MEB Marines 'get down' at Mountain Warfare School

Story and photos by Sgt. T. Shearer

POHANG, Republic of Korea — If you've never stood atop a swaying rope bridge, 120 feet off the ground, waiting to fall face first over the side, don't talk trash around 1st MEB Marines who have.

During the month-long deployment to the Republic of Korea, 100 Marines from units of the 1st Marine Expeditionary Brigade sucked up their natural fear of death and headed to the hills. Waiting for them were 14 of the Republic of Korea's finest Marines and a salty old Korean warrant officer who has been teaching mountaineering skills since some of the Marines were wearing diapers.

On a brisk Korean morning, the Marines jumped off the trucks that carried them to what could easily be the end of the world. Surrounded by paddy-speckled mountains and cut off from civilization by miles of rock strewn roads, lies the ROK Marine Mountain Warfare School. It's the perfect location, designed by nature to test not only a man's ability to overcome natural fear, but physically punish the students.

"You U.S. Marines are good, yes?" said WO Park Ik Soon, officer-in-charge and undisputed honcho of the school, as he stood in front of the grunting Marines. "We will make you better. If you do not do as you are told, if you make a mistake, maybe you find out how hard ground can be from 120-feet off the ground."

This brought on a chorus of laughter from the Marines as they glanced around the valley laced with rope obstacles and rappelling points. WO Park warmed to the Marines, telling them how important skills are when you must travel in combat, and in a combination of broken English and hand signals had the Marines tied up in "ranger seats" ready to start rappelling.

DACOWITS representative meets with women servicemembers

Women Marines and sailors here spoke to BGen. Frances Mossman, USAFR (Ret.) Friday.

BGen. Mossman, a representative of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Service, came to hear what the women in uniform here had to say about working conditions in the service.

For a detailed explanation of the committee, see page A-3.

At a discussion at the Windward Enlisted Club for E-5s and below, BGen.

BGen. Mossman addresses issues, problems

Mossman broke the ice.

"We have many things in common — what you've been through in the Marine Corps, and the things I did in the Air Force," she said.

Among the most popular of the topics discussed were the simultaneous physical training of male and female Marines, child care, discrimination, and the restricting of women from certain occupational specialties.

"We try to keep informed on all issues," said BGen. Mossman. "During these meetings we have the opportunity to discuss topics and make a formal report. We get things done."

BGen. Mossman reminded the service women that many of the problems they face in the service are the same elsewhere.

She also promised no great change in the immediate future.

"Some of these problems can and will be solved in the next few days," she assured the audience. "But many of them are difficult, and solutions require long-term planning."

BGen. Mossman, who is the vice-chairman of Subcommittee No. 1, Forces Utilization, promised that all issues brought to her attention would be discussed at the formal DACOWITS meeting this spring.

Additional topics which will be considered are women in security forces, the female career force, women in engineer support battalions, and positive attitudes towards women in the Marine Corps.

DACOWITS representative BGen. Frances Mossman, USAF (Ret.), discusses current issues with Cpl. Tanya Hotz, a VMFA-212 unit diary clerk.

News In Brief

V-neck no longer authorized

Marine Corps Bulletin 10120, Aug. 2, 1988, set forth that the white V-neck undershirt is no longer authorized for wear. The effective date of the V-neck ban was April 1, as was the mandatory possession date for the crew-neck undershirt.

Combat Correspondents sought

The Joint Public Affairs Office is looking for a few hard-charging, squared-away Marines for lateral moves into the Public Affairs occupational field.

As a Combat Correspondent in the Public Affairs field, you need not only be able to fight in battle, but also be able to write about it afterwards: in short, you must be a good fighter and a good writer.

Marines in combat arms MOS's and admin MOS's are preferred, and can receive on-the-job training prior to attending formal schooling.

Applicants must possess a GT of 110 or higher, be able to type 20 words per minute, have a good understanding of basic English and grammar, and should not have received

NJP or court-martial.

If you think you have what it takes to tell the Marine Corps story — to be a Combat Correspondent — contact your career planner.

