Station runway closes; fighter squadrons relocate

by Sgt. Christopher Wood

"Musical air stations" will be the tune for VMFA-235 this month, as the Death Angels prepare to move to NAS Barbers Point and the Western Pacific.

Since Kaneohe's runway will close for resurfacing Feb. 19, the Death Angels — along with VMFA-212 and elements of H&MS-24 — will temporarily move to Barbers Point.

Approximately one month later, the Death Angels will relieve VMFA-232 from its WestPac deployment, marking the second time in a month that the squadron will pack its equipment and embark for duty elsewhere.

Maj. Tom Moore, VMFA-

235's operations officer, has helped coordinate the moves and foresees no special problems. "There will be minimum impact on the operations of the squadron," he remarked. "It'll require some extra hours, make no mistake about it. But that's just the way it is."

That extra effort is further complicated by a Marine Corps Combat Readiness Evaluation Systems test, being conducted now; three of the squadron's aircraft on temporary duty in California; and a Commanding General's inspection scheduled for a week after the squadron moves to Barbers Point.

"Our three aircraft in California will join the squadron at Barbers Point,"

Moore said, "as will the CG's inspection team. The only problems will be for the inspectors who have to go across the island."

"It's all been planned so that it will have the least impact on the squadron," he continued. "None of the activities will interfere with our combat readiness or pre-deployment planning for our move to Japan."

According to Moore, the move to Barbers Point will improve combat efficiency. "It's going to increase our combat readiness three or four percentage points," Moore remarked. "We have some really good air/ground missions scheduled, and we'll be using some ordnance that we don't normally get to use."

Our air crews and ordnance personnel are very excited about that."

A closer working relationship with the Navy's VC-1 squadron from Barbers Point will be another plus. VC-1 is a Fleet Composite Squadron that operates A-4s and helicopters. "We look forward to working with another adversary squadron, especially since we'll have more training assets available to us," Moore said. "Most notably, we'll have more than one runway to work with."

VMFA-235 is expected to return here in nine months. "We'll come back to a good, resurfaced runway," Moore said. "And that's the greatest benefit of all."

Marine Barracks celebrates birthday

Marine Barracks Hawaii, Pearl Harbor, will celebrate its 81st anniversary Saturday. What is now the Marine Barracks all started when 1stLt. John M. Gamble, commanding the USS Sir Andrew Hammond, a captured British ship, was the first Marine to walk the soil of Paradise. He sailed from the South Seas, reaching the island of Owyhee (Hawaii) May 23, 1814. The Hammond then sailed to Whyateete (Waikiki) Bay, Waahoo (Oahu) May 31, 1814.

The next ship to arrive in Hawaii with Marines was the USS Dolphin in January 1862. Other ships followed periodically.

While in command of the USS Bennington in the Hawaiian islands, between 1898 and January 1899, Rear Admiral E.D. Taussig wrote the Navy Department requesting a force of Marines to be stationed on the islands.

In February 1900, Cmdr. John F. Merry requested the Navy Department to send a battalion of Marines to Honolulu for duty. This recommendation became a reality four years later.

A detachment of 49 Marines commanded by 1stLt. William C. Harlee arrived in Honolulu for guard duty Feb. 9, 1904. These Marines were housed in an empty coal shed which was fitted for temporary use. They lived there for four years before moving to tents in the site which is now Fort Armstrong.

By Sept. 30, 1911, the "Marine Command at Honolulu" consisted of six officers and 183 enlisted men. A contract for construction of barracks and quarters was awarded March 19, 1912, and two years later the Marines moved from Honolulu to Pearl Harbor.

Since that time the 49-acre tract of land has been improved to include more than 50 buildings and Marine Barracks Hawaii, Pearl Harbor, is one of the largest barracks in the Marine Corps.

Former commanding officers of the barracks include Majors W.C. Neville, J.H. Russell and B.H. Fuller, who all went on to become commandant.

In addition, Col. L.B. "Chesty" Puller commanded the Marine Barracks from 1948 to 1950. In Memory of Col. Puller, Building 221, which houses command headquarters, dining facility, administrative section and Guard Company, Pearl Harbor, was renamed "Puller Hall" on June 26, 1974.

The three Marine Barracks on Oahu (Pearl Harbor, Barbers Point, and Lualualei) were joined into one and named Marine Barracks Hawaii in July 1976.

A total of 700 Marines, including Guard Company West Loch and Guard Company Wahiawa, are involved in extensive security tasks throughout Oahu.

The current commanding officer is Col. M.J. Dube from Brunswick, Maine.

Tilt-rotor aircraft scheduled for 1990s

EDITOR'S NOTE: MV-22A "Osprey" is the name recently approved by the Secretary of the Navy for the tilt-rotor aircraft, formerly referred to as the "JVX." References in this article to the XV-15 refer to the test version of the aircraft.

by SSgt. Fred Carr

Washington (MCNews) — Marines developed the tactics of vertical assault in Korea in the 1950s, and for three decades the concept has proven to be a natural complement to the Corps' amphibious warfare. It will remain so, but with a different look.

Assault Marines of the future will run from the cargo ramp of a unique looking aircraft. One which will be able to take off and land like a helicopter, but while in the air fly at low speed like a helicopter or at high speed like an airplane by tilting its propellers upward — like a helicopter — or forward — like a turboprop airplane.

With the joint services development of a tilt-rotor aircraft, known as the "Osprey," plans are being readied to retire one of the Corps' most venerable troop carriers, the CH-46 Sea Knight.

Fielded in the mid-60s, this helicopter has provided medium assault lift capabilities for generations of Marines serving around the world. Its successor, say Marine aviation experts, is an aircraft whose time has come.

