine officers. The Marine Corps can send an average of 33 students per year to BOOST, but there are only 22 Marines in the 1984 class. Specific eligibility and application requirements for BOOST are contained in Marine Corps Order 1560.24-B. Basic guidelines on what the terms "educationally deprived" and "culturally differentiated" are:

Not taking college preparatory courses in high school; The high school didn't offer college preparatory study;

Grades were affected because the student needed to help support the family; or Lack of family reinforcement to achieve good grades and education. This could be due to family size, separation or other conditions.

The term culturally differentiated is defined as numerous moves to different neighborhoods or schools; being a minority in the neighborhood or school; speaking English as a second language; or experiencing prejudice because of race or culture.

To help gain a better understanding of the type of individual the program is for, the profile of the average

Marine student in 1984's BOOST class is:

a 21-year-old corporal who finished high school with a C plus average;

the Marine most likely came from a large, low income family which may have experienced divorce or the death of a parent;

the student probably worked before or after school to help out financially; had one chance in three of getting the right kind of encouragement to do well in school, or in attending a school which offered college preparatory courses; and the student may be among the one third of the class who suffered cultural hardships due to language, background and prejudice.

If you are not qualified for other commissioning and education programs, but feel you have the desire, motivation and potential to improve yourself, don't wait.

For more information about BOOST, contact Maj. A.J. Pignone at AUTOVON 224-2115 or (202) 69-2115.

Education

University of Oklahoma

The University of Oklahoma is offering two graduate programs for the 1985 spring semester.

"Managerial Economics" will be held Jan. 27-Feb. 2 with "Managerial Economics II" and April 14-20 with Business Cycles.

For more information on registration call Joy Fife at 449-1849.

CMU degrees

Central Michigan University has established a graduate program center of Kaneohe Bay and four other locations in Hawaii to offer masters degree programs with classes meeting on week-ends.

CMU offers a Master of Science in Administration degree, designed for career-oriented individuals who seek professional expertise and career advancement.

It consists of a core of courses designed to enhance administrative skills and a concentration of courses in a particular field of interest, including private sector administration, health services administration, human resources administration and public administration. Central currently has program centers at Camp Smith, Hickam Air Force Base, MCAS Kaneohe Bay, Schofield Barracks and Tripler Army Medical Center. Central's Hawaiian centers are part of its international network of 52 graduate program centers located in Canada and throughout the United States.

Additional information and applications for admission may be obtained by calling CMU's Kaneohe Center (808) 254-2694 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday, or write Central Michigan University, Joint Education Center, MCAS Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii 96863-5001.

Marines show each other the ropes.

Having friends who look out for you and who you look out for in return comes with being a Marine. Simply put, you count on the Marine next to you.

The sense of community you experience as a Marine isn't duplicated in the civilian world. It's more or less every man and woman for themselves. Which only makes sense when you think about it. After all, they don't have that much in common. They've never gone through tough training together. Very few have had to show their inner fortitude in difficult situations.

And those are probably some of the reasons why Marines have the pride they do. In themselves, their families, their Corps and country. Marines have a lot of experiences and training in common. Think about that if you're thinking about becoming a civilian.

You can count on the Corps.

STAY MARINE.

At a glance

3/3 change of command

LtCol. H.L. Reed will assume command of 3/3 1st Marine Brigade, from LtCol. C.C. Krulak during a change of command ceremony Friday at 3 p.m. at Platt Field.

LtCol. Krulak will assume duties with the 1st Marine Brigade staff.

All interested servicemembers and their families are invited to attend. Uniform is summer service "C" for military guests and appropriate attire for civilians.

Navy Relief help sought

If you are interested in volunteering some spare time to Navy Relief, but would like to do so outside the office, your assistance is needed for the Layette Program.

Crocheted booties and sewers for layettes are needed. All supplies are available and items to be sewn are pre-cut.

Call the Chairman of Volunteers at 254-1327 for more information or to volunteer.

Quarterly formation

The quarterly Air Station formation for awards presentation and inspection will be held at Dewey Square, 7 a.m. Jan. 25.

Uniform for the formation is summer service "C" with ribbons. All personnel attending should be at Dewey Square, ready to form into platoons, by 6:45 a.m.

