In Memory

We will never forget those who paid the ultimate price for MNSTC-I.
General Petraeus, distinguished guests, thank you all for attending the change of command today. It is with great humility I take command of this unique combined, joint, and multinational organization—the Multi-National Security Transition Command – Iraq and the Nato Training Mission – Iraq.

We will remain committed to support the government of Iraq to recruit, train, and generate credible Iraqi Security Forces who will willingly defend their country against all enemies in order to protect the Iraqi population.

In concert with our Iraqi brothers and a distinguished team of professionals and experts from the 18 nations’ armies, navies, marines, air forces and civilians we will continue to produce security forces and enhance the ministerial capacity in the wazarat al deefa, wa wazarat al dak heleya.

NATO’s contributions will continue to add to the overall effort focusing on police training, academic training, mentorship and command and control efficiencies.

Progress is being made, it is tangible and improvements can be seen throughout the country daily. Iraqi Security Forces have been successful in the past and will be successful in the future … but challenges on the horizon remain. We will face these challenges together, issue by issue, side by side, hand in hand. Decisions made today will determine our success in the future.

I would like to personally thank Lt. Gen. Dubik for his uncommon leadership the last 13 months in command. Your support and advice was invaluable as Iraq Security Forces grew in number, capability and credibility. Thank you for incredible vision and guidance. We all wish you and your family continued success as you begin your next adventure.

Thank you all for attending the ceremony today.

U.S. Army Gen. David Petraeus
June 2004-September 2005

That deployment to Iraq followed his command of the 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault), during which he led the “Screaming Eagles” in combat throughout the first year of Operation Iraqi Freedom. He was deployed for one year on Operation Joint Forge in Bosnia, where he was the Assistant Chief of Staff for Operations of the NATO Stabilization Force and the Deputy Commander of the US Joint Interagency Counter-Terrorism Task Force-Bosnia.

He spent two years at Fort Bragg, N.C., serving first as the Assistant Division Commander for Operations of the 82nd Airborne Division and then as the Chief of Staff of XVIII Airborne Corps.

Petraeus was commissioned in the Infantry upon graduation from the United States Military Academy in 1974. He has held leadership positions in airborne, mechanized, and air assault infantry units in Europe and the United States, including command of a battalion in the 101st Airborne Division (Air Assault) and a brigade in the 82nd Airborne Division.

He has held a number of staff assignments: Aide to the Chief of Staff of the Army; battalion, brigade, and division operations officer; Military Assistant to the Supreme Allied Commander - Europe; Chief of Operations of the United Nations Force in Haiti; and Executive Assistant to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Petraeus was the General George C. Marshall Award winner as the top graduate of the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College Class of 1983. He subsequently earned MPA and Ph.D. degrees in international relations from Princeton University’s Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, and later served as an assistant professor of International Relations at the U.S. Military Academy. He also completed a fellowship at Georgetown University.

His awards include; the Defense Distinguished Service Medal, two awards of the Distinguished Service Medal, two awards of the Defense Superior Service Medal, four awards of the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star Medal for valor, the State Department Superior Honor Award, the NATO Meritorious Service Medal, and the Gold Award of the Iraqi Order of the Date Palm.

He is a Master Parachutist and is Air Assault and Ranger qualified. He has also earned the Combat Action Badge and French, British, and German Jump Wings.

In 2005 he was recognized by the U.S. News and World Report as one of America’s 25 Best Leaders.

Brigadier Johnny Torrens-Spence joined the Army in 1971 and was commissioned into the 5th Royal Inniskilling Dragoon Guards before attending St. Andrews University.

He returned to regimental duties in 1977 and served until 1984 as Platoon Commander, Company second in command, and then as a Company Commander; including a tenure as Adjutant of the North Irish Horse, a British Army Territorial unit; and as a member of the 1980 Joint Services Expedition to Ellesmere Island in the Canadian High Arctic.