According to LtCol. Daniel Moseler, Marine Corps JVX Requirements Coordinator at HQMC, a new era of aviation is on the way with the advent of tilt-rotor technology. Among its biggest virtues are worldwide self-deployability to contingency areas; greater crash and combat survivability; and a design created with ease of maintenance in mind.

Development and testing of the "Osprey" is the result of a 1981 decision by the Secretary of Defense for a joint services development of a multi-mission, advanced vertical lift aircraft for the 1990s. It was a logical consideration for the Marine Corps which was already looking for a replacement for its aging fleet of CH-46 helicopters.

Today, the "Osprey" remains a joint program, benefiting from input on its development from all services. The production models, when fielded in 1991, will provide a basic aircraft common to all services but uniquely tailored to the specific mission requirements of each.

"One of the biggest advantages of the tilt-rotor is its capability to deploy without strategic air or seafit," Moseler explained. "One of the aircraft's design requirements is the capability to fly 2,100 nautical miles without aerial refueling support. That's a distance roughly equal to that from the West Coast to Hawaii."

"Everything we're seeing right now says we're going to meet that requirement," Moseler said. "Another way of looking at it is that, in 14 hours flying time, we could fly a squadron from MCAS New River to Norway in a contingency type operation. By not tying up a C-5 fleet to transport a squadron of helicopters, you give the national commander quite a bit of flexibility in moving assets around."

The aircraft's potential performance in support of amphibious assaults is equally impressive. The "Osprey" will have two-wave capability, allowing it to make two separate payload deliveries of 24 combat-equipped Marines from the ship to a landing zone 50 nautical miles away without refueling.

Should the mission demand inland assault, the "Osprey" could carry 24 combat troops a distance of 200 nautical miles and return. That, according to Moseler, provides much needed flexibility to move around weather, terrain and enemy concentrations, as well as giving commanders a tremendous means of providing lateral reinforcements.

At sea, the "Osprey" will be carried aboard LHA and LHD type ships. Though actual dimensions of the aircraft may vary slightly as it goes through developmental stages, it will require a shipboard storage space somewhat larger than the CH-46, but smaller than that required for the CH-53E helicopter.

Of particular importance, according to Moseler, is the combat survivability and crash worthiness of the tilt-rotor. "You'll see this as a very survivable aircraft, both from a passenger standpoint and component design."

Part of the technology making this possible is a compressible fuselage floor. As the floor compresses to absorb the impact, passenger seats will simultaneously "stroke" on load attenuating supports. Combined with these features are break-away wings, which will prevent them from crushing the cabin of the aircraft.

While these designs may sound revolutionary, most of them are already proven technology, Moseler points out. Only the collapsible wing feature is truly unique to the "Osprey."

Ease of maintenance and repair is another area where engineers are making no compromises. Each part is screened before its final design by a reliability and maintainability working group, to ensure that it can withstand extended operations without major maintenance.

Initial designs are then tested before they go into production by Marines drawn from the fleet. Among the things they look for are how easy the parts are to get to and what kind of training, tools and maintenance facilities will be needed to make the repairs.

Test pilots who have flown the XV-15 test version of the tilt-rotor aircraft are confident of the Osprey's ability to live up to expectations. Moseler, whose career has included piloting the UH-1, CH-46 and CH-53, says the craft handles like a very stable helicopter in a hover and a highly maneuverable fixed-wing aircraft in forward flight.

In shipboard operations and low level nap of the earth test flights, the XV-15 has truly demonstrated the

by Sgt. L.C. Brooks

A National Prayer Breakfast was held at the Enlisted Club here, Jan. 31, with 535 in attendance, the largest number of participants in several years, according to Col. C.D. Robinson, commanding officer of the Air Station.

The prayer breakfast originated in Washington, D.C., in 1943 when two members of the House of Representatives got together to discuss mutual concerns and joined in prayer at the end of the discussion.

Soon other members of the House followed this act and discovered that members of the Senate also prayed after meetings. When Dwight D. Eisenhower became president, he sanctioned this practice, developing it into the National Prayer Breakfast.

The guest speaker at the breakfast here was Army LtGen. W.H. Schneider, Deputy Commander in Chief, and Chief of Staff, U.S.

Pacific Command. "I appreciate everyone getting up so early to be here, especially family members. I apologize for the cold, but if you think it's cold here, you should try some parts of Japan where it's 15 degrees and 8 to 10 inches of snow covers the ground," said Schneider, who recently returned from Japan.

"By the nature of our business, service to our country and the sacrifices providing that service, we consciously recognize a belief in a supreme being. Contrary to many civilians' belief, we are not war mongers," said the 30-year veteran.

"The majority of us in the military were raised in middle America. We come from conservative, patriotic, religious families who are not afraid of work," said Schneider. "So why are we at this breakfast today? Hopefully, to acknowledge our dependence on God and ask his help in our lives and the lives of others."

According to the general, sometimes because of work, family and community obligations, there isn't time to pray. Some assume that an hour Sunday and a couple of dollars in the collection basket will suffice, but it won't.

Spiritual feeding is as important as eating.

according to Schneider. "If we spent as much time praying as we do eating, we could solve the world hunger problem," he said.

Air Station SgtMaj. Willie Trawick lead the audience in the Marines prayer and Chaplain W.B. Turner, 1st Marine Brigade chaplain, concluded the breakfast with the benediction.

Army LtGen. W.H. Schneider, Deputy Commander in Chief and Chief of Staff, U.S. Pacific Command, speaks at the National Prayer Breakfast at the Windward Enlisted Club. The prayer breakfast is observed nationwide once a year for government employees to unite in prayer.

Lcpl. Kim Skielnik and 1stLt. Jennifer Worden get their food during the National Prayer Breakfast here.