Children's Carnival scheduled

The 7th annual Children's Carnival, which will be held April 22 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m., will highlight the Air Station's observance of the Month of The Military Child. The Carnival will offer games and activities for young children and their families, and will be held at the Child Development Center, Building 579.

The Child Development Center will also be hosting the following events throughout the month:

- Friday — Several classrooms will hold physical training.
- Tuesday — Flag-raising. 3- and 4-year-olds will attend.
- Tuesday and April 20 — Classrooms will invite parents to lunch. Children will assist with food preparation and decoration.
- April 25, 29 — Visits to Air Station worksites.

Curriculum topics in classrooms this month will focus on military families.

For those interested in tickets to the Children's Carnival, advance sales will be offered at the Child Development Center, the Na Keiki Drop-in Center, and the Preschool.

For more information, please contact Susan Cleveland at 254-5335.

The ROK Mountain Warfare School is attended yearly by every South Korean man who wears the eagle, globe and star of the ROK Marine Corps. Whenever U.S. Marine units are in the country, they also have the opportunity to take advantage of what they have to offer, which basically comes down to two days of pucker-factor 10 rappelling. "I've seen a lot of what U.S. facilities have to offer, including Bridgeport, Army Ranger School and the likes, but nothing has the adrenaline rush you get here," said Capt. K.W. Bradford, Commanding Officer, A Co, 3rd Recon. Bn. "Not only do the Marines here learn basic and advanced rappelling tactics, but they are challenged psychologically." As with most schools you must start small and work your way up. As soon as WO Park had the Marines tied in their seats, they turned to on a practice wall that required them to scale an 85-degree wall with only the assistance of a knotted rope. This got them to the top of the practice tower where a ROK Marine attached them to a rope and guided them over the side. Two normal rappells were followed by three Australian face-first descents on the wall. Next came the simulated helicopter rappell, affectionally known to most as the "hell hole." Here, again, two butt-first rappells were followed by Australian-style descents. Although for some, this in itself was enough of a challenge, it was only the beginning of bigger things to come. Stretching across the valley, some 1,000 feet long and 120 feet off the ground is one of the two highlights of the school. A slide for life is guaranteed to give anyone the See GET DOWN/A-6

Building up, tearing down: advance party is no party

POHANG, Republic of Korea — As the main body of the 1st Marine Expeditionary Brigade staff pulled up stakes after the exercise and got on a jet plane headed home, a few Marines sat on empty pallets and watched them take off. The advance party Marines had watched the main body arrive; now they were called the rear party and got to undo everything they had done for the exercise.

It was time to tear-up the town.

Resembling Dodge City in the late 1800's, the Tent City was erected by a handful of Marines who are affectionately known as a "working party." They arrive early, work long hours preparing for the main body, and usually get the honor of staying late to tear down the kingdom they built. They are the first ones to get muddy, and usually stay muddy through the entire exercise as they maintain and guard the camp.

"If people think that we come out here early and get all kinds of liberty, they're lost," said LCpl. Richard Wendel, a Motor-T man out of Headquarters and Service Co., 1st MEB, and part of the advance party. "We had to bust our butts getting all the tents set up and ready to go for everyone else, on top of doing our normal jobs."

The 20 tents that housed the MEB staff through the exercise were some of the finest "in country". Complete with wooden floors, electric lights and liners to keep the Korean cold out, they were put up and serviced by about 15 Marines, and enjoyed by 100.

