Great Day Knight Warriors! I hope each of you enjoyed Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. I’m not sure how you spent your time, but I was fortunate to visit the 288th Sappers. Chaplain Bird provided services around a crackling bright fire on Christmas Eve. It was a moment of perspective. On Christmas Day, MSG Turner and I woke up to a chilly early morning to view the start of the Southern Miss Golden Eagles prior to going on mission. Later that day, I consumed significant Christmas Dinner calories. That evening, I was honored to place the 168th Engineer Brigade patch on CPT Montgomery’s sleeve. The ceremony continued until each 288th Knight Warrior was combat inducted. After that, I made a call back to sweet home and spoke to my wife Shannon and two daughters Hannah and Sierra. I discovered they had just finished opening presents and were watching the Christmas Story. The bottom line of the Christmas Story, “Make sure you were your Eye Pro”. As the “New Year/2012” is here I ask that each of you never forget your priorities. Each of you must take a calibration test and make sure everything is in tune. Establish your priorities and become smarter at what you do. Set goals and stay committed. I wish the best for each of you and continue to contribute. You are the best! Stay focused, lean forward and never become complacent. God Bless.

LTC Michael N. Cleveland

We came here to do a very dangerous mission and we will complete that mission with pride and honor. We represent the Mississippi National Guard and the U.S. Army, as the 223rd Engineer Battalion we hold a high standard of excellence and pride as combat engineers. It is my personal mission to bring home all Soldiers’ safely. I would like to note, that each Soldier’s safety is my number one priority. With that being said, it is mandatory that each Soldier wears the proper personal protective gear. I would like to also thank all families for their dedication and support of the soldiers of the 223rd Engineer Battalion. Also, I would like to wish all family members a very happy holiday season and a wonderful New Year.

CSM Charles E. Donald
On December 11, 2011, transfer between the 8th Engineer Battalion from Fort Hood, TX and the 223rd Engineer Battalion from West Point, MS is completed. The RIP/TOA ceremony is a long-standing tradition between units of the United States Armed Forces, who while deployed transfer authority of their line units and area of operation to the newly arrived units in theatre. The process of the RIP/TOA takes several weeks. This ensured that the change of authority between the outgoing and incoming unit is done smoothly. The 8th Engineer Battalion, the 223rd Engineer Battalion as well as VIP representatives of Army’s chain of command attended the ceremony. This includes the Senior Engineer Brigadier General Brian Watson, part of U.S. Forces Afghanistan.

Lieutenant Colonel Morgan D. O’Rourke, 8th Engineer Battalion Commander and Lieutenant Colonel Michael N. Cleveland, 223rd Engineer Battalion Commander have worked closely together the past weeks to ensure that every Soldier has completed training for their respective duty assignment. Both LTC O’Rourke and LTC Cleveland are fully confident in the success of the RIP/TOA for the 223rd to continue the mission of Route Clearance in Afghanistan.

LTC Cleveland made remarks, to Task Force Knight Warriors “We will continue the mission in their honor with an offensive mindset. Knight warriors, keep the faith, be just and be fair to all. Do what is right and do what is good and always be passionate. --- When our colors are cased next year and new colors are flown, we all want to say that we have fought the good fight and that the foundation is firmer and stronger for our successors. God bless and God speed. Go Task Force Knights!

“With the steely glare of the ever constant Sapper, and the professionalism and adaptation of the Engineer Corps.”
While family and friends back home in the states were sound asleep; the Soldiers of the 288th Sapper Company out of Houston, Miss. were up doing route clearance missions. The company started its morning going to a mission brief, which is done each morning before they leave base. They also said a prayer before going out. This particular morning the 233rd Engineer Battalion’s Chaplain, ILT Jason Bird came out to say a special Christmas prayer for the Soldiers. “It was nice having the Chaplain here. The night before he gave a good sermon and we all hung out by the bonfire. It definitely made this Christmas being here special,” said Specialist Patrick Griffith of Amory, Miss.

The convoy started on their mission, clearing mostly unimproved roads around the Battle Space. When the convoy returned, it reported a successful uneventful, mission, meaning no IEDs were found or cleared. After a quick traditional Australian Christmas lunch (which consists of mainly seafood i.e. shrimp, mussels, salmon, and calamari), the Soldiers were outside in formation for their combat patch ceremony. This is where the battalion commander replaces the old patch on the subordinate unit’s uniforms with the current combat patch of the parent Unit, 168th Engineer Brigade out of Vicksburg Miss. LTC Michael Cleveland; Commander of Task Force Knight Battalion calls the company to attention and replaces the patch on CPT. Brenton Montgomery, the company commander.

“Having the combat patch ceremony on Christmas, made special. It wasn’t just any other day, it was Christmas day. What made it better is that this is my first combat patch. Makes me proud,” said Griffith.