After a year long military technology course in the UK, he attended the Indian Staff College in 1985 gaining a Masters degree in International Relations. This was followed by a series of staff appointments in the Ministry of Defence, mostly involving equipment, requirements definition and procurement.

He commanded his regiment, newly amalgamated and renamed The Royal Dragoon Guards, in Germany from 1993 to 1995. After an assignment as Project Manager of the Challenger 2 Main Battle Tank procurement programme, he was appointed in 1997 as the first commander of the newly formed British Army Reconnaissance Brigade.

More recently he was posted as the Military Attaché in Pakistan and with the British Embassy in Washington, DC.

In his career he has served on operational tours in Cyprus, Northern Ireland (2) and Bosnia; the latter as Chief G3 of SFOR in 1998.

His book “Historic Battlefields of Pakistan” was published in 2006 and he is currently working on a biography of Abu Rayhan Al Biruni, a 10th Century Islamic scholar from Khiva in modern Uzbekistan.

Married with 3 children, his hobbies include: fishing, hill-walking, military history and most definitely not golf.

Sergeant Major Daniel Terwilliger enlisted in July 1979 and attended basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot Parris Island, S.C. followed by Communications Electronics School in Twentynine Palms, Calif. and was assigned to the 8th Communications Battalion at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

In March 1983, Terwilliger attended Drill Instructor School at Parris Island and was assigned to H Co, 3rd Recruit Training Battalion.

Next he served with Communication Co, 3rd Marine Division, as a Communications Watch Officer and then SNCOIC of the Mobile Satellite Communications Unit, Division Headquarters.

In 1987 Terwilliger was transferred to Marine Corps Air Station Yuma, Ariz. at the Base Communications Center followed by NCO School Instructor and Squadron Training Officer. He challenged the Drill Instructor Course at Parris Island in 1990 and was assigned to 3rd Recruit Training Battalion where he served as a Senior Drill Instructor and Series Gunnery Sergeant.

Terwilliger was selected to attend the Coalition and Special Warfare Division School in Quantico, Va., in 1993 and was assigned to the Technical Assistance Field Team in Jubail, Saudi Arabia as a U.S. Marine Advisor to the Royal Saudi Marines. He returned to Parris Island in 1994 where he was assigned as the SNCOIC of the Depot Communications Center until his selection to first sergeant when he joined India Company, 3rd Recruit Training Battalion. Followed by assignment to the 2d Marine Regiment, 2d Marine Division, II Marine Expeditionary Force at Camp Lejeune, in 1997 where he served as a Company 1stSgt until transfer in 2001 to Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-122 at Marine Corps Air Station Beaufort, S.C.

After promotion to Sergeant Major in 2004 he was assigned to Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron-31 followed by Marine Aircraft Group-31 and assignment in October 2005 as an advisor to the 201st Corps of the Afghanistan National Army Embedded Training Team, and all supporting Coalition Forces in the 201st Corps Area of Operations.

In June 2006, Terwilliger resumed his duties as the MAG 31 Sergeant Major before assuming the duties as the Sergeant Major, Training and Education Command in February, 2007. He became the MNSTC-I Senior Enlisted Advisor May 27, 2008.
TAJI, Iraq - Senior Iraqi and Coalition force leaders celebrated the transfer of 1,000 M-1114 up-armored humvees to the Iraqi Security Forces at the Iraqi Army Services and Support Institute, here, June 26.

Iraqi National Security Advisor, Dr. Rubaie thanked U.S. Army Gen. David Petraeus, Multi-National Forces-Iraq commanding general, and the Coalition forces for their contributions. He said this is just another step to enable Iraq to be self-defending and self-reliant.

“We look forward to that day when we stand alone to fight the terrorists and join our forces with the American forces to fight the global war on terrorism,” Rubaie said.

Petraeus praised the Iraqi Security Forces for their advancements. The transfer of the humvees will help make the Iraqi Soldiers and Police safer, more mobile and more capable.