The inspection will follow the awards presentation.

OWC tour

The OWC is sponsoring a Washington Place tour Tuesday, at 10 a.m.

The tour is free and participants should meet in the parking lot behind the BOQ by 8:45 a.m., where directions will be given.

Reservation deadline is Sunday. Contact Carla Shaw at 254-2700 or Cathy Marquardt at 254-2792.

OWC auction

The OWC is sponsoring an art exhibition and auction Feb. 16-17 at the O'Club, lower lanai, presented by a local gallery.

A preview will be held from 6 to 7:30 p.m., and the auction begins at 8. There will be door prizes, pupus, a no host bar, and a $2 donation per person.

The auction will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Feb. 17. Brunch will be available at additional cost. Credit cards will be accepted for the auction.

Quit smoking

The Kaneohe Branch Medical Clinic, in conjunction with the American Cancer Society, will be offering "Freshstart," a four-day course on how to kick the smoking habit.

The program, free to active duty and retired military, and their families, begins Tuesday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the training room opposite the Pharmacy here. Classes also will be conducted Jan. 24, 29 and 31.

For more information, contact the Adult Clinic at 257-2131, or the Windward unit of the American Cancer Society at 262-5124.

Volunteers needed

Mothers Against Drunk Driving is looking for volunteers to assist in several projects.

Anyone who wishes to donate one morning or afternoon a month is welcome! You do not have to be a member of MADD to volunteer. Membership for those interested is $20 a year.

For more information call Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., 261-5054.

Monitors visit

The Officer Monitor Team from HQMC will visit the Air Station today and Friday to meet with officers in ground and aviation military occupational fields.

A briefing for all officers will be held at the lower lanai of the O'Club from 2 to 3 p.m. today. Interviews with the monitors will be scheduled from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Friday for members of the 1st Marine Brigade.

Interviews for the Air Station officers will be in the Station conference room from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Mokapu PTSA

The monthly general meeting for the Mokapu PTSA will be Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The aluminum can drive is continuing. Cans can be dropped off on Jan. 25 from 7 to 7:45 a.m. in the grass parking area of the school.

Power outage

A power outage is scheduled for Friday and Feb. 1 to allow a contractor to make repairs.

The following facilities will be without power from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.: buildings 603, 620, and the NOSC area.

There will be no emergency power provided. Any questions concerning the outage may be directed to the facilities department utilities foreman, Hagime Fujita, at 257-2171.

State elections

It's election time again as the following states have upcoming elections:

New Mexico voters will cast their ballots for school district officials Feb. 5. Residents on active duty, their spouses and dependents residing outside of the state may use the Federal Post Card Application to request an absentee ballot.

Oklahoma has set elections for school board officials for Tuesday; municipal primary elections on March 5; and the general elections for municipal offices on April 2. Residents on active duty residing outside the state, their spouses and dependents may use the FPCA to request an absentee ballot.

Vermont is holding municipal elections March 5. Active duty residents, their spouses and dependents residing outside the state may use an FPCA to request an absentee ballot.

Village primary elections are scheduled in Michigan for Feb. 18 and the annual election is March 11. You may get further information and assistance from your Voting Assistance Officer.

Scholarships

HQMC (MCNews) - The Marine Corps Scholarship Foundation is now accepting scholarship applications for the 1985-86 academic year and expects to award $400,000 in aid to deserving children of active duty and former Marines.

Eligible applicants must be the son or daughter of an active duty, reserve or former Marine in good standing; a high school senior; high school graduate; registered as an undergraduate student in an accredited college; or, be enrolled in a post high school vocational/technical institution. Scholarships are not available for graduate study. The combined gross family income cannot exceed $25,000 in the 1984 taxable year.

Since 1962, the Marine Corps Scholarship Foundation has awarded 2,451 scholarships to deserving students, ranging from $600 to $1,500. Nearly two thirds of all applicants receive some degree of financial aid.

Written requests for a scholarship application form should be addressed to: Marine Corps Scholarship Foundation, James Forrestal Campus, P.O. Box 3008, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Girl Scout cookies

Girl Scout cookies will be on sale through Feb. 3, and can be bought for $2.25.