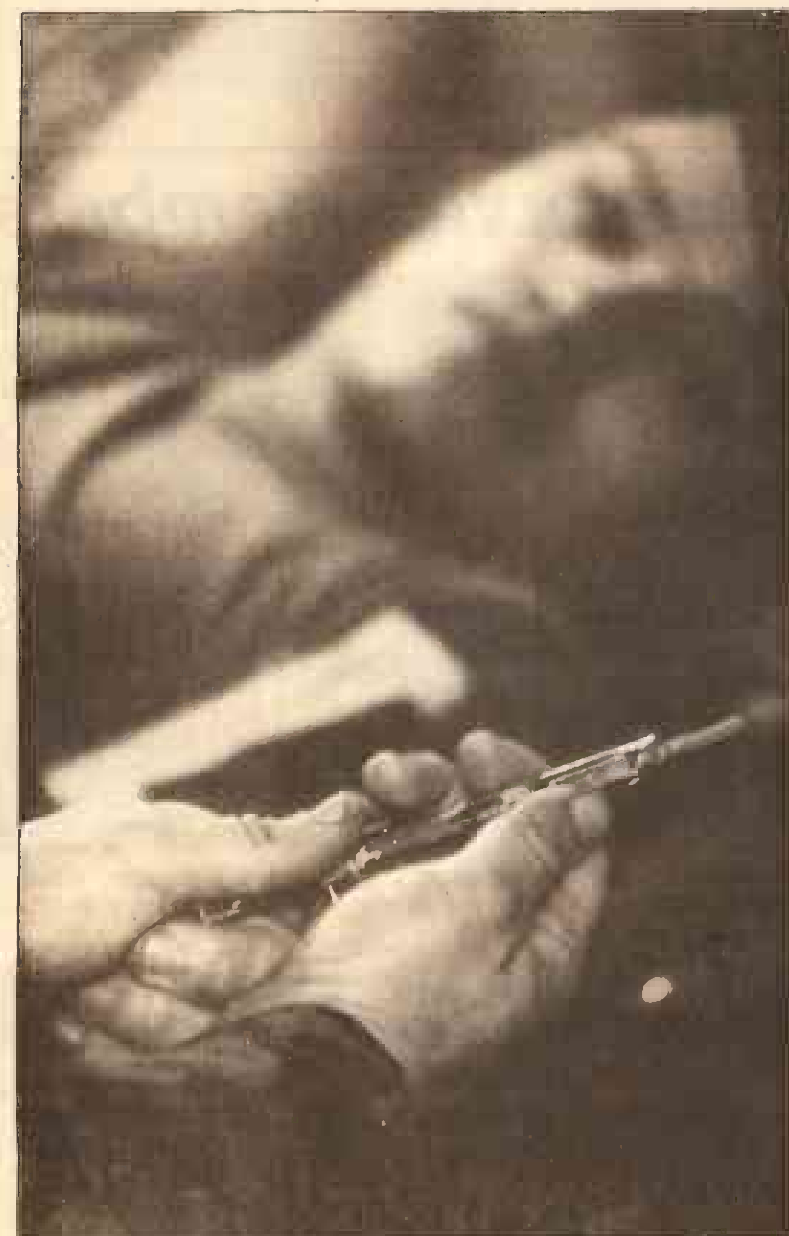

"The work is hard, but there's a good feeling when you look at what you did," said LCpl. Wendel as he surveyed "Main Street USA". "Most of us haven't had much carpentry experience, but we chipped in what we could and did the teamwork thing.

"Here's what we wound up with. For someone who didn't work on it, or live it, it may not be much. But, to us it's home."

*"The only thing missing
... are the casualties"*
—HM3 Larry Burbridge

Story and photos by Sgt. T. Shearer

POHANG, Republic of Korea — Inside a strong-back GP tent, where the smell of alcohol mixes with the pungent fumes of a kerosene heater, is a strange place to find a man who joined the Navy. But, when a corpsman receives a set of orders that say "Fleet Marine Forces", there's no telling where he'll hang his shingle.

The atmosphere inside the Posco Pier aid station set up by Alpha Co., 3rd Medical Battalion, Brigade Service Support Group-1, is that of a country hospital. The sailors came to Korea in support of the BSSG as they off-loaded gear from two of the Maritime Prepositioned Ships, as part of Team Spirit '89.

"You can't get any closer to a simulated 'combat' condition," said Petty Officer Third Class Larry Burbridge, a hospital corpsman assigned to Alpha Co. "The only thing missing, thank God, are the casualties." Setting-up a field medical center is a multi-phase operation that begins with hours of planning and hours of construction. It's rounded out by hours of around-the-clock watches by doctors and corpsmen, ready to treat everything from life-threatening emergencies to "Pohang Crud". Basically, everything that can be done in a branch medical clinic can be accomplished in the field.