“No one now disputes the progress made in the security arena or in the political and economic arenas,” said Petraeus. “The transfer of the 1000th humvee is an important milestone for those who remember when Iraq had no up-armored humvees and virtually no vehicles.”

Just as important as the transfer of vehicles, IASSI trains the Iraqi Soldiers and police who will operate them. For each humvee that rolls out the gate, there are several newly trained drivers.

“Every week we get new humvees and new students,” said U.S. Army Staff Sgt. Anthony Parris who oversees the training. “They are supposed to do in-processing the first day then start training, but so many students and vehicles are arriving that”

Iraqi Soldiers learn about humvee operation from their Iraqi instructors at the Iraqi Army Services and Support Institute. After three days of training, they will take their M-1114 up-armored humvee into service.

A M-1114 up-armored humvee painted in Iraqi Ministry of Interior colors passes in review at a celebration of the transfer of 1000 up-armored Humvees to the Iraqi Security Forces.

The Iraqi National Police received 82 Ford F-550 cargo trucks Saturday, adding to their growing fleet of vehicles to help provide better protection to the citizens of Iraq.

Brig. Gen. Najiem Al Khazaaly, National Police spokesman said these new vehicles will help improve the logistical support capabilities to National Police units and aid them in responding faster to emergencies and operations.

The Directorate of Interior Affairs arranged the transfer of the vehicles to the NP through the Iraqi Security Forces Fund to speed up the development and capabilities of the NP force.

The Ford F-550 Superduty crew cab trucks have a one ton load capacity, a V-8 gas engine and a tarp covering the cargo area. Iraqi Brig. Gen. Alaa Noori Al A'azzawi, Sustainment Brigade commander said, “This truck will provide expanded and rapid transportation capabilities that we desperately need and is a great truck for our mission.”

The NP have played an important role in restoring peace in communities around Baghdad such as Doura, Adhamiyah and Sadr City in recent months. They have maintained a high visibility in the community to help develop connection with the local citizens and keep the peace.

During recent operations in Basrah, Mosul, Sadr City, and Amara, the NP were a key part of these successful operations that restored calm. They arrested several criminals and seized large quantities of weapons.

“Wherever the National Police have been assigned, they have taken over security in that area and proven their ability to restore peace and order,” said Senior Deputy Minister of the Ministry of Interior Adnan Al-Asadi.
BESMAYA, Iraq - Iraqi and Coalition forces leaders celebrated the opening of the new Combat Assault Course at the Besmaya Combat Training Center here, with a ribbon cutting ceremony June 25.

The new $281,000 obstacle course was dedicated to the Iraqi Army Non-Commissioned Officer Corps. This is an important milestone in the continuing development and growth of the Iraqi Army and will provide greater soldier training while developing NCO leadership within its ranks.

To emphasize the importance of the NCOs at the ceremony, there were no official speeches by the senior officers at the event. Instead an Iraqi Soldier read the Iraqi Soldier’s Creed followed by an Iraqi NCO who read the Iraqi Non-Commissioned Officer’s Creed:

I am an Iraqi Noncommissioned Officer
I lead soldiers
I am professional and highly experienced
I lead from the front
I am an example of discipline and high morals
I ensure (keep) the discipline of my Soldiers
I place the interests of my country and my soldiers over my own personal interests
I ensure that my soldiers are well trained and prepared to fight courageously
I work hard so the officers over me can accomplish their missions without having to accomplish mine
I obey those above me and work on gaining their trust
I will never compromise my integrity
I will never forget nor will I allow my brothers and colleagues to forget-- that we are professional Noncommissioned Officers
I will always be loyal to my country, to the people of Iraq, and to the army of Iraq
I am an Iraqi Noncommissioned Officer

After the ribbon was cut opening the course, the Soldiers and NCOs gave a demonstration for the assembled guests.

Iraqi Army Staff Lt. Gen. Hussain, Deputy Chief of Staff for Training of the Iraqi Joint Headquarters congratulated the men for their spirited performance.