Girls will be selling, Thin Mints; Savannahs, peanut butter creme sandwiches; Scot Teas, sugar-topped shortbread cookies; Hoedowns, chocolate coated peanut butter; Coconut Cremes; Chocollages, chocolate coated cookie bars; and Golden Yangles, cheese snack crackers.

The seven varieties of cookies and crackers will be sold to raise money for the upkeep of the three campsites on the islands of Oahu, Maui, and Hawaii, which provide year-round camping opportunities for Girl Scouts and non-Girl Scouts.

Profits from the cookie sale make it possible for girls to receive financial help to attend resident and day camps on all islands, as well as mainland and inter-island events. A portion goes toward the operating budget to provide program training and assistance to the hundreds of adult volunteers who make Girl Scouting work.

Girl Scout troops use the cookie sale time to add to their own troop treasury for projects and activities planned throughout the year.

Reward

KDEO Country Radio is offering a $10,000 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons responsible for the destruction of its radio tower on Jan. 1. Information will be kept confidential. Please call Crimestoppers at 955-8300.

YMCA classes

The Armed Services YMCA Outreach program will offer several classes this month.

The Prenatal Class will be from 1 to 3 p.m. Tuesday and Jan. 29, in Building 445.

On the last two Mondays and Thursdays of the month a GED and "English for Foreign Born" wives class will be held from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

On every Tuesday, a "Self Esteem Class for Kids" will be offered from 9 to 11 a.m. Classes will continue through the end of the month. "Hair Today" will be featured Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m.

A Governor's Mansion Excursion will be offered Jan. 30 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

For more information, call 254-4719/4965.

Area exchanges close

The Ft. Shafter, Hickam AFB and Schofield Barracks main stores will be closed Jan. 24 for fiscal inventory. The Hickam Furniture Mart, Hickam Outdoor Living Shop, Schofield Furniture Store, Hickam and Schofield Military Clothing Sales Stores, the Tripler Exchange and the Schofield Quad B Exchange will also be closed for inventory Jan. 24, and will open for business Jan. 25.

To accomodate customers while the main stores are closed for inventory, all exchange shoppettes will close at 4 p.m. Wednesday and reopen for normal business at noon Jan. 24.

The Hale Koa and Bellows exchanges will also close at 4 p.m. Wednesday and reopen at noon Jan. 24. The Hickam MAC Terminal Exchange will close at 5 p.m., Wednesday and reopen at 9 a.m. Jan. 24.

All retail accessory stores at service stations will close for inventory at noon Jan. 24 and reopen Jan. 25. Gasoline sales will continue at normal hours of operation except at the Aliamanu Service Station which will observe the Aliamanu Shoppette's inventory hours.

Citizenship class

A Citizenship Class, sponsored by the Windward School for Adults, is scheduled for Tuesday at the Armed Services YMCA here.

The class will be held Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., for eight weeks. It is open to all active duty servicemembers and their families.

The fee is $5, and registration deadline is Friday.

For more information, call 254-4719 or 257-4965.

WAREHOUSE FLOOD SALE:

THE FLOOD STORY

(taken from the Honolulu Advertiser Dec. 19, 1984)

At 10:45 a.m. a valve on one of the Dole Cannery pipes broke, spewing several thousand gallons of water down an alley that separates the cannery from The Marsh Co. warehouse at 720 Iwilei Road. Before the torrent could be stopped, much of it had seeped into The Marsh Co.'s warehouse, and fire department crews were called to help pump the water out.

A Japanese orphan peers out of his classroom as the Marines from BLT 2/3 pay a visit.

Plaques and signs throughout the Seibi Orphanage pay tribute to the Marines' efforts for the orphanage.

BLT spends holiday on Japanese mainland

by SSgt. Bob Torres

Aboard the USS Tarawa (Delayed) — The first glimpse of Japan was through the fog. It was a series of dark silhouettes rising from the horizon. The Tarawa seemed to be gliding through the sea that had lost its steady pitching and rolling and settled to a gentle peaceful body of water.

After two weeks of steaming, we neared Japan. The first thought was to get off the ship, and then liberty. It came as an afterthought that this Thursday would be Thanksgiving Day.