Wives offer scholarship

The Staff NCO Wives Club here is offering $500 scholarships to students who are graduating from high school this year.

To be eligible, the student must be a son or daughter of a staff NCO stationed at Kaneohe Bay. Awarding of the scholarship is based on scholastic achievement; vocational potential; school, community or base activities; and need.

Application forms are available at the counselors' offices in Kailua, Kalaheo and Castle High Schools, and at the Thrift Shop, here.

When submitting the forms, applicants should attach a transcript of high school grades; college test scores, if available; a recommendation by a member of the faculty, or administration; and statement VII on the application. The application must be mailed by April 15.

military utility of tilt-rotor technology. The good reviews also come from shipboard landing crews, Marine helicopter support teams, and Search and Rescue teams who say working with the tilt-rotor is as good, if not better, than present helicopters.

The successes to date in the development of the "Osprey" point strongly to being able to field the aircraft on schedule in mid-1991.

The Marine Corps complement, when fulfilled, will be a total of 552 tilt-rotor aircraft, enough to outfit 16 active duty, two reserve and two training squadrons. The Army, Navy and Air Force will field smaller numbers of the craft in versions equipped to meet their own special mission requirements.

The Commandant of the Marine Corps provided an indication of the "Osprey's" future role during his 1984 Posture Statement to Congress.

"... In addition to averting a critical shortfall in medium lift transport," the Commandant stated, "JMX promises an unprecedented advance for the projection of seapower and a quantum leap in both strategic mobility and tactical flexibility.

"To the tactical commander, the tilt-rotor represents an advantage in battlefield mobility and flexibility previously unavailable... The potential for rapid strategic response, tactical flexibility and surprise, as well as future civil applications, appear to be unlimited for this breakthrough in American technology..."

Rifle companies practice; pass readiness evaluation

by Cpl. Pat Lewandowski

Pohakuloa Training Area, Hawaii — Modern weapon systems and sophisticated hardware cannot win battles alone. They are enhanced with men who operate and coordinate the Marine Corps' arsenal of defense.

It is not these men who win the individual battles that add up to victory. It is the Marine rifle company, comprised of three platoons with three squads each, that determines the course of an armed engagement.

Marine rifle companies are self-sufficient units capable of calling for naval gunfire, close-air support and artillery. They are small enough to move without detection, yet large enough to put fear in the enemy.

Self-reliance and support coordination were just two of the many facets of company operations that were evaluated here, Jan. 21-23, during a Marine Corps Combat Readiness Evaluation System test conducted by the 3d Marine Regiment for 1/3.

Under cover of darkness and dense fog, 1/3 parted for designated staging areas. After establishing the battalion command post, the companies took positions several kilometers away.

According to intelligence sources, the Democratic Indo-Aryan People's Republic — the enemy simulated by Co. 1, 3/3 — attacked and established a foothold on the island of Hawaii.

The primary objective appeared to be the enlarging of Bradshaw Army Airfield to accommodate MiG-19 and MiG-21 aircraft. With this type of support, the enemy would be difficult to eliminate; 1/3 was tasked with preventing DIAPR forces from strengthening or building their position, including the air field.

Several hours before daybreak, Alpha, Bravo and Charlie companies started moving into position. Co. B moved along the rocky and wind-swept roads crossing the training area. Before dawn, the company stopped to consolidate and wait for daylight to cross the treacherous lava field in front of them.

As the sun rose, the Marines carefully walked through the mile-and-a-half obstacle. They arrived near the base of their first objective, Puu Kea Kea, a large hill in the middle of a plateau.

Co. C secured a small hill to the right of the objective to provide protecting fire. As Alpha and Bravo companies converged, they were halted by enemy air and artillery attacks. Forward Air Controllers called for close-air support from the "Lancers" of VMFA-212, who delivered 500-pound bombs to the entrenched enemy.

After approaching the base of the hill, the companies slowed the assault to consolidate and get on line for the final assault on the objective.

As the order to attack came from company commanders, platoon leaders swiftly moved their Marines to the bottom of the rise. Fire team rushes and squad envelopments helped suppress the enemy small-arms fire that began to hit its mark.

With the hill secured, the companies awaited the arrival of the battalion command element to join the position. They dug in and created a defensible position against possible night counter-attack.

At dawn, the battalion marched eastward, making their way to the airfield.

Co. A was tasked with a helicopter assault on a small, secluded area possibly being used as a refueling point for enemy helicopters. They secured the area and moved on to join the battalion several kilometers from the final objective of the exercise — the road leading to the air field.

The facility was a Marine Amphibious Force objective to be secured by the remainder of Regimental Landing Team-3.

As the exercise came to a close, the Marines from 1/3 marched back to the PTA base camp and prepared to return to Kaneohe Bay.

Much was learned and many skills were practiced, but the final verdict, however, would be determined by the evaluators who accompanied 1/3.

"The evaluation was conducted by the 3d Marine Regiment to determine if the last several months of company training has paid off," said Maj. John McGuire, senior evaluator. "After testing the units with various problems, such as night and day attacks, coordinating fire support and a battalion defense, we found that they meet or better any standards HQMC has set for an infantry company or battalion."