Stage show at MoI highlights need for Iraqi national unity

By MNSTC-I Public Affairs Office

BAGHDAD – Actors singing and dancing across a stage are a rare scene in Baghdad these days, where there has been plenty of real-life drama. But, as security has improved dramatically in the past year, so has hope increased for a new peaceful Iraq.

A play performed at the Ministry of Interior June 30, highlighted the need for national unity and the role of the police in securing Iraq’s future.

The actors drew laughter and applause from the audience in the play about Iraq security with scenes about getting through checkpoints, feuding tribesmen, Iraqi Police and even two lovers forced apart because of tribal differences. In the play, the villain spreads rumors that cause the two villages to fight each other. After the policeman from one village saves the life of the policeman from the other village, they work together and capture the villain. Then they help the people resolve their differences and establish harmony among the two villages. The scene ends with dancing and joyful singing after two lovers from the villages get married.

“We have to be one nation,” shouts an actor portraying a Sunni tribesman. “Iraq needs to be stronger. We need more progress, we need to be one.”

In a speech before the opening of the show, Minister of Interior Jawad Bolani said the Ministry has undergone tremendous growth and change in the past two years.

“As the Ministry of Interior improves, all of Iraq will improve. The freedom of each individual will grow. All the departments of the Ministry of Interior, the Iraqi Police, the National Police, the Iraqi Civil Defense, all directorates are working for the citizens now on the borders, in the villages and in the cities.”

“Our message is the Iraqi Police will respond to his country. We should remember and thank all those in the Ministry of Interior who have given their blood for Iraq. They will not be forgotten. God bless the Iraqi people.”

Well known Iraqi actors presented a play at the Ministry of Interior recently about Iraq security and the desire for national unity.

ISOF, elite ISF units continue clean up operations in Amarah

BALAD, Iraq – Iraqi Special Operations Forces, the Hillah Special Weapons and Tactics team and the Baghdad National Emergency Response Unit are playing key roles in the Government of Iraq’s massive campaign to disrupt the criminal elements in the city of Amarah.

With the cooperation of tribal leaders and many of the local citizens, Iraqi Security Forces began setting the foundation to enforce the rule of law in the city, June 19. ISOF, Hillah SWAT and the Baghdad National ERU conducted several precision operations throughout the city targeting Special Groups criminals and abettors.

According to Iraqi Brig. Gen. Noa’amam Dakeel Jawad, the Iraqi National ERU commander, ISOF and ISF will continue to conduct operations in the area until the citizens of Amarah are safe and free from the criminals in their city.

“The ERU, ISOF and Hillah SWAT have all played a large role on missions of high importance,” he said. “Things have been successful and will continue to be.”

In the past several days, Jawad and his men, along with Hillah SWAT and ISOF, have detained more than 20 individuals on warrants issued by the Ministry of Interior.

The past weeks’ clearing efforts have allowed the Iraqi government to take control of Amarah and work to establish a lasting presence for security and stability. Many Special Groups criminals, particularly the top-level criminals, fled the area to avoid capture.

ISOF detain nine suspected AQI members throughout northern Iraq

The 3rd Iraqi Army Division detained five suspected AQI believed to be leaders of a large-scale smuggling operation, June 28. The suspects were detained at a suspected smuggling safe house in a village on the Syrian border northwest of Mosul. The IA confiscated approximately 1,400 cartons of cigarettes valued at around $49,000.00. Money generated from the black market sales of contraband is reportedly used to support criminal and foreign fighters.

In another operation in Balad, the 4th IA Div. detained a suspected AQI cell leader from the Rowad village area of Baghdad, June 27. The suspect, who was seeking refuge from Iraqi and Coalition forces’ clearing efforts in Baghdad, is believed to be involved in small-arms fire attacks against Iraqi and Coalition forces. Another suspected criminal was also detained during the operation.

In Samarra, approximately 125 kilometers north of Baghdad, U.S. Special Operations Forces recovered approximately 100 pounds of potassium nitrate bags from what is believed to be a former AQI safe house June 26.