The similarity of a couple of centuries past when the pilgrims landed in Plymouth was lost. After having been on the ship, the first reaction was simply to get off not to give "thanks," that would come later.

Marines and sailors who were to comprise the advance party to Camp Fuji had packed their gear to depart. Even the cold and wet of Mount Fuji was looked upon with anticipation . . . anything to get off the ship.

Japan, the former feudal country, was to become haven for the servicemen who had come from San Diego, Yuma and Hawaii. Past memories were forgotten as thoughts of today and tomorrow's activities were in mind.

Japan. Marines and sailors would make new acquaintances and soon memories that would never be forgotten would be etched on their minds.

Marines brighten orphans' lives

by SSgt. Bob Torres

Aboard the USS Tarawa (Delayed) — First there was the sound of small children playing. Then, a small face peered from a classroom. Suddenly, with a shout and a bursting smile, one little person came running out, followed by another and another.

Marines from BLT 2/3 were paying their last visit to the Seibi Orphanage, located about 40 minutes from Camp Fuji, Japan.

Since the first week of training at Camp Fuji, Marines had found time during the weekends to visit with the orphans. "This is my second time up here, said Sgt. Jack Kellum, Co. F. "I hope I get to see the same little girl I saw the first time."

Excitement, fun and laughter filled the rooms as more children came from their rooms to see the visitors. "The Marines are kind of walking gymnasiums for the kids," said Chaplain Jack Cahill. "The children find all kinds of ways to hang from them."

Orphans were hanging under arms, on backs, between legs and on the laps of seated Marines. Smiles and laughter were the only communication needed since the orphans knew few English words and the Marines knew only a smattering of Japanese.

The person in charge of the orphanage, Sister Morando Mafalda of the Salesian order of Nuns, could speak both languages. In fact, she could speak her native Italian, a little French, Spanish, Japanese, and more.

"Chaplain, you've got to stay," said Sister Mafalda, when she discovered that this was to be the last trip to the orphanage. "You cannot go. The children have worked on a play for Christmas and you've got to stay to see it."

For those Marines who were visiting for the first time, she took time out to show them the many different ways the orphanage had changed with the Marines' help.

On the front of the building was the bronze plaque that honors the 12th Marines for having provided money to build it in 1954. Inside the children's playground area is another plaque commemorating Marines' contributions that helped build the newer, larger building in 1967.

Sister Mafalda then took the Marines to the boiler room where plaques commemorating other Marines who had helped at the Seibi House hung on the wall.

"These were the ones who sent money to help repair the boilers," she said. "Also, we're very thankful to the Marines who sent us their empty ammunition boxes and spare pallets. We use that wood to burn in the boilers. To us, that's important" she said.

Meanwhile, Marines still in the stage area were getting worn out by the tireless young children.

There are 40 orphans between the ages of two and six who live at Seibi House. They live 10 to a room with a Sister or civilian live-in worker in each room.

Supervisors wrestled the children out of the Marines' arms and took them to their rooms where they began dressing for the play.

As the Marines seated themselves for the play, the sounds of scurrying feet could be heard as the children raced from their rooms to the backstage. Music started, the curtain rose and the children got their first view of the audience.

Singing, dancing, leaps and whirls were all part of the act as Marines cheered and whistled their applause. When the first group was preparing to leave the stage, the next group of children were already waiting anxiously for their chance on-stage.

Between acts, two young boys came running up partially clothed and leaped on a couple of Marine's laps. With covers fitted away, they laughed and clapped for their friends on-stage.

"You're going to have to give them up," said SSgt. Ray Bailey, admin chief for the BLT. "I think they belong to the next act." Soon a supervisor came in, looked around and saw her charges on the Marines' laps. Quickly she removed them, smiled at the Marines and rushed them back to their rooms to finish getting them dressed.

Finally it was time for the Marines to leave. With hugs and waves they headed for the bus. Sister Mafalda followed behind and as Marines took their seats she gave all her blessings.

"Thank you, very, very much," she said emphatically. "Your visit has meant a lot to the children. May the rest of your trip be good, keep up your goodwill, and thank you, thank you. Good-bye."

