MEB Marines ‘get down’ at Mountain Warfare School

BGen. Mossman addresses issues, problems

Mossman broke the ice. “We have many things in common — what you’ve been through in the Marine Corps, and the things I did in the Air Force,” she said.

Among the most popular of the topics discussed were the simultaneous physical training of male and female Marines, child care, discrimination, and the restricting of women from certain occupational specialties. “We try to keep informed on all issues,” said BGen. Mossman. “During these meetings we have the opportunity to discuss topics and make a formal report. We get things done.”

BGen. Mossman reminded the service women that many of the problems they face in the service are the same elsewhere. She also promised no great change in the immediate future. “Some of these problems and will be solved in the next few days,” she assured the audience. “But many of them are difficult, and solutions require long-term planning.”

BGen. Mossman, who is the vice-chairman of the committee, expressed her gratitude to everyone who had brought to her attention issues that would be discussed at the formal DACEWITS meeting this spring.

Additional topics which will be discussed are women in security forces, the female career force, women in military support installations, and positive attitudes towards women in the Marine Corps.

V-neck no longer authorized

Marine Corps Bulletin 19129, Aug. 2, 1989, stated that the white V-neck undershirt is no longer authorized for women. The effective date of the V-neck ban was April 1, 1989, and is to be mandatory beginning Sept. 1 for the crew-neck undershirt.

Combat Correspondents sought

The Joint Public Affairs Office is looking for a few hard-charging, squared-away Marines for lateral moves into the Public Affairs Correspondent field. As a Combat Correspondent in the Public Affairs field, you need not only be able to fight in battle, but also be able to write about it afterward, in short, you should be a good fighter and a good writer.

Marines in combat arms MOSs and admin MOSs are preferred, and can receive no-bid training prior to attending formal schooling.

NJP or court-martial.

If you think you have what it takes to tell the Marine Corps story — be a Combat Correspondent — contact your career planner.

Children’s Carnival scheduled

The 7th annual Children’s Carnival, which will be held April 22 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., will highlight the Air Station’s observance of the Month of The Military Child. The Carnival will offer games and activities for young children and their families, and will be held at the Child Development Center, building 73, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Child Development Center will also be hosting the following events throughout the month.

Tax help

Bill Thomas, a retired Marine officer, will be available at the Legal Services Center as a special tax advisor Monday.

Monday is the last day for filing your tax returns.
The Marine Corps is a multi-phase operation that begins with hours of planning and hours of construction. It is round-the-clock work that requires doctors and corpsmen, ready to treat everything from life-threatening emergencies to "Pohang Crus". Basically, everything that can be done in a branch medical clinic can be accomplished in the field.

"We run a sick-call for Marines here on the pier," said Capt. A. C. Jesus, who is responsible for dispensing medications and coordinating medical care for patients. "We're here to take care of the sick and injured, and we do our best to provide a level of care that is equal to what you would find in a hospital."

Estimate what you owe, and please withdraw any amount withheld from your pay, and send that amount with your form 4868. If your estimate is very low, be prepared to pay. You will have to pay interest on the amount that you understate, and if you pay too late, you will also have to pay penalty tax.

Military personnel should use the automatic two-month "cost of service" extension for filing. The IRS will give the two-month extension for filing without a form 4868. However, you do file, attach a statement to your return stating why you were qualified to the automatic extension. This extension is good only for you, or your spouse, if you file jointly, or for the military living outside the United States. Any taxpayer, or outside the country, can file for and receive a two-month extension of time to file using the See LEGAL box.

Passover

Passover, the seder Jewish ceremonial meal, is observed on Wednesday and Thursday. This significant event commemorates the exodus of the Israelites from bondage. The preceding Thursday is the mean-gingless, seven-day festival of Unleavened Bread. During the celebration of this event, it is customary to place on the table an unfermented bread called matzoh. The square, cracklike matzoh is called matzoh. The square, crackerlike matzoh resembles what the Israelites ate during the long journey following their release from serva-GE.

Hawaii boxer punches to All-Service title

MCB CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. — You will not find Marine Eddie Donovan barracading self-doubt again.

"The self-doubt," the Hawaiian Marine will follow his upset heavyweight victory over defending Army champ Robert Noble of Fort Bragg, N.C., in the finals of the Armed Forces Boxing Championships at Guetter Memorial Field House March 5.

A total of five Navy and Marine Corps boxers turned titles in the four-day tournament, the finals of which were televised nationally on the Sports Channel America cable network.

Marine boxer Donovan in the wrestler's circle were Teddy Rundholtz of MCB Camp Pendleton, Calif., who upset four-time Army champion Army boxer Leonard Ball in the 125-pound class, and Arthur Martineau, 2nd Marine Division, who took a unanimous decision over Army's Laver Wheeler to regain the 129-pound title he last lost.

Donovan is a quiet man. His soft spoken words are brief and to the point.

He is a family man who's been married for eight years and is extremely proud of his 7-year-old son, who is active in bowling and karate.

A 6-footer who tipps the scales at 210 pounds, Donovan looks like a superheavyweight. But the All-Marine boxer doesn't even set like one.

He began his career in the Italian Provincias, a boxing tournament for armed forces personnel serving in the Mediterranean. For three years he finished first in his weight class. In Egypt, at last year's CESM competition, Donovan was the silver medalist. But since knocked ligaments, he was placed an alternate for last year's armed forces competition.

A 30-year-old, Mobile, Ala., native, Donovan is a squad leader for 2nd Sfn., 2nd Marines, 1st MMR, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, whose respect for his combi mates that of his teammates.

"Donovan works on us harder than any which we've ever had," he said. "He's given us the heart and soul to win the Marine Corps back on top (by winning) where it's supposed to be."

Donovan an All-Marine boxer keeps him away from his family more than he likes, he said, but they are very supportive.

"As long as I fight and come home afterward, it's all right with me," he said with a grin.

Donovan took two defeats last year's defending superheavyweight champ.

The year's training and the boxers' determination have put a couple of Marines back on top.