"We run a sick-call for Marines here on the pier," said HM3 Burbridge as he ministered to a patient with a hacking cough and sore throat. "Around here there is a lot of pollution, mixed with cold air. For our people from Hawaii this is a double whammie: they aren't used to either. We've treated hundreds of cases of what we call the 'Pohang Crud'."

But routine medical care is only the beginning. In an MPF-type operation there is much potential for injury, with all of the heavy equipment and hoisting of gear onto the ships. Being ready to treat any emergency is crucial.

HM3 Burbridge checks a patient's blood pressure.

MEDICAL/from A-2

"In the event a Marine is seriously injured our job is to perform basic life saving steps," said HM3 Burbridge. "This includes the triage, stitching and stabilizing the victim until he can be transported to a hospital. On the pier we have everything needed to do this including X-ray machines and defibrillators to restart a stopped heart."

But the majority of their work is routing cases they would see in the "rear". This is where planning comes in, as they must take all the pills, penicillin and cough drops with them they think they will need. There isn't a supply point around the corner to stock up if they run out.

"We learn on exercises like this, trying to improve our operation so Marines get better and quicker care," said Doc Burbridge. "The way we organize our medical supplies and having pills already bottled up ready to go can save a lot of time."

In addition to treating what has already happened, the corpsmen also work to curb possible medical hazards before they arise. Preventative medicine is a simple as making sure the chow halls are run in a sanitary manner, to positioning the portajohns away from water supplies and giving classes on potential diseases.

"Some people don't consider things like water consumption in a cold place like this," said HM2 John Shay, preventative medical technician for BSSG-1. "By simply telling Marines to drink water we can amazingly prevent some medical problems. And, Marines listen, probably because it's bad enough to get sick, but to be sick in the field is even worse. They want to take care of themselves, we're there to help."

Defending servicewomen

DACOWITS defined

By Cpl. David Kershberg

There are women in the military. Some people don't like it.

But pick up a magazine containing stories about foreign policy and you see women fighting in the streets, automatic weapons at the ready. The Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Service was established in 1951 by the Secretary of Defense to protect the rights of the women serving this country.

And that's not all the committee does.

The purpose of DACOWITS is to assist and advise the Secretary of Defense on policies and matters pertaining to women in the service. In performing its duties, the committee makes the public aware of the need for women in the armed forces, and also encourages the acceptance of their accomplishments. DACOWITS ultimately provides the all-important link between the armed forces and the civilian community.

Women in the service are directly affected by the committee's recommendations to the Department of Defense regarding the women retention rate, housing, job opportunities, and any barriers which inhibit the full potential of women serving in the military.

The committee is composed of civilian women and men who have distinguished themselves through practices in business, public service, and leadership. Members are appointed by the Secretary of Defense for a term of three years. Each year, one third of the committee is replaced by new members. With a two-thirds retention rate, the majority of DACOWITS is constantly experienced.

DACOWITS is split into three subcommittees. Subcommittee 1 considers and reviews issues relating to the utilization of women in the military. Topics include combat exclusion and related policies, assignment and deployment policies, and manpower goals.

The responsibility of Subcommittee 2 is to review and consider issues relating to career development. Examples of these issues are training opportunities, promotion, leadership development, and career counseling.

The third subcommittee deals with topics relating to the quality of life and well being of military women. Issues considered are single military parents, sexual harassment, discrimination, health and child care, and equal opportunity policies.

DACOWITS convenes for formal meetings each spring and fall, usually in April and October.

On the Blotter

Alcohol and drug incidents

• A Marine was apprehended for breach of peace and damage to government property. The Marine and his wife were involved in a verbal altercation that led to a physical fight. As the fight progressed, the Marine allegedly broke a towel rack off their bathroom wall and attempted to choke her with it. The wife also stated that the Marine hit her in the head with a broom stick and struck her head against the floor several times. After the wife allegedly chased the Marine from the quarters with a knife, he allegedly returned, broke a window and re-entered the quarters, threatening to kill her. The Marine allegedly had taken several blood pressure pills that caused him to become nauseous and vomit. The Marine was apprehended and transported to the Branch Medical Clinic for treatment.