As the bus moved away, smiles could be seen on the Marines' faces as they thought of the pleasant memories of just moments ago.

A Marine lets a Japanese orphan peer through his camera. BLT 2/3 Marines made it a point to visit the orphans each weekend while the Marines trained at Camp Fuji.

Camp Fuji hosts training

by SSgt. Bob Torres

Camp Fuji, Japan (Delayed) — The slogan that says Marines train to fight in "every clime and place" is being tested as Marines from BLT 2/3 train at Camp Fuji, Japan.

The Kunohe Bay-based Marines, supported by elements of the 37th MAU Service Support Group, and units from as far away as Camp Pendleton, have been in Japan since Nov. 21.

They left the warmth of the base camp Dec. 4, and moved out to "the field" for a two-day operation. "There will be a mechanized assault on the 'enemy' position," said Maj. J.L. Wilson, executive officer for the BLT. "Co. E will take the first objective, and with tank support proceed to the second objective. Co. G will go by trucks, and move to its location; and Co. F will be helo-lifted to the third objective."

After setting up tents for the evening, Co. G wasn't idle. Weapons were cleaned, gear was checked and classes were given on how to take the "enemy."

"If you see one of the enemy down on his stomach, apparently dead, don't trust him," said one squad leader. "Come up and spread his legs carefully with your foot. If he moves, you know what to do. If you're with a buddy, one of you will turn him over, but watch for booby traps."

Warm food was brought from the base camp as weapons were again checked and preparations for the morning "battle" were made. Even the "enemy" forces, Marines from the MSSG, came in off the mountain slopes for some hot food. As the sun went down shortly after 5 p.m., Marines began getting into their sleeping bags.

When the morning sun broke over the slopes, Marines moved slowly out of their sleeping bags and began experiencing the cold.

As Marines prepared for the day, a fog bank rolled in and covered the mountain-side. Visibility was reduced to a few feet. Soon, the word came in that expected helicopters would not be coming because of the fog.

The situation was altered, and the operation began. Co. F, which was to have been helo-lifted to its position, was trucked instead. Co. E used tanks and amphibious assault vehicles to move to its position. Co. G was later moved by truck.

The fog that had blanketed the area lifted for a few moments, and then rolled back in. Because of the fog and the inability to see landmarks, Co. E moved to a position several hundred meters from its destination.

"What we have here is a hammer and anvil action," explained Maj. Jeff Finley, S-3 officer for the BLT.

"We've got the enemy in the middle and that's where we

Marine powerlifters pump iron in Station bench press contest

by Sgt. L.C. Brooks
Their muscles flexed, rippled and dimpled as 15 powerlifters struggled to be the best in their weight class at the Semiannual

Bench Press Contest, Saturday, at the mini-gym here.
Cpl. Joseph Coates, H&HS, had no competition in winning the Best

Heavyweight title with a 430 pound lift. "Hopefully, with the support of Special Services and the units, this is just the first of many competitions," said Coates.
"This is my first competition, so I'm very pleased with my performance," said LCpl. Tod Pentecost, Provost Marshal's Office, who won second Best Heavyweight Lifter with a 360-pound lift.
The title of Best Lightweight Lifter was captured by Sgt. John Mrotek, HMM-265, with a winning lift of 335 pounds. This was his first competition in two years. "I probably would have done better with more preparation, but I'm happy," said Mrotek.

Cpl. David Alan, 1stRdBn., won Second Best Lightweight Lifter with a 315-pound lift. He encourages other powerlifters to "lift heavy and be proud."

Trophies were awarded after the Semi-Annual Bench Press Contest.

1st Lt. Jim Flowers, BSSG, concentrates before his turn to lift.

want him."

"The fog works well for us," expressed Wilson, "because we know where we are and the defenders do not. They can't see us, so it's hard for them to defend themselves. Surprise is on our side."

As daylight dwindled into twilight, visibility was again lost to the fog. Marines moving through the area were as ghosts, barely discernible, then gone. And then the snow came.

"Something that we'll plan on in the future is more 24-hour operations in the field," said LtCol. Larry D. Springer, BLT commander. "That way, we'll be having people doing operations at night just as we have during the day. We may try to do something like that when we hit the Philippines. And if we can carry it out, we can continue to call ourselves 'the night fighters'."