In Tikrit, the Tikrit Special Weapons and Tactics unit conducted an operation to disrupt criminals and foreign fighters, and AQI logistical capabilities June 25. SWAT discovered, and later destroyed, a fuel point believed to provide logistical capabilities to criminals in the western part of the Jazeera Desert-Thar Thar region. During the same operation, SWAT also found a possible AQI bed-down site.

In Bayji, 40 kilometers northwest of Tikrit, the Bayji Emergency Service Unit detained two suspected criminals, one believed to be a facilitator for AQI and the Islamic State of Iraq, a front organization for AQI, June 23. They also confiscated a small weapons cache consisting of anti-tank mines, rocket propelled grenades, grenades, AK-47s, rockets and more than 5,000 assorted rounds of ammunition.

MND-B Soldiers, NPs discover weapons caches

BAGHDAD – Multi-National Division – Baghdad Soldiers and Iraqi National Police discovered two weapons caches June 29, in the Rashid district of southern Baghdad.

At approximately 12:45 p.m., police from the 5th Brigade, 2nd National Police Division discovered five 107 mm rockets, five 120 mm mortar rounds, six 81 mm mortar rounds, 20 60 mm mortar rounds, 10 blocks of plastic explosives, three rocket propelled grenades, and four rocket fuses in the Risalah neighborhood. The police moved the munitions to their compound where an explosives ordnance disposal unit handled the cache.

Soldiers from the 22nd Infantry Regiment, attached to the 1st Brigade Combat Team, 4th Infantry Division, received a tip from a concerned Iraqi citizen that led to the confiscation of an RPG launcher and three blocks of plastic explosives at approximately 1:45 p.m. in the Zubaida community. An EOD team hauled the munitions to a Coalition forces base for destruction.

NPs seize cache in New Baghdad

BAGHDAD – Iraqi National Police seized a cache in the New Baghdad security district of eastern Baghdad June 29.

While conducting a dismounted patrol in Muhalla 748, NPs assigned to the 8th Brigade, 2nd National Police Division received a tip from an area resident that led them to a cache. The NPs uncovered a cache containing improvised explosive devices, 21 60 mm mortars, 12 mortar fuses, mortar charges, 9 mm pistols, and an 11 mm pistol.

Multi-National Division – Baghdad PAO

IA, MND-B Soldiers seize munitions north, west of Baghdad

MND-B Soldiers with the 2nd Stryker Brigade Combat Team, 25th Infantry Division, seized a munitions cache near the town of Tarmiyah, north of Baghdad, at approximately 6:30 a.m. June 26. The cache consisted of a 120 mm mortar round, a 100 mm Illumination mortar round, four 57 mm high-explosive projectiles, six 107 mm HE rocket warheads, a surface-to-air missile, a 155 mm HE projectile, 118 22 mm HE mortar rounds, 24 57 mm rocket motors, an improvised explosive device, 300 electric blasting caps, empty artillery casings, various small-arms ammunition, explosives, propellants and other various IED-making materials.

Approximately four hours later, Soldiers with the 27th Inf. Regiment seized a nitric acid chemical cache west of Camp Taji at approximately 10:20 a.m. consisting of nine 5-gallon jugs of nitric acid.

Citizen tip leads MND-B forces to seize vehicle with 9 IRAMs

BAGHDAD – Multi-National Division – Baghdad Soldiers discovered a vehicle with 9 improvised rocket assisted mortars in the bed of a vehicle in the Kadamiyah district of Baghdad at approximately 4:40 p.m. June 24.

The Soldiers discovered the IRAMs based on a tip from a local Iraqi.

Iraqi and MND-B explosive ordnance disposal personnel were notified of the munitions-laden vehicle. They determined the best method to dispose of the ordnance was by controlled detonation.

A series of three controlled detonations rendered the rockets safe to approach. The controlled detonations were conducted safely, with no injuries to local Iraqis or damage to private property.

Then, the IRAMs were removed from the site for disposal.