• The management of the Enlisted Club reported that a Marine and his wife were involved in an argument in front of the club. The Marine allegedly grabbed his wife by the arm and the back of the neck and physically pulled her out of the Enlisted Club. The Marine was apprehended and transported to the Military Police Department. The Military Police reported that alcohol was involved.

• On another occasion, the management of the Enlisted Club called the MP Dept. and reported that they were closing. Club management also requested assistance with crowd control. As the MPs arrived, they noticed a Marine and another unidentified male pushing each other.

As the MPs restrained the Marine, he assaulted another MP, resulting in his apprehension for breach of peace and assault on an MP.

• Branch Medical personnel reported to the MP Dept. that they were treating a Marine for injuries resulting from an assault that had occurred off station. Another Marine witness reported to the MPs that he and the injured Marine were given a ride back to the Air Station by another Marine. While on Kailua Road, the injured Marine pushed the driver, causing him to swerve into the oncoming lane. At this point, the driver stopped his car and struck the injured Marine in the face twice with his fist. The injured Marine was transported to the Pearl Harbor Medical Clinic for further treatment. The Marine witness also stated that the injured Marine was intoxicated.

• Another Marine was apprehended by the MP Dept. for falsifying an official document and underage drinking while another Marine was apprehended for disobedience of a lawful order. MPs observed the two Marines and another intoxicated Marine enter the Air Station in a cab. Upon requesting IDs from the Marines, the MPs noticed that the information on the older Marine's ID card was exactly the same as the information on the underage Marine's ID card. The Marines with identical IDs were apprehended. The older Marine was also apprehended for failing to proceed to the MP Dept. as ordered by MPs. All three Marines had been previously drinking.

• A Marine was picked up and transported to the Air Station by HPD after he was found laying on the ground in front of Fast Eddie's Night Club in Kailua. The Marine was treated for cuts to his face by the Branch Medical Clinic and transported to Tripler Army Medical Center for treatment of possible alcohol poisoning. The staff at Tripler determined that the Marine's blood-alcohol content was .31 percent.

• Despite the warnings posted on the Station marquee and an announcement in the Hawaii Marine, three Marines were arrested by HPD for drinking in public at the H-3 rest stop outside the front gate. One of the Marines was also arrested for underage drinking. MPs will continue to support HPD in its efforts to ensure the rest area is free of unlawful drinkers.

Other Incidents

• MPs noticed a Marine known to have had his driving privileges suspended approach the H-3 Gate in a car that had no DoD decal. The Marine was apprehended and brought to the Military Police Department where he was later picked up by his unit.

• The MP Dept. received a report from the MP Battalion at Schofield Barracks that a soldier had reported seeing three unidentified males urinating on the lawn of his quarters. As the soldier attempted to identify the three males, they attempted to leave the area in a car. The soldier hung onto a door of the vehicle and was carried to an area near Schofield's swimming pool where the car stopped and the soldier let go of the door. The car sped off, but was later located at the Schofield Barracks NCO Club. The individuals in the car were later identified. Two were Marines from the Air Station. The soldier required no medical attention. All three individuals were charged with disorderly conduct and indecent exposure.

• There were a total of 13 alcohol-related incidents including five DWI arrests this week on the blotter.

To report a crime or any suspicious activity on the Air Station, please call the Military Police Department's 24-hour Crime-Stopper number: 257-2123. Off station, call 911 for HPD.

Legally Speaking

By Capt. B.J. Cockshott
Legal Services Center

Each year of our lives is dotted with important dates that must be remembered. For each of those special days, we know that there is something that we must do.

Wedding anniversaries call for presents, as do birthdays. The first of each month means a mortgage or lease payment and Federal holidays let us take the day off.

Among the more important of those dates that we must act on is April 15 — Tax Day.

This year, however, Tax Day (tax day) falls on April 17 due to the fact that the 15th is a Saturday.

Do not let those two extra days prod you into putting off filing your tax return. The IRS takes a dim view of people who file their returns late. There are penalties for filing late. A timely return must have a postmark no later than April 17. If you wait until the last day to mail your return, it is your responsibility to insure that it has a timely postmark.