"About 70 percent of the people we have here have been deployed before," said Wilson. "So for some of the Marines it's nothing new. It's just the way we keep training."

Animal care

Vaccines are not guaranteed to prevent disease because too many variables are involved.

The most important factor is the immune system of the individual pet. Like people, pets have varying abilities to respond to vaccines and fight off infections.

Some animals naturally respond to vaccination better than others. Very young pups and kittens, and older pets, appear to have a diminished ability to respond to vaccines. In such cases, it is critical that the animal be revaccinated at proper intervals.

For more information call 257-3643.

Super Bowl XIX: 'Greatest show'

49ers favored

Russ Francis, Hawaii's own star tight end for the San Francisco 49ers, has been instructed by coach Bill Walsh to forget the Aloha Spirit Sunday when his championship Conference Miami Dolphin in Super Bowl XIX.

Legendary entrepreneurs P.T. Barnum and the Ringling Brothers pooled their ideas years ago to give the world a brainstorm billed as "The Greatest Show On Earth," a three-ring circus bubbling with wild animals, sequin-clad beauties, rollicking clowns and death-defying daredevils.

But wait. Now it's the NFL Ringmaster shouting, "Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! Step right up, folks, and witness the most spectacular and breathtaking display of pigskin panorama ever staged for the modern world! Chills! Spills! Step right up! Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!"

The Greatest Show On Earth, at least to the NFL, is not the circus but the league's own Super Bowl, and all the stops have been pulled in hyping Super Bowl XIX as THE BEST of all the rest.

Super Bowl XIX, scheduled Sunday in Stanford Stadium, certainly pits the best of the NFL's member teams. NFC champion San Francisco (17-1) and AFC champion Miami (16-2) compiled the league's best records this season and did so with style and consistency that even the most hater opponents had to admire.

Las Vegas oddsmakers favor the 49ers by 2½ points, which should have Dolphins' fans licking their chops. It will be the first time this season Miami is the underdog.

The Dolphins previously have been cast as heavy favorites — heavy as in the Rock of Gibraltar — and it's a role worthy of an Academy Award.

Sophomore quarterback Dan Marino should get the Oscar for Best Performance in a year which can only be described as magical. Marino, who became a starter midway through his rookie year in 1983, rewrote the league's passing record book by tossing 48 touchdown passes during the regular season.

The former Pitt Panther has thrown seven more touchdowns in the playoffs (three against Seattle and four against Pittsburgh) for a season-total of TV coverage starts at 11 a.m.

The Super Bowl XIX pre-game show will start at 11 a.m. Sunday on KHON-TV, channel 4, with announcers Al Michaels and Jim Lampley reviewing past Super Bowls and spotlighting key matchups in this year's contest.

Michaels and Lampley also will handle the halftime and post-game shows.

Kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m.

49ers seek 'respect' from TNT offense

55 and produced the NFL's first 5,000-yard passing season.

Marino, who seems to string once-in-a-lifetime efforts regularly, saved his best performance for the AFC title game against Pittsburgh, where he completed 21-of-32 attempts for 421 yards and four touchdowns, establishing two more AFC passing marks.

The two best Marks, however, are not statistics, but Miami receivers Mark Clayton and Mark Duper. Tagged "The Marks Brothers," Clayton and Duper are the best bookend receivers in the league, lightning quick and sure-handed.

Miami's offense, the most explosive unit the NFL may ever produce, revolves around Marino and the Marks Brothers, but this highly regarded pass-catch combination is the first to acknowledge another little-publicized aspect of the attack — the offensive line.

Marino gets excellent protection from a frontline safety net that has allowed just 13 sacks during the regular season and none thus far in the playoffs.

The Dolphins also pride themselves on defense where their "Killer B's" — so named because nine defensive starters have last names beginning with the letter B — still can sting its opponents.

San Francisco, like all the other NFL teams this season, has read plenty of glowing reports on Miami, but the 49ers also have been the subject of well-deserved press this year.

While Miami was gunning down Pittsburgh, 45-28, in the AFC championship game, San Francisco nailed the coffin shut on Chicago, 23-0, for the NFC title.