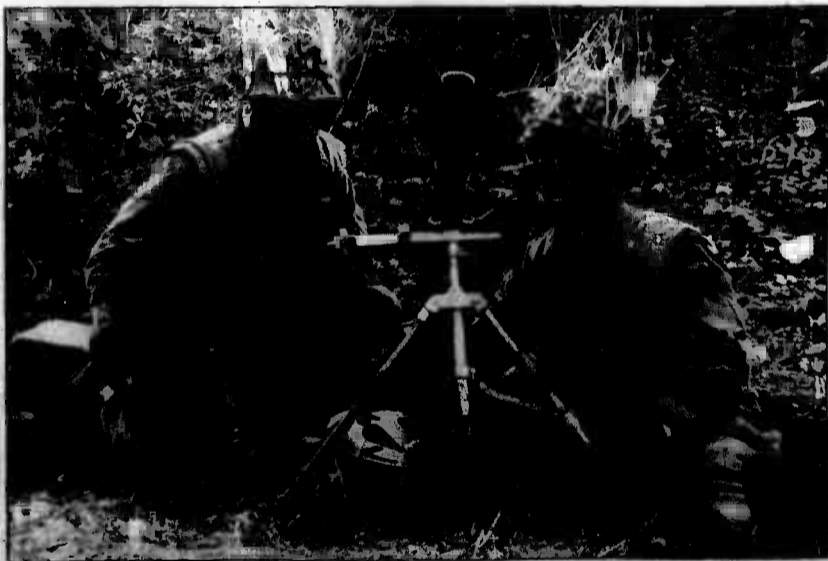

"Considering they spent 10 days in this harsh environment prior to the test," McGuire continued, "they stayed very motivated and desired to get the most out of this training. They battled both the enemy and the elements, and won."

PFC Gary Magowan, Co. C, 1/3, stands watch on a defensive perimeter with an M-60 machine gun. The companies from 1/3 guarded the Battalion Command Post as part of a Combat Readiness Evaluation System test at the Pohakuloa Training Area.

Marines from Co. B, 1/3, charge up Puu Kea Kea, the first objective of the exercise. The Marines secured the hill by mid-afternoon and set up a perimeter defense for the Battalion Command Post.

LCpl. Vincent Cook (left) and Cpl. Maurice Bakkila, Co. C, 1/3, sight in a 60mm mortar on a defensive perimeter. A company-level training exercise at the Pohakuloa Training Area helped prepare them for an upcoming deployment.

Marines from "Bravo", 1/3, patrol a road leading to their first objective. The lava-strewn training area at Pohakuloa provided them with a realistic environment in which to conduct a Combat Readiness Evaluation System test Jan. 21-23.

Activities slated for Black History Month

"The Afro-American Family: Historical Strengths for the New Century" is the theme for Black History Month.

The original observance of black history actually began in 1926 by Dr. Carter G. Woodson, scholar and founder of the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History.

Woodson was convinced that a public celebration would help all Americans become conscious of their own ethnic heritage and that such an awareness would assist in developing an understanding and a mutual respect for one another's background.

He chose a week in February in which the birthdays of Frederick Douglass (Feb. 7) and Abraham Lincoln (Feb. 12) were celebrated and introduced the concept of a Black History Week.

The special observance of black history has spanned the month of February since 1976 to provide more time for programs, observances and celebrations.

Throughout the month, military installations participate in, and support command and community programs, activities and exhibits by emphasizing pride, spirit and teamwork.

The 1985 Black History Month and Week scheduled activities are:

Feb. 7 - "All Hands" formation at Camp H.M. Smith, with the Commanding General and Deputy Commanding General as guest speakers.

Feb. 8 - Cultural night featuring a Reggae band at the commissioned officers open mess, Lockwood Sub Base, Pearl Harbor, at 7 p.m.

Feb. 10 - Black Gospel Service, Hickam AFB main chapel, 3 to 5 p.m. - Two documentary films, "I have a Dream" and "Black History - Lost, Stolen, or Strayed," will be shown at the Air Station Theater at 7 p.m.; free admission.

Feb. 11 - Luncheon with Honolulu Mayor Frank Fasi, Hickam AFB, Tradewind Club, 11 a.m.-1 p.m.; $5 charge.

Feb. 12 - T.G. Grice, Chief of the Veteran's Services Division, Veteran's Administration, Honolulu, will speak on the "Contributions of Black Americans to the U.S. Military," at the Marine Barracks Theater at 11 a.m.

A symposium will be held on "How to Break into TV Commercials, Modeling and Movies" from 6 to 9 p.m., at the Hickam AFB Recreation Center. Advance sign-up is required.

Feb. 13 - Cultural Night featuring black art, Aloha Theater, Hickam AFB. - Black History Trivia Pursuit and Fashion Show, Fort Shafter, Richardson Theater, 7 p.m.

Feb. 14 - Special lunch, Hickam AFB - A main dining hall, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. - Dramatization of Frederick Douglass, by William Marshall, through Feb. 16, Tripler Officers Club.

Feb. 15 - Moonlight cruise, 9 p.m. to midnight, sponsored by Hickam AFB black history committee; $15.

Feb. 16 - AKA Founder's Day Ceremony and Cultural Night, Camp H.M. Smith Officers Club, 7 p.m. - Family Day, Hickam AFB, Hickam Park, noon to 5 p.m.

Feb. 17 - Children's hour, Hickam AFB Library, 1 to 3 p.m.

Marines, civilians, and personnel from the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mallow gather at the Station Marina for a performance by "Primadonna." The performance was sponsored by Special Services and the Windward Navy League.

U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mallow (WLB-396) rests alongside the pier at the Station Marina. The Mallow, commanded by LtCmdr. J.G. Witherspoon, was the site of a "ship visit" Jan. 30.

Education

Tuition Assistance

If you are enrolling in off-duty education and are planning to use Tuition Assistance, you must submit your request before starting your courses.

"Retroactive payments will not be made to a civilian school for courses started before the individual receives his approved Request for Tuition Assistance (NAVMC 10083) form," said Capt. W.L. Clyde, OIC of the Joint Education Center, here.

According to Clyde, individuals who enroll in courses before they receive their approved request will be responsible for making all payments.

For more information, call JEC at 257-2061.