The two post offices aboard the Air Station are under the direction of the Kailua Post Office. They are both open until 4:30 p.m. Any tax return that is brought inside either of the two Station Post Offices before 4:30 p.m. on April 17 will be postmarked that day.

However, the mail drop boxes aboard the Station are a different story. If you drop your return into a box April 17, you must be certain that it is in the box prior to the last pickup time listed on each of the drop boxes.

There are always those who like to run everything down to the last minute. For those people, there are two final alternatives to insuring that their return has the timely April 17 postmark on it. The downtown Honolulu post office and the main branch (near the airport) will be open until midnight to receive those last-minute mailings.

Extensions
There are times when the best-laid plans and good intentions go wrong. Circumstances beyond your control can make it impossible for your tax return to be filed on time. If that happens to you, you must get an extension for filing your return or suffer the penalties for late filing.

Estimate what you owe, over and above what was withheld from your pay, and send that amount in with your form 4868. If your estimate is wrong, let it be high. You will have to pay interest on the amount that you underestimate, and if you are too low, you will also have a penalty to pay.

Military personnel are likely to use the automatic two-month "out of country" extension for filing. The IRS will give the two-month extension for filing without a form 4868.

However, when you do file, attach a statement to your return stating why you were entitled to the automatic extension. This extension is good only for you, or your spouse, if you file jointly, when you are on military duty outside the United States.

Any taxpayer, in or outside the country, can file for and receive a four-month extension of time to file using the

Passover

Passover, the major Jewish festival, will begin at sunset Wednesday and conclude eight days later on April 27. This significant event commemorates the liberation of the Israelites from bondage in Egypt 3,000 years ago. The prevailing theme is the meaning and essence of freedom. During the celebration of this event, it is customary for Jews to eat an unleavened bread called matzah. The square, cracker-like bread resembles what the freed Israelites ate during their long journey following release from slavery.

USO volunteers needed

The USO of Hawaii is in need of volunteers to help run its centers at Honolulu International Airport and Hickam Air Force Base. Both centers are open 24 hours a day. Together they provided travel assistance and other services to nearly 60,000 military personnel and family members in 1988.

To volunteer, or for more information, call 836-3351.

Pearl Harbor pier access regulation

The Pearl Harbor Naval Harbor Security Office is in the process of developing and implementing new regulations for the security of Pearl Harbor Piers. A new pier security program, which commenced April 1, is focused on both personnel and vehicular access to the piers. Vehicle access is strictly controlled by the use of pier passes for other than government vehicles. Pier passes for vehicles are being issued by the Security Office during normal working hours, and at Nimitz Gate in the evening. Government vehicles do not require passes. The new program is designed to enhance the overall security program.

Savings bonds

Savings bonds in $50 and $75 denominations are now available to Marines and sailors as part of the 1989 Savings Bond Campaign. Information materials distributed for this year's drive indicated that the minimum denomination available through the payroll savings plan is $100. However, smaller denomination bonds are also available through payroll deduction. While savings bond allotments may be authorized at any time year-round, the April campaign is a reminder for Marines to review their personal savings program. For more information, contact your local campaign representative.

GET DOWN/from A-2 ride of his life and unless you have a big red "S" on your chest, it's as close as you'll come to flying without wings. Hooked up to a pulley and set free on rope, Marines go screaming down the rope in a blur of motion.

"Maybe a Marine, sometime, decide not brake, he learns that rock and pole are waiting for him at the end. Boom! No more body," said WO Park as he sent one of his instructors sliding during the demonstration. "You listen to my instructor, when he says brake, it be a good idea to listen."

During the training cycle, students are broken down into groups, climbing, sliding and dropping down the cliffs and rocks. There is more than ample opportunity to rappell from different heights, over different types of cliffs and go for a knee-knocking ride down 120-foot "hell hole."

"The best part of the whole package is climbing out on the rope bridge to the tie-off point of the hell hole," said SSgt D.B. Willie, a combat engineer who works out of the 1st MEB headquarters. "It's a rush climbing out and a bigger rush when you jump."