Chicago entered the game touting its defensive prowess. The 49ers responded with a cut aimed at the Bears' pride. San Francisco's defense, which plays without a flashy moniker, shut out the Bears.

The 49ers, who have yet to yield a touchdown in postseason play, sacked Chicago quarterback Steve Fuller nine times for a total of 50 yards lost. The defense allowed just 186 total yards, 37 passing and 149 rushing (holding Walter Payton to 92).

Miami's TNT offense and San Francisco's "We Want Respect" defense are going to clash in the proverbial meeting of an irresistible force and an immovable object. Something's got to give, but what?

The 49ers also boast an offense capable of lighting up any scoreboard in the league. Quarterback Joe Montana led the team to a Super Bowl title two years ago and is cool under fire.

There are no Marks Brothers at the end of his touchdown passes, but speedy Renaldo Nehemiah runs as fast as anyone and Freddie Solomon is the prototype wide receiver. Tight end Russ Francis, a well-known local boy, will butt heads with the best.

Kicker Ray Wersching often is overlooked on a team with so many superstars, but he scored 11 of the 49ers' 23 points in the NFC championship.

Both Miami coach Don Shula and 49ers' coach Bill Walsh have won previous Super Bowl titles. Shula, eyeing his sixth Super Bowl, is a football legend. He is revered as an old Master of the game. Walsh has been called a genius for his renowned pass-pass-pass philosophy that revolutionized professional football.

NBC will broadcast the Jan. 27 Pro Bowl at Aloha Stadium to the Mainland beginning at 11 a.m.

The bowl will not be shown live over television in Honolulu, but arrangements will be made to broadcast it locally by radio.

How Pro Bowl players were picked

In the National Football League, the players selected to take part in the annual Pro Bowl are chosen by the coaches of each team and the members of the National League Players Association.

This year, only four players received unanimous votes.

In the National Football Conference, they were Joe Montana of San Francisco and linebacker Lawrence

Taylor of the New York Giants.

In the American Football Conference, it was two running backs, Marcus Allen of the Los Angeles Rams and Kenny Easley of the Seattle Seahawks.

Noll vs. Ditka: Old pro against new coach

The 1985 Pro Bowl pits one of the most successful coaches in professional football — Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers — against one of the National Football League's newest — player-turned-coach Mike Ditka of the Chicago Bears.

Noll, coach of the AFC squad, has put together 12 consecutive winning seasons, taking the Steelers to the playoffs in 10 of those 12 years. He has the seventh winningest record in the National Football League with 147 career victories.

Ditka, who has played in five Pro Bowls, will be coaching in his first one. Taking over the helm of the Bears in 1982, his 1984 team posted a 10-6 record to win its first NFC Central Division championship since 1963.

On Jan. 27, the two coaches will meet, each in charge of the best talent available in professional football.

One thing both had in common in the 1984 campaign was an emphasis on defense. The Bears ranked No. 1 in the league in defense, yielding an average of 241.4 yards per game.

They did it by being No. 1 against the rush, holding opponents to only 86.1 on the average per game, and by being No. 2 against the pass. Opponents managed an average of only 155.4 yards in the air against the Bears.

While not as impressive as the Bears, the Steeler defense ranked third in the NFC, with opponents averaging 307.3 yards a game. Against the run, Pittsburgh was first in the conference, holding opposing teams to an average of 101.1 yards a game.

But considering the talent both coaches have available — particularly in the two most offensive-minded quarterbacks in football: Joe Montana of San Francisco and Dan Marino, the miracle of Miami — it is doubtful that Jan. 17's game will turn into a defensive struggle.

Another thing both coaches have in common is the ability to turn losing teams into winners.

In 1969, Noll inherited a 2-11-2 team. His 1970 team opened with a win followed by 13 losses. But that season, with all of the difficulties, earned the Steelers the No. 1 draft choice, and that brought Terry Bradshaw to Pittsburgh.

The losing streak carried over into the See COACHES Pg. 13

Coaches turned losers into winners

COACHES from Pg. 12
1970 season when the Steelers moved to Three Rivers Stadium, opening in their new home with three straight losses and ending with a 5-9 mark.