Degree program

Applications for the 1985 College Degree Program must reach Headquarters Marine Corps by Feb. 14. For more information, call the Joint Education Center at 257-2061.

MCI courses

The Pole Line Construction Equipment Course (25.55) enables wiremen to identify pole line construction equipment, such as climbing equipment and construction hardware. This will prepare the wireman for installing line poles and aerial cable.

To provide field wiremen with instructions in installing line poles, suspension strands, and aerial cables, the Pole Line Construction Techniques Course (25.56) covers these and the operation of pole line construction vehicles.

Those interested in automotive maintenance, the Automotive Engine Maintenance and Repair Course (35.8a) covers the construction of the engine and how each component operates, malfunction diagnosis, maintenance and repair and engine overhaul.

HMM-165 change of command

LtCol. T.A. Braaten will assume command of the "White Knights" of HMM-165 from LtCol. M.S. Blair Jr. during a change of command ceremony at 2 p.m. Friday at Hangar 101.

All interested personnel and their spouses are invited to attend. Uniform is summer service "C" for military guests and appropriate attire for civilians.

Camp Smith Prayer Breakfast

Navy Capt. Gerald Coffee, a former POW who spent seven years in Hanoi prisons, will be the speaker at the National Prayer Breakfast, Friday, at 7 a.m. at the Camp Smith Officers Club.

Sharing the spotlight with Coffee will be Cheryl Bartlett, runner-up in the Miss Hawaii Pageant, who will be the guest singer. The FMFPac Band will play special music.

The 250 tickets available can be purchased for $2.50 each by calling Camp Smith Chaplain's Office at 447-5098.

The breakfast is expected to last about two hours, and all military personnel and civilian employees are invited to attend.

Preventive dentistry

The Dependent Preventive Dentistry Program is scheduled for Saturday, and parents should make an appointment for their children now.

Preventive dentistry consists of a dental examination, lectures on dental hygiene and nutrition, and the application of stannous fluoride. It does not include X-rays or dental care such as filling cavities.

The dental program for dependents is limited to relieving pain in severe emergencies and preventive dentistry only.

To make an appointment call 257-2290.

Composite scores

Composite scores for sergeant promotions in the regular Marine Corps will be computed Feb. 28. To be eligible, Marines must have a date of rank of April 26, 1984, or earlier, and an AFABD of March 31, 1983, or earlier.

Before computing scores, JUMPS/MMS will screen all records of eligible corporals and notify units if an individual is missing information which is needed for composite computation.

Composite score data elements earned after Feb. 15 will not be used for composite scores or remedial consideration.

For details see ALMAR 014/85 of Jan. 17.

BLT 2/3 family picnic

A family picnic will be held for spouses and children of members of BLT 2/3 from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday at Platt Field.

Activities include video taping of the families and children's finger painting.

For information call 1stLt. W.L. Blair at 257-2017/2624.

Rottweiler Club

The Rottweiler Club of Hawaii is accepting applications from owners, or would-be owners, of dogs of this breed.

If you are interested in joining the club, or learn more about the breed, call 254-5621.

Clinic rules

To protect healthy children from communicable diseases, allow patients to be in relative comfort while awaiting treatment, and let clinic staff provide services, only children who are receiving treatment will be allowed in the Branch Medical Clinic, here.

Arrangements should be made to have children cared for while parents are at the clinic receiving treatment or undergoing examinations.

This policy also applies to well-baby checks, school and sports physicals, as well as acute care appointments.

Career planning

Any H&HS, staff sergeants or above interested in career planning should contact SSgt. Ricky Drost at 257-2912/3652. The current career planner rotates in July and a replacement must be nominated and trained before his departure.

OWC auction

The OWC is sponsoring an art exhibition and auction Feb. 16-17 at the O'Club, lower lanai, presented by a local gallery.

A preview will be held from 6 to 7:30 p.m., and the auction begins at 8. There will be door prizes, pupus, a no host bar, and a $2 donation per person.

The auction will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Feb. 17. Brunch will be available at additional cost. Credit cards will be accepted for the auction.

OWC luncheon

The Officers Wives Club here, and the Camp Smith Wives Club, will cohort a luncheon Feb. 21 at the club's lower lanai.

Social hour will be from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., lunch from 11:30 to 12:15 p.m., and the guest speaker will be featured from 12:15 to 1:15 p.m. The presentations will include "Come and be Pampered" and "Women in Transition."

The menu will include Peach Au Champagne, CMC salad and Lavosh, Raspberry Mousse, iced tea and coffee. Reservations should be sent by Feb. 28 to JoAnn Biszak, 1756 Lawrence Rd., Kailua, HI 96734 (254-3880). Cost is $6.50.

Witnesses sought

Witnesses to an incident which occurred Dec. 24, 1984, between 10 and 10:30 p.m., on Kahekili Highway, in Temple Valley, are being sought by the family of the victim.

If you know of anyone who was a witness, or have any information about the incident, call 239-5579 between 5 and 9 p.m., or send your name and telephone number to: Witness, P.O. Box 839, Kaneohe, HI 96744.

'Dog chews' recalled

The Army and Air Force Exchange Service is recalling Harper's Rawhide Hamburger "Dog Chews," Style No. RH243.

The item is colored with a red food dye which should be colorfast, but customers have complained that when their pet's saliva mixes with the dye, it drips onto their carpets leaving a stain.

The Rawhide Hamburgers, which sell for $1.35, have been removed from shelves. Customers who have purchased this item may return them for a refund.

Wait. Now you can get an IRA Loan for only $68 a month.

Our new $68-a-month IRA Loan has monthly payments 60% lower than last year! So now it's easier than ever to get all the tax and retirement benefits of an IRA, even if you don't have the cash for a large deposit.