"I was a senior drill instructor at MCRD San Diego, and rappelling was one of the things privates remember most," he said. "The Marine Corps needs more of this kind of training, being in the field, seeing what your capabilities are makes you a better man."

After a day of running and jumping, just about every body in the course was ready to crash. While going through the school, the 1st MEB Marines were treated to some Korean hospitality. They stayed in an open squad bay that resembles a double-decker oriental restaurant, and learned how to use moon-pies and sodas to supplement a supper of MRBs and cold water.

"The school is designed to make them work for each rappell; there is no way to get 'miracled' up the side of the mountain; it's just suck up as much oxygen as possible and jump. The learning comes naturally, and the Korean instructors are all professionals who have earned their salt and sweat in the hills.

"I looked back to the time when my ma' and pa' were teaching me right and wrong, while I was up on that bridge waiting for the hell-hole," said LCpl. Johnny Lee Wallace Sr., after executing a near-perfect, face-first free fall. "It still doesn't seem like a natural way to do things, but I reckon I can do most any of this kind of thing now."

Hawaii boxer punches to All-Service title

Heavyweight

Sgt. Eddie Donerlson draws back to deliver another punishing blow to his Army opponent.

MCR CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. — You will not find Marine Eddie Donerlson harboring self-doubts again.

"I'm still dazed," the Hawaii Marine said following his super-heavyweight victory over defending Army champion Robert Salters of Fort Bragg, N.C., in the finals of the Armed Forces Boxing Championships at Goettge Memorial Field House March 9.

A total of five Navy and Marine Corps boxers earned titles in the four-day tournament, the finals of which were televised nationally on the Sports Channel America cable network.

Marines joining Donerlson in the winner's circle were Teddy Randolph of MCB Camp Pendleton, Calif., who upset five-time Armed Forces champ Army Boxer Russell Doll in the 125-pound class; and Arthur Martinez, 2nd Marine Division, who took a unanimous decision over Airman Larry Wheeler to regain the 139-pound title he lost last year.

Donerlson is a quiet man. His soft-spoken words are brief and to the point.

He is a family man who's been married for eight years and is extremely proud of his 7-year-old son, who is active in bowling and karate.

A 6-footer who tips the scales at 210 pounds, Donerlson looks like a superheavyweight. But the All-Marine boxer doesn't care to act like one.

He began his career in the Italian Festa Americana, a boxing tournament for armed forces personnel serving in the Mediterranean. For three years he finished first in his weight class. In Egypt, at last year's CISM competition, Donerlson won the silver medal. Due to strained knee ligaments, he was placed as an alternate for last year's armed forces competition.

A 30-year-old, Mobile, Ala., native, Donerlson is a squad leader for 2nd Bn., 3rd Marines, 1st MEB, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, whose respect for his coach matches that of his teammates.

"Coach Sanders works us harder than any coach we've ever had," he said. "He's given us the heart and soul to put the Marine Corps back on top (in boxing) where it's supposed to be."

Being an All-Marine boxer keeps him away from his family more than he likes, he said, but they are very supportive.

"As long as I fight and come home afterward, it's all right with my wife," he said with a grin.

Determination, stamina and guts are essential traits in boxing — not only to win but for the sake of life and limb.

In the Armed Forces Championships held here March 6-9, Donerlson defeated last year's defending superheavyweight champ.

The year's training and the boxers' determination have put a couple of Marines back on top.

ment of chemically dependent youths. The entry fee is $100 ($5 per-person) including a T-shirt and entertainment throughout the 24-hour event.

Race forms are available at sporting goods stores or call 396-4000 for more information.

Little League Action

Youth recreation baseball was at a near standstill Saturday as the Air Station was drenched with liquid sunshine. Three Pee Wee teams traveled to Fort Shafter and claimed victories for Kaneohe.

The Crusaders took on AMR and defeated them 12-7, as Eddie Duffy collected two hits to pace the team. The Dodgers gave Kaneohe their second win of the day by outscoring Fort Shafter I, 12-8. In the last game of the day, the Phillie's pitcher, Jerry Higgins, went five innings, giving up only two hits as his team defeated Fort Shafter II, 6-3.