The next year the Steelers went 6-8, and in 1972, Noll's squad won its first AFC central title with an 11-3 record. They lost to Miami that year, 17-0, in the AFC championship game, but Noll was named AFC Coach of the Year.

Today, his win-loss record is 147-87-1.

Ditka is still probably better known for his playing days than his coaching expertise.

Since moving to the head coaching job of the Bears — moving up from the Dallas Cowboys staff, where he coached special teams and wide receivers since 1973 — Ditka has a win-loss record of 21-20.

After a losing first year and a 3-7 start in 1983, the Bears won five of their last six games to finish 8-8, not being mathematically eliminated from the playoffs until the last week of the season.

Then came the 1984 campaign, and the club's first winning season since 1979.

Noll is 52 and he has been at the helm of the Steeler team for 16 years. He played for the Cleveland Browns in 1953 following a college career at Dayton, Ohio. He played seven years with the Browns as an offensive guard and linebacker, retiring from play at the age of 27 to become a coach.

Ditka, the Bears' 10th head coach, is 47, and a 23-year veteran of the NFL, his exploits as a player still fresh in the mind of many professional football fans.

He entered the pro ranks in 1961 as a Chicago Bear and was named Rookie of the Year. He played with the Bears until 1966, then joined the Philadelphia Eagles for the 1967-68 season before moving to the Dallas Cowboys for the next year where he was a standout tight end until joining the club's offensive coach staff in 1972.

Pro Bowl features second great shoot-out

They will meet for the first time in the Super Bowl — two of football's great quarterbacks — and again Jan. 27 in the Pro Bowl at Aloha Stadium.

By then, of course, the National Football League Championship will have been decided, but probably not the title of best quarterback in the NFL.

Dan Marino is a second-year record shatterer; the spark that took Miami to the Super Bowl. He has defied the odds and the notion that second-year quarterbacks can't be that good. Marino's rifle-shot release may be the quickest ever seen in pro football.

Joe Montana is in his sixth year, a proven, stable, accurate, cool and consistent performer. He's renowned for passing on the run, for finding the open receiver and for being a team player.

Montana, in short, is a proven commodity; Marino, still the boy wonder.

In 1984, under Montana's guidance, the 49ers established a new NFL record for the most regular season wins, 15, ranked second in league offense averaging 324.6 yards a game and led the National Football Conference in scoring with 475 points.

Montana was rated the NFC's top ranked passer with a 102.9 rating. He completed 279 of 432 pass attempts for 3,630 yards and a career-high 28 touchdowns. He had 10 interceptions.

Montana was one of two unanimous choices for the NFC squad.

During the season he posted four 300-yard games. Besides his aerial accomplishment, Montana rushed for 118 yards on 39 carries, two of them for touchdowns.

Marino has been busy rewriting for the record books. Under his rifle-arm, the Dolphins set NFL offensive records for the most total passing yards gained in a season with a whopping 6,936-5,018, or an average of 313.6 per game, in the air.

The Dolphins made more first downs than anyone else in professional football, 387, and scored more touchdowns, 70, and led the league in scoring with a total of 513 points or 32 per game.

Marino became the first quarterback to ever pass for more than 5,000 yards in a season, 5,084, completing 362 of 564 attempted passes for a 64.2 percent completion rate.

Marino had 48 touchdowns in the air and 17 interceptions.

One fact that might give the NFC a slight edge is that eight of Montana's teammates were named to the All-Pro team, four of whom will start.

The NFC squad also will feature the NFC's two premier runners. Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears, who during the 1984 season surpassed Jim Brown's rushing mark of 12,312 yards, and Erik Dickerson of the Los Angeles Rams, who broke O.J. Simpson's NFL single season rushing record of 2,003 yards.

On the AFC side, Marino is joined by four teammates who will be starters. The Los Angeles Raiders — with outstanding running back Marcus Allen — had six players named as starters.

The NFC, with the scrambling and accuracy of Montana, teamed with the running of Payton and Dickerson, should have the edge in a more balanced attack in the 1985 Pro Bowl.

But Marino's love of passing and his accuracy, plus his leadership ability, may give the AFC an edge that can't be measure in statistics.

The Pearl City band appeared at last year's Pro Bowl.