The $68-a-month IRA Loan is a $2,000, three year loan — which is why the payments are so low. But if you qualify, you can borrow up to $8,000.

And you can pay off the loan after one year, or anytime. (Your sizeable IRA tax savings will help you do just that.) There's no prepayment penalty.

See an IRA Loan Representative at any First Hawaiian branch for more details.

Here are some examples of how much you may save with an IRA Loan

	If you are single with 1984 Federal taxable income of $30,000	If you are a working couple filing jointly with combined Federal taxable income of $40,000
Your IRA Loan	$ 2,000	$ 4,000
1984 Tax Savings*	+ 850	+ 1,650
Interest Earned on IRA	+ 206	+ 413
Interest Paid on IRA Loan	- 199	- 397
NET SAVINGS FOR FIRST YEAR	$ 857	$ 1,666
TOTAL TAX SAVINGS, RETIREMENT SAVINGS AND INTEREST GAIN FOR FIRST YEAR	$ 2,857	$ 5,666

NOTE: These are examples only. Loan rate and IRA yield are as of January 23, 1985 and are subject to change. Your Total Tax Savings, Retirement Savings, and Interest Gain include your 1984 tax savings or refund, PLUS the amount you borrowed and then contributed to your 3-year IRA, PLUS the amount of interest your 3-year IRA earned in excess of the loan interest you paid the first year.

*Tax savings includes both Federal and Hawaii State income taxes, and assumes both spouses are employed.

Interest earned for 1 year on the FHB 3-year IRA deposit with effective yield of 10.333%.

Monthly payment is $67.69 for a $2,000 ($135.38 for a $4,000) 3-year IRA Loan (13.31% Annual Percentage Rate). You can Pay-Any-Day* of the month, and there is no prepayment penalty.

Call the First Hawaiian IRA HOTLINE (525-5766) for the latest rates. On neighbor islands, toll free, dial "0" and ask for Enterprise 6101.

Substantial penalty for early withdrawal of an IRA. IRA Loan applicants must meet IRA eligibility requirements. IRA Loan program ends April 15, 1985.

Island Happenings

Hale Koa events

The Tama Polynesian Revue, a show filled with flashing swords, gentle hulas and pulsating dances is held Wednesdays at the Hale Koa Hotel.

Every Friday, you'll get a nostalgic look at the Waikiki of the 30's and 40's; and on Sundays, the show features keiki and other dancers from Japan and the Philippines.

A buffet dinner is served from 6 to 7:30 p.m. for $11.95, which includes the revue and gratuity. Children under 12 are $6.50.

Mardi Gras

Mardi Gras, an old tradition and festive winter event, will be celebrated at the Hale Koa Feb. 23.

There will be a deluxe New Orleans style buffet dinner and a Bourbon Street "Hurricane" before Ken Alford and his Dixiecats Jazz Band start playing. Prizes will be awarded to the best costumes.

Tickets are on sale now and include the buffet dinner, Bourbon Street "Hurricane," entertainment and gratuity.

Al Harrington

Every Saturday evening in the Hale Koa's Banyan Tree Showroom through April, except Feb. 23, Al Harrington will perform songs of the Pacific. The $19.95 military price includes roast Baron of Beef as part of the dinner buffet, show and gratuity; $14.95 for children under 12. Tickets can be purchased up to two weeks in advance at the Activities Desk or any Military Ticket Outlet.

Champagne Brunch

Reservations for the Champagne Brunch each Sunday at the Hale Koa Room are needed. The brunch is from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., $7.95 for adults and $4.95 for children under 12, plus 10 percent gratuity.

Luau

Every Thursday Hale Koa holds a Luau on the beach beginning at 5 p.m. Cocktails are served before the feast of dishes including Kalua pork, Teriyaki beef and Shoyu chicken. The show includes ancient Hawaiian chants, hulas and the Samoan fine dance. For dinner, show, tip and two standard cocktails or one exotic drink, tickets are $18.95 for adults and $12.95 for children under 12. Reservations must be made in person at the hotel Activities Desk.

Preretirement seminar

The Pearl Harbor Family Service Center/Personal Assistance Center will present a preretirement seminar Feb. 13 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Naval Station CPO Club.

Marines, Navy and Coast Guard personnel planning to retire within two years are invited and spouses are urged to attend.

For information call 474-1256.

Fiddler on the Roof

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be the next presentation at Army Hawaii Community Theatre. It will be presented for 12 performances, beginning Feb. 21, and running Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings through March 10. Reservations are required to guarantee seating and may be made by calling 655-9091 after 1 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. General admission is $4, but discounts are available at the door. All performances are open to the public.

William Marshall performs

Actor William Marshall will star in "Frederick Douglass, Slave and Statesman," a stirring one-man portrayal of the spirit and philosophy of the black leader, in an Army Hawaii Dinner Theatre production at Tripler Officers Club Feb. 14, 15 and 16.

Call 833-1268 for ticket information and time of dinner and performances.

Academy of Arts presents...

Baritone William Parker, who performs in the Hawaii Opera Theater production of "The Magic Flute," gives a solo recital featuring works by Beethoven, Schumann, Poulenc, Ives, and others at 8 p.m. in the Academy Theatre Friday. Tickets are $7, $6 for Academy members, $5 for students.

"Music in my Pockets: American Folksongs and Ballads," a concert by Jeff Warner, will be presented at 2 p.m. in the Academy Theatre Saturday. Tickets are $2, available through the Regional Events Program, Smithsonian Institution, Art & Industries Bldg. 1208, Washington, D.C. 20560, ATTN: Associates Tickets. Remaining tickets will be sold at the door.