On December 17, 2011 CPT Richard Revel relinquished command of the 530th Engineer Clearance Company and passed his command to CPT Christopher Blackburn.

The Change of Command ceremony is a formal event conducted between the outgoing and incoming commander. It is an official passing of responsibility and authority from the old commander to the new. This is generally conducted at all levels of command in the Army. During the ceremony the commanders perform the passing of the colors. The outgoing commander passes the unit’s flag to the new commander symbolizing the transfer of responsibilities. This imperative event is where the outgoing commander gets to address the unit for the last time and the incoming commander can officially speak to his company for the first time.

The ceremony was overseen by LTC Michael Cleveland, commander of Task Force Knight, 223rd Engineer Battalion. He made this statement about changing leadership, “I know it’s difficult giving up the pride of the unit, its colors that represent a legacy of excellence and the bloodhounds, that devote themselves to the mission with much at stake. On behalf of Task Force Knight we say thanks!”

Lieutenant Colonel Cleveland also said to Cpt. Blackburn, “Cpt. Blackburn, never ever take your responsibility lightly. You have a great unit that takes pride in its heritage and its mission. Bloodhound warriors, I ask that you give the same devotion and service to Cpt. Blackburn as you showed Cpt. Revel.”
From the medical perspective, the deployment is going well. Unfortunately this is also the time of year when the most illness occurs. We have not had many problems yet, and I think Soldiers are doing a good job of hand washing, staying clean, containing coughs, etc. Keep up the good work! We tend to be concentrated in small spaces, both vehicles and quarters, so keeping your germs to yourself is especially important. Pushing fluids also helps to prevent infections, so drink water! As you may know, sodas and other concentrated drinks tend to dry you out more, so limit those. If you are using protein supplements you must drink even more water to flush out your kidneys! You can only utilize the amount of protein your cells can use at a given time. Do not take protein supplements the way they direct on the package, they are trying to sell more! If you eat a healthy diet it does no good to take more than about 1/2 the dose they are trying to sell you. The rest goes out through your kidneys, and the concentration can cause damage. We may all want to get ripped, but not at the risk of going home on a dialysis machine. On the same note, we are seeing way too many sports injuries. If you don't play football at home, you need to go slow and be careful playing football, or any other sport here. This is especially true if you are over 30. Not calling anybody old, but if the shoe fits…

Most important of all, we need to watch out for each other. YOU are your buddy's safety net. If anyone seems down or is spending too much time isolated or alone, talk to them. The guy who is most likely to make a bad mistake might be the guy nobody wants to talk to. Think about it and do the right thing. Also, if you know somebody is having a problem, talk to them or get someone to talk to them. Again, take care of each other. If you feel yourself getting down or feeling hopeless or helpless you should ask for help. There is no shame in it. Talk to the chaplain, the PA, a senior NCO, or the medics wherever you are. We need to do all we can to see everybody go home safe.
On December 21, 2011, 1LT Joshua Williams was promoted to the rank of Captain. CPT Williams stated that “Life had taken him out of the state of Mississippi, but it would never take Mississippi out of him. Congratulations go out to CPT Williams and a Hearty Thank You for his service to the National Guard, The State of Mississippi and the U.S. Army.

Welch likes to go for runs, swim and play with his pets. He also enjoys helping out at his local church and going new places with his friends. He has a huge interest in watching moves, watching Anime and reading adventurous novels. “I like to live by the motto: ‘Don’t follow the standards, set the standard.’ It’s just something that reminds me to go above and beyond what people expect of me and what I am capable of. It’s very similar to the old Army motto: ‘Be all you can be,’ which is what I strive to do.”

Andrew Zaborowski was promoted from 1LT to CPT. He is the Executive Officer for the 713th EN CO (SAPPER) RCP.
As we turn the page on a new year, many of us will make New Year’s Resolutions for 2012. The resolutions will vary – some will resolve to lose weight, others to get out of debt, or start on a degree, or to quit smoking, or read more, etc. . . . We begin with high expectations and great commitment, but often find that both are gone within a matter of weeks. Could it be that the reason our resolutions don’t last until March is that we are operating with a faulty motivation? In Colossians 3:23, the Bible says “Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for men.” The phrase whatever you do covers every aspect of our lives. Whether it is our work, our hobbies, or even our resolutions, our motivation to be our best should not be simply to better ourselves or to please others. Our motivation for everything in our lives should pleasing God. God gave His best when He sent His Son for us. He certainly deserves the best that we can give Him. In light of that, consider making a resolution for 2012 that you will strive to give your best in everything as an act of worship to God. . . . . who knows, it may help you keep those other resolutions throughout the year!