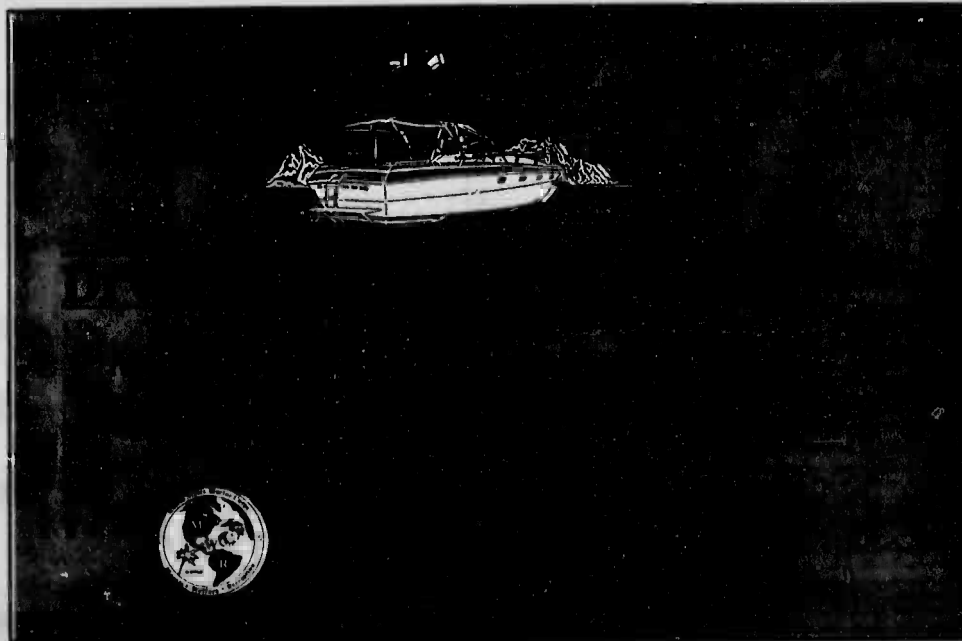

In Termite division action Sunday, the Rainbows edged the Terminators, 12-11.

form 4868. However, if you have already used the automatic two-month "out-of-country" extension, the IRS will only give two more months. Once the extension has been filed for, you may no longer use form 1040EZ or have the IRS compute your tax for you. When the extension is over, you must use form 1040A or 1040. If the four-month extension does not give you enough time to file, you can later ask for more time. But, you will have to show a very good reason and the IRS will have to specially approve it.

Penalties

If you do not file a return or request an extension of time for filing by April 17, you will be sorry. The Internal Revenue Code has sections that set out penalties for failure to file, late filing, filing a frivolous return, or even erroneous figuring of your tax bill. Ignorance of the law will be no defense.

If you have questions, contact your unit VITA representative or the Legal Assistance Office.

Finding the best way to fund your IRA could be one of the most important decisions in your life. You want to be sure that you will have enough money for your older years. Not just the money you'll need, but the money for the extras that make retirement pleasant and comfortable.

As a New York Life Agent, I can help you make that tough decision. You can choose to invest your money through:

- a guaranteed fixed annuity;
- a multi-funded annuity — mix a stock, bond, money market, and guaranteed fixed annuity;
- mutual funds;
- real estate limited partnerships;
- or oil and gas limited partnerships.

For more complete information, mail in the coupon or call me for prospectuses.

Youth Soccer

Youth Soccer registration for boys and girls ages 6-17 is through April 28 at the Dependent Recreation Center from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Applicants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Forms are available at the time of registration and a military ID or birth certificate is required.

Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. The maximum number of players per team is 15, so register early; late registrations will be put on a waiting list.

A place for your party

Dependent Recreation now offers some of its facilities in Building 1391 for rent for private parties. Also, with the opening of the new Community Center, Building 5082, in May, more space will be available. There are AV/meeting rooms and a spacious multipurpose room with an adjoining kitchen.

The facilities are still available to many authorized organizations at no charge, as in the past. The new arrangement is an expansion of Dependent Recreation's services to the K-Bay community. So, the next time you are planning a party, call 254-2963 for all the details.