Marine aircraft fly on ground support

A Huey gets refueled at PTA with the help of MABS-24 Marines.

by Cpl. Pat Lewandowski

The life of a Marine, whether in training or combat, is the most important resource the Marine Corps has. But to sustain that Marine with food, ammunition, medical services and other needs, other Marines and sailors are behind the scenes, cooking, driving and flying.

MABS-24 had the task of supporting both air and ground units when they set up a forward detachment at Pohakuloa Training Area on the island of Hawaii.

The detachment of 30 Marines provided additional crash crew and refueling capabilities, as well as communications, supply, motor transport and dining facility equipment.

Although primarily responsible for supporting aviation assets at PTA, MABS-24 Marines did not hesitate to lend a hand to other units training in this desolate region of Hawaii.

MABS personnel were involved with refueling helicopters from HMM-165 and HMH-463, using the Helicopter Expedient Refueling System. According to SSgt. William Wilson, NCOIC of the refuelers, the HERS was designed for small operations on the forward edge of a battle area, close to enemy lines.

"This is a very flexible asset to the aviation community," said Wilson.

"It's modular and can be adapted to any situation. The basic unit has a 50 gallon-per-minute pump, and several fuel pods. The pods hold 500 gallons of jet fuel, which is gravity-fed into a filter. The unit also comes with two refueling points which can be expanded, if necessary.

"In a combat situation, we would be located with a small group of helicopters or Harriers just behind the FEBA," Wilson continued. "When the battle moves forward, we move with it to support the aircraft."

In addition to supplementing Bradshaw Army Air Field with fuel and crash vehicles, MABS-24 personnel also supported ground units with transportation, mechanics and logistical support. Along with a BSSG detachment, MABS provided the various units with everything they needed to train.

"Although our primary job here (Pohakuloa) is to provide crash crews and refueling personnel, we have helped everyone in some way," said CWO-3 Melvin Thomas, of MABS-24. "We not only operated as a forward detachment, but also trained other personnel in the operation of the HERS and other equipment. The mission has been fulfilled beyond our expectations."

MABS-24 Marines fill fuel pods used in the Helicopter Expedient Refueling System.

DoD eyes cost of spare parts

Spare parts for weapons and equipment are vital to Marine Corps readiness. They are also under the keen eye of Congress and an interested American public.

Challenging suspected overpricing of spare parts is actively encouraged as a duty responsibility. A1MAR 250/84 (CMC Message 261501Z Nov 84) reiterates policy from the Secretary of Defense that prices paid for spare parts be fair and reasonable.

Servicemembers and civilian employees who identify and report cases of overpricing and who are responsible for actual or future cost savings can receive special recognition, to include a monetary award.

Overpricing of parts purchased from local sources should be reported to the Station contracting officer. In the case of spare parts managed by MCLB Albany, Ga., information should be passed to the Competition Advocate at AUTOVON 460-5648 or by correspondence addressed to the Commanding General, Marine Corps Logistics Base, Albany, Ga. 31704-5000.

If the spare parts in question were purchased by another agency for the Marine Corps, the DoD Hotline should be contacted at Toll Free (800) 424-9098; FTS 693-5080; or AUTOVON 223-5080.

More than 23,400 contacts have been received since the program went into effect in June 1981. Of those, 7,635 resulted in substantive inquiries and have led to cost reductions, improved management procedures and increased credibility for DoD.

Statistics from 1984 are even more encouraging for supporters of the hotline; nearly one third of all calls now lead to inquiries, compared to a previous 20 percent inquiry-to-call rate.

Pledging to support the continued use of this valuable tool, Secretary Weinberger said it has taught DoD to listen carefully, to proceed cautiously and, if warranted, to act firmly.

Telephone numbers for the Defense Hotline are: Toll free (800) 424-9098; AUTOVON 223-5080; and FTS 693-5080. Or write to: Defense Hotline, The Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20301-1900.

Missile exercises test fighter pilots

by Sgt. Christopher Wood

A missile exercise took VMFA-235 to new heights of efficiency, Jan. 15 and 16, during training at the Pacific Missile Range Facility, Barking Sands, Kauai.

"Death Angel" pilots guided their F-4 Phantoms in for landings at Barking Sands, loaded their missiles, took off and fired at drones launched by the range facility.

"In the past, we either loaded the missiles at Kaneohe Bay or deployed the entire squadron to Barking Sands," explained Maj. Tom Moore, Death Angels' operations officer. "But, this time, we decided to deploy to a forward controlled site in the way we would have to do it in combat."

The squadron was able to take off from here, land at Barking Sands and take off again despite possible mechanical difficulties. "It says something for our aircraft and radar reliability that we could complete that extra sortie," Moore remarked.

Reliability of equipment enabled the Death Angels to fire seven radar-guided missiles, and seven Sidewinder missiles, in two days even though they had five days to do it in.

Extra days were provided in their schedule in case of equipment malfunction or bad weather. "Weather prevented us from starting the operation on Jan. 14," Moore said, "and if we had any radar or aircraft problems, we wanted the extra time to correct them."

Besides providing training for radar and aircraft technicians, the missile exercise gave experience to the pilots themselves. "We have nine pilots in the command who had never shot a missile," Moore remarked. "This exercise got them combat-qualified."

"Credit for the success of the exercise goes to the ground crews," Moore said. "It's a direct result of the enlisted Marine who is willing to work 12 to 14 extra hours to get the equipment up and maintain it. Thanks to Marines like these, the probability of a kill with the Sparrow missile is quite high in all of MAG-24's fighter attack squadrons."

The FMFPac Intramural Rifle and Pistol Match for the second quarter of FY-85 concluded Jan. 25 with an awards ceremony at the Camp H.M. Smith Training Facility.

Col. M.J. Dube, commanding officer, Marine Barracks Hawaii, presented the awards, many of which went to his Marines.

The No. 1 team from 1st Marine Brigade handily won the rifle team match with a 26-point margin over the MCAS Kaneohe Bay team. In the pistol team event, however, it was a much closer match as the Brigade team squeaked by the Marine Barracks Hawaii team by only one point.

A new record was set in the individual pistol match as Cpl. M.A. Blackson, Marine Barracks, shot a 291-10X out of 300 possible points. Barracks Marines also swept the General McGee Combined Aggregate awards, which is the total of each individual's rifle and pistol scores.

SSgt. A.R. Square, 3/3, won the individual rifle match with a two-day aggregate score of 479 out of 500 possible. Cpl. S.J. Dooley, HqCo Bde, and Cpl. R.D. Triplett, Marine Barracks, were each two points behind Square and finished second and third, respectively.

Rainbow Run

Active military servicemembers will have their own category this year in Hospice Rainbow Run '85, scheduled for March 10 at Keehi Lagoon.

The 10K run has a 7 a.m.

starting time, with runners going from the park through their airport industrial area, along Nimitz Highway, and back to the park.

Entry fee is $12 and includes a T-shirt, refreshments and individual race results. Participants can obtain at least $12 in pledges to use in place of the entry fee.

Registration forms are available at running stores, sports shops, health clubs, or by calling St. Francis Hospital's Education Department at 547-6410.

Big Brothers fun run

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of

Honolulu Inc. will sponsor its 5th Annual Fun Run at 7 a.m., Feb. 21.

The 5.2-mile run will begin at the Aloha Tower, proceed through Ala Moana Park, and return to the Aloha Tower. Entry fee is $12 for adults, and $10 for youths 17 years and younger.

A new "race walking" division, following international race walking rules, has been added to this year's event. Race walkers should submit completed entry forms to the Big Brothers/Big Sisters office by deadline Wednesday, and register at the special race walking table at packet pick-up.

Applications are available at all military installations and major running stores on Oahu, or by calling 521-3811.

Proceeds from Fun Run '85 will benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Honolulu, Inc.

Hawaii Marine women triumph

The Hawaii Marines women's basketball team won the FMI/Pac championship at Camp S.D. Butler, Okinawa, Japan, Sunday.

In the first night of competition, they beat Okinawa 100 to 54. In the second night, they beat Iwakuni 103 to 30; and in the final night of competition, Hawaii romped Okinawa 97 to 34.

Are you one of the 7 out of 10 who has not prepared a will?

When you die you must leave behind everything for which you have worked and saved. The question is, "TO WHOM?" If you have a will, you have already instructed the state, attorneys and judges to act according to YOUR wishes.

but if you don't have a will the state will simply distribute your estate according to law.

Without a will you let the state determine the disposition of your assets, the welfare of your spouse and the guardianship of your children. Probate costs, taxes and fees increase. What's worse, you rob yourself of the privilege of continuing stewardship through designated gifts.

DON'T MAKE THE MISTAKE OF THINKING:

- only wealthy people need a will
- that drawing a will is too complicated
- or that it is too expensive.

Take the first step toward doing something about that which you own... for your own peace of mind and the benefit of those you hold dear.

Movie schedule

Movies start daily at 7:15 p.m. For more information call 257-3668.

Tonight

The Pope of Greenwich Village — (R). Drama. A couple of streetwise New Yorkers inadvertently cross the mob. Charlie and Paulie, two boyhood pals from "Little Italy" try to make it big the easy way.

Friday

Sudden Impact — (R). Clint Eastwood and Sondra Locke. Action drama. Homicide detective, Harry

Callahan, is sent out of his normal jurisdiction in San Francisco to research a similar case in San Paulo. While there, he meets a woman who is doing her own brand of justice.

Saturday

Coming Out Alive — (PG). Action drama. A distraught mother hires a ruthless mercenary soldier to locate her paraplegic son who has been kidnapped by his father.

Sunday

Riddle of the Sands — (PG). Adventure. A leisurely sailing holiday turns into a dangerous adventure for a young man when he encounters a German sailing ship off the coast of Germany.

Monday

The Never Ending Story — (PG). Fantasy. In the never-never land of Fantasia, peopled by quaint hybrid animals, bizarre monsters, weird elves and a few almost normal-looking personages, mankind has lost his ability to hope and to dream and is on the verge of being destroyed by despair.

Monday

Special Free Showing — "I Have a Dream" and

"Black History, Lost, Stolen, or Strayed." Shows begin at 7 p.m.

Tuesday

The Dead Zone — (R). Christopher Walken. Horror drama. A man lapses into a coma after an auto accident which lasts five years. He emerges from the coma with clairvoyant power.

Wednesday

Off Your Rocker — (PG). Milton Berle and Red Buttons. Comedy. Maple View is a retirement home that encourages individuality and fosters self-expression among its residents, until it was repossessed by a health care conglomerate.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR LUNGS. THEY'RE ONLY HUMAN.

Now, honey, you listen to Pearl. This year, do yourself and your friends a real favor. Support Christmas Seals. They help fight lung disease, and remind everybody to take care of their lungs. When you support Christmas Seals and use them on your holiday cards and packages, it really shows you care.

ADVERTISING DOESN'T PAY! ... OH??

Why is it when people wake up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised mattress under an advertised blanket and pull off their advertised pajamas... take a bath in an advertised tub, brush their teeth with advertised toothpaste, wash with advertised soap, put on advertised clothes, sit down to breakfast consisting of advertised products, drive to the office in an advertised car, write with an advertised pen... then refuse to advertise, saying advertising does not pay, and then if business isn't good enough, they advertise their business for sale!

If you believe in your business and want to build it into something to be proud of... advertise it!

Let Donna and Cindy help you with your 1985 advertising needs
